The Year of Spirit

the year of loyal Centralites in a yellow school bus following their team to away grounds, the year of hoarse voices shouting V-I-C-I-O-U-S at a pre-homecoming game pep rally, the year of faithful students in crepe-paper-filled halls battling out the Beat Urbana Decorating Contest, the year of sixty-four marching musicians sacrificing early morning hours for a frost-infested football field, the year of devoted class officers charging down the gym floor to win competition for their class, the year of one small but mighty majorette blowing her whistle to direct the Marching Maroons, the year of teachers in safari attire leading a tiger hunt in Combes Gym, the year of Mighty Maroons smashing down an orange and black striped jalopy, the year of sixty-two mini-skirted Pepettes shaking one-hundred-twenty-four stringy pompons, THE YEAR OF SPIRIT!

BEING

Seniors

We're the class of 69 we built CCHS spirit

We are the class . . . to graduate
 . . . that spent many long hours decorating halls, planning dances, and winning class competition
 . . . that lived for Friday night
 . . . who controlled the "Senior Couch"
 . . . who set the example for upcoming juniors and sophomores
 . . . they'll NEVER forget

Who are we?
 We are the 69 Seniors

FAR UPPER LEFT Senior Judy Smith prepares to

Senior slaves lose carefree summer days

Who... gave up fun filled summers to work long hours as clerks, guards, etc?

... learned the trials of the working world, including sore feet at 5:00 p.m.?

... now have great satisfaction after watching their bank accounts, college and clothing funds grow?

Who... Senior summer slaves

Seniors make sacrifices for Central spirit

Who...drags out of bed at 5:30 a.m. for breakfast at Uncle John's followed by marching around Centennial Field?
 ...stumbles home at 7:00 p.m. after back breaking work-outs assuring Central of a winning team?
 ...won the Homecoming class competition?
 ...won the banana-eating contest?
 ...are V-I-C-I-O-U-S?
 ...starred in the fall play, "My Three Angels"?
 ...led our Student Council?
 ...looked forward to the future while making the most of every minute here at Central?
 ...gave this school SPIRIT?

Underclass

V-I-C-T-O-R-Y junior, sophomore battle cry

Underclass can mean different things to sophomores and juniors. To a junior it is the year that you look up to one class and down to another. It means yelling a little louder in that old cheer, "Hey Sophomores." It means you have a junior prom to plan. It means getting the experience this year and being the champs next year. It means having been through the excitement of Beat Urbana Week once. It means being older than the youngest kids in school.

To a sophomore an underclassman means realizing you're finally in high school. It means getting told by upperclassmen—sophomores are getting shorter every year. It means learning all the old traditions. It means making new friends. It means trying your best but never making it in class competition. It means that learning gets much harder in high school. It means there's plenty of fun to be had in the next three years.

Their thoughts were victory

The year of being middlemen was filled with many unforgettable memories. Memories of the faces of defeated football players, a victoriously decorated second floor hall, never-ending Fridays, looking ahead to college, struggling prom plans, weekends filled with football games, cars and dances, and those never overlooked sleepless nights of intense studying.

FAR RIGHT The faces of Lila Gadbury, Dixie Etheridge and Carol Swanson beamed with enthusiasm on homecoming night. RIGHT Doug Allen and Nick Kelly are determined to make this game a victorious one.

Class of '71 anticipates being contest winners

Central's class of '71, often derogatorily called sophomores, provided the foundation for the school. This was their first year in high school: a year of being cut down by upperclassmen, enduring 70-minute classes, and getting stuck with the dirty work on any committees or clubs they dare join.

They may have been on the bottom of the class totem pole, but Central's sophomores have passed the test! They tried everything from continually losing hall decoration contests to "Big apple, little apple, little Q . . ." Yes, the class of '71, under the leadership of President, Tom Murray, Vice-President, Margie Graham, Secretary, Debbie Smith, Treasurer, Penny McEvoy, and faculty advisors, Miss Noonan and Mrs. Ward, will make GREAT upperclassmen.

ensions are eased and spirits are raised as these sophomore boys start a long walk home.

Administration

New principal promotes additional student rights

New Principal, Bernard P. Fleener, bridged the gap between administration and students. Mr. Fleener supported our teams with spirit and enthusiasm. He informally talked with students in order to understand their problems and thus make school more enjoyable for everyone.

Besides being a right-hand man to Mr. Fleener, Mr. Carl Nelson, Dean of Boys, was challenged with the sometimes unpleasant job of disciplining students.

Mrs. Bertha Darsham, Dean of Girls, was responsible for advising students with their school problems. She started the year off by talking to her girls and asking them to view the year with an optimistic outlook.

With the aid of Mr. Nelson and Mrs. Darsham, Mr. Fleener made his first year at Champaign Central High School a valuable one.

Unit 4 Directors

Defeated bond issue poses several problems

Unit 4 faced a crisis. The school system's one and one-half million dollar debt plus the defeated bond issue made it necessary for every area of study to be decreased. The school board and administrators had to re-proportion the budget which slightly affected this year's curriculum and will have a greater affect on next year's. Teachers were demanded to take on heavier schedules because of the reduction in faculty, and the size of classes was increased. The elimination of field trips was another way in which costs were cut. Many proposals have been made on further ways to reduce education costs for next year and all have been considered.

Counseling Help always available

Career Showcases sponsored by the Counselors kept the students up to date on careers and fields of interest. Although the counseling staff was reduced by one half because of the defeat of the bond referendum, they did not fail to offer students their assistance with both personal and scholastic problems. College representatives from schools all over the country visited Central to encourage students to further their education and to give vital information about their schools.

RIGHT Checking report cards can be a pleasant as well as an unpleasant job for Mr. Felty and Mr. Palmer.

Library Visual aids supplement education of students

Three new shelves of books were added to the library this year, making it more functional for students in all fields of study. A large number of periodicals, microfilms, and records were also available to aid students. The films acquired through the library were used in the classrooms for in-depth studies into various subjects. Thanks to our up-to-date library and well trained librarians, studying was more of a pleasure than a task to students.

Classroom projects stress creative thinking

Besides the usual book reports and essays, English students were given a chance to follow personal interests by doing individual projects. Free verse, abstract paintings, and short plays were a few of the ways the scholars expressed their views on readings and problems discussed in class. These projects added variety to the usual monotony of study.

Tape recorders were another help to English students. By taping their writings, they were able to learn how to speak correctly and effectively. The tapes were also fun to listen to.

Social Studies

Central predicts Nixon in mock political election

Campaign stickers, posters, and buttons covered the halls and lockers of Central during the political year, 1968. Politics was one of the most frequently discussed topics in social studies classes. These discussions climaxed in a mock presidential election which allowed the future voters to express their views. Movies, television specials and guest lecturers also helped students to learn about the world in which they live. The race issue, war in Vietnam, poverty, and student uprisings were contemporary problems that students examined and attempted to solve. Classes were highlighted by panels, debates, and dramatic presentations.

Science

Apollo Space Program stimulates curious minds

Science students had a chance "to go into orbit" this year with all the excitement concerning the Apollo 8 Mission. Following the program on television, physics scholars learned the "hows and whys" of the mission.

With a variety of classes to satisfy everyone's interests, the science department offers advanced courses in physics and chemistry as well as specialized courses in biology. The anatomy students learned all the parts of the body in case they ever get "broken up over something," while micro-biology pupils examined the germs infesting our bodies. These science classes enable students to better fulfill the needs of our technical society.

Mathematics

Slide rule, calculator: students' best friends

General Mathematics was a new course offered this year in the Math Department. Plans were also being made for courses in statistics. These are to provide a sufficient background for each student to continue whatever mathematical training he desires.

Overhead projectors, models, calculators, slide viewers, polar graph boards, and geometric solids were some of the equipment which made learning more interesting. These were used mainly as examples of the practical application of many mathematical concepts. Changing to more modern textbooks was also helpful for incorporation of ideas, symbols, language, and applications of the "new math."

Foreign Language

Students travel through appreciation, knowledge

As the modern communication systems make travel more common, Central's Foreign Language Department prepares its students for future travels. They not only learn languages of foreign lands, but are taught to appreciate and respect foreign cultures. By attending the International Supper, students develop tastes for various foods other than those of the United States. Talks by travelers and foreign people gave students insight into the everyday lives of other peoples.

With the use of modern laboratory equipment the young scholars were able to listen to their voices and perfect their accents. The five year courses offered in Spanish, French and German prepared the students for college and enabled them to study different facets of the language.

Music

Turtles pave way for musicians' spring tour

The enticing aroma of candy sold by CCHS's music department caused many students to overspend their budgets and ignore their diets. The money earned was used to pay for the choir and band tour.

Three levels of instrumental music were offered this year in order to give more students a chance for participation. To prepare people to understand music was the main objective of the department.

Art

Talent revealed through unconventional classes

Different, interesting, great and wild are adjectives commonly used to describe Central's art classes. Besides helping to uncover talent in students, the art teachers present many new and creative ideas in their teaching. The products of the art students' creativity are displayed throughout the halls all year. Some students are also fortunate enough to have their works displayed in public showings.

Exhibits from the wood, metals, and drafting departments were displayed.

Business Education

Music gives typing a contemporary beat

Business Education is the main division of vocational education in the Unit 4 System. This department enrolls more high school students than any other vocational department. To help students develop job skills and knowledge necessary for entry into the business world are some of the main objectives of the Business Department. The college bound students develop sufficient skills to help attain their own personal goals.

New equipment was incorporated into the Business Department. Eighteen new IBM typewriters and a calculator were added to the typing classes. Transcribing machines and electronic shorthand labs promoted individual progress in shorthand courses. Typing to music, another new technique, added life to classes while helping students to increase speed.

Physical Education

Park serves as meeting ground for PE classes

West Side Park was invaded by the Central Physical Education classes during the "warm" months of this year. From hour to hour the park changed from a football field to a speed-a-way field to a baseball diamond. McKinley M.C.A.'s swimming pool and tennis courts were other facilities used by the P.E. Department in expanding its curriculum.

Special Education

Young instructors offer different approach

The Educable Mentally Handicapped Department started off the school year with a group of new instructors. Bringing with them new ideas, the teachers sought to prepare students for the demands of society. An important change this year was a more structured departmentalized program with language, arts, social skills, math and vocations.

New courses in communication were begun. Many materials were acquired through banks, telephone companies, the chamber of commerce and other avenues likely to provide first hand materials for class use.

Occupational Exploration is also offered to special education students. This program enables students to plan and to discuss their future vocations.

Jobs count as credit

The main objective of Cooperative Vocational Education is to advance the level of vocational competence through a training program in cooperation between school, business, parent, and student. This program gives students a chance to earn money while still getting credit toward graduation.

Many new pieces of equipment at student training stations were used during the year to help students and staff in self-evaluation. Closed circuit television was also utilized in the classrooms.

Custodians, Cafeteria Staff

Never ending work

What's left of a school if you take away the students, books, staff, and curriculum? An obvious answer is the building. Naturally, since it houses all of these other things, it must be kept in the best condition possible. This is the task of the custodial department. General building maintenance encompasses such things as repairs, cleaning, heating, lighting, and maintenance of the school grounds. To complete all of these tasks custodians worked in shifts, so that several men were in the school building both day and night.

Custodians were not the only people who contributed to the non-academic part of students' lives; cafeteria women were also on the job. More than cooking and baking went into the finished products consumed during the three lunch periods. Each meal served in the cafeteria was balanced so that students received all or part of their daily and weekly nutritional requirements. The cafeteria staff includes cooks, bakers, cashiers, and servers.

Secretaries

Cheerful smiles greet instructors, students

No matter how big the problems, CCHS's secretaries always came through. A large staff of secretaries, composed of ladies whose first duty was to aid students, teachers, and administrators, performed various services throughout the school building. Along with regular office procedures such as typing, bookkeeping, and answering telephones, our secretaries handled student absences, appointments, student registration, and the daily bulletin. Even with all of their important duties, secretaries were always willing to give cheerful assistance to students.

Student Life

Action, enthusiasm typify our fabulous '69 year

Who doesn't remember dragging himself out of bed every morning just because it meant being one more day closer to Friday?

Looking back over 1968-1969 happy memories come to mind quickly: games, dates, parties and dances. Burning the midnight oil late Sunday was really worth putting off homework for a great weekend that went all too fast.

With an extra long Christmas vacation came six inches of snow which was good for one day of relaxation to be used for snow ball fights, tobogganing and skating at Maynard.

'68-'69 was a year we'll remember for all the wild, exciting times, and the quiet times of sitting for hours at Uncle John's, a small get together, or just plain bombing around.

Maroon

Selling ads, cropping pictures: 1969 Maroon

Putting out a complete and appealing yearbook has been the aim of the hardworking Maroon staff. Throughout this year fifth hours in Room 219 have been the scene of continuous activity—busy editors drawing layouts, writing headlines and identifying pictures; photographers developing film at the last minute; and our advisor and editor editing the final copy. Along with selling ads, the business staff has learned the importance of a good layout while changing the style of their section. These are some of the challenges we have had in putting our yearbook together. The climax to our many hours of work is this—the 1969 Maroon.

Satisfaction grew from involvement

The lights in Room 105 burned to the wee hours of the night with industrious Chronicle reporters hard at work. requests inspire energetic rehearsals

"Sing along with McNish" must have been the motto of the A Cappella choir during this past year. Eighty-five clear voices, combined during fifth hours, produced the now familiar strains of "Windy" and "Cherish." Learning songs was only a part of the activities; the members had hardly a moment to spare with providing entertainment in area schools and towns and selling candy to help support the cost of the concert tour. Only the anticipation of the tour eased the tensions during tryouts for next year's Madrigals, Troubadours, and Vocalettes.

Spirit presides over sleep, weather

Marching Band definitely proved to be for the enthusiasts only as temperatures dropped to 14° during football season. At 7:30 in the morning, practicing formations would not seem to be one's first desire—but Central Band members did not lack in spirit or number. New members attending classes attired in bathrobes, thongs, and batons successfully endured the traditional Baton Club initiation. They sold candy and calendars to help raise the money needed for the spring tour and musical. They sponsored an act in the Stunt Show and the Vice-Versa Dance. Two weekends greatly anticipated were those of the Spring musical "How To Succeed In Business Without Really Trying" and the concert tour to the Ozarks.

House of Representatives

Constitution develops independence and results

Creating a stronger relationship between students, faculty and the administration was the basis of all discussion at House meetings. Under the new constitution adopted this year, members felt they had more freedom and greater influence with decisions on their proposals. Homecoming Hop sufficed dough

In the eyes of Honor Society members the Homecoming Hop which they sponsored proved to be extremely successful. Along with a few customary bake sales, these members labeled with the nickname "bookworms" made enough money to cover the cost of their annual fling, the Honor Society Banquet. Probationary sophomore members were "tapped" in the fall and besides keeping a high scholastic average, became involved in the club's activities and a table at the International Supper.

Student Council Changes bring lively activities

Adjusting to changes in Council as well as throughout the school this year might have caused a setback in getting activities under way last fall. But under the leadership of Terri Nally, President, and Mrs. Richmond, sponsor, enthusiasm spread throughout Central. Homecoming, Beat Urbana Week, and the District convention in Bloomington were the first of the year's activities. Athletes, feminine?

Traditionally our athletic heroes proudly displayed their accomplishments through wearing their C Club jackets and letters. This year their originality construed new authority. Before school, after school, or during school, they could be found dominating the senior couches with their masculinity. Their Stunt Show performance, resembling "The Party" of Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In completely overwhelmed the audience with its jokes, puns, and go-go dancers. Spring brought plans for the Club dance and picnic.

Pepettes

Pepettes halt . . . 1,2!

Muddy shoes, red knees and short, white skirts were common characteristics of the loyal Pepettes on any Friday morning. Early morning practices under the watchful eye of Mrs. Major helped this collection of senior girls march on to perfection. Caught up in the flurry of withered pompons, the strain of holding back a tear, or yelling their hearts out during a victorious moment, the girls willingly pledged their support to "dear old CHS." The head Pepettes kept the girls in line as they marched at pre-games, half times and pep assemblies. Forming arches, portraying trees, making loyalty lines and creating spirit were some of the goals achieved by all sixty girls.

Creating a third-prize Homecoming float, cheering at pep assemblies, attending pre-game dinners and banquets added to the fun the squad had together. GAA Varied activities inspire friendships

Although sports were the core of GAA, cultivating friendships and planning social activities were equally important. Members had their choice of a variety of sports: bowling, fencing, golf, ice skating and swimming, in addition to the popular seasonal ones. Activities from this year included homecoming, International Supper, campout, slumber party and an Honors Banquet. Sports

Central gridmen feel split in two schools

In 1967 Champaign Senior High School divided to become Central and Centennial. With half of the students that travelled across town also went many football players. Last year, seniors were given a choice of which high school they wanted to attend. The majority chose Central, so the football team was not hurt. This year, districts were set up and each school received approximately the same amount of gridmen. Coach Tom Stewart anticipated the split and saw that it could mean losses, so in the fall of 1967 the sophomores were allowed to play with the varsity for the first time. Central still experienced a losing season with only two wins and seven losses.

Centennial and Central have yet to meet in competition, but already rivalries have formed. Central fans have shown pride in their team, as they stood behind the gridmen the whole football season. The Maroons have proven by their spirit and ability that they will rise above this season's record.

Young Maroons have disappointing season

Champaign Central's young Maroons finished their season with a disappointing record of 2 wins and 7 losses. Early losses to Streator and Joliet were discouraging, but a few changes in the plays renewed strength and Central bounced back to win both the Mattoon and Schlarman games. The year came to a close as Central met five conference opponents. Although the Maroons lost these games, the average point loss was only seven. The biggest disappointment came at Urbana when, under the swirling snow, the Mighty Maroons lost by six points in the last quarter. All games were met with new vigor and effort as each player gave 100% of himself.

Full laurels were deserved by seniors Craig Pierce, Terry Tanner, John Murray, Robin Gadbury, and Tom Gaskin. Stand-out juniors Pete Vriner, John Levanti, Paul Andrews and Eddie Chin are full of promise for next year. Coach Tom Stewart, along with assistants Tom Gher and Richard Wooley, instilled pride in the team as the many "near-victories" showed that the '68 team, as those before, really had Champaign spirit.

Muscle-clashing toil develops talent for Coach Gene Ward's sophomores gained valuable experience from their winning season which will help them in playing varsity football next year. The sophs compiled a record of five wins and two losses.

Central started their season with a morale-boosting win over Decatur MacArthur and followed with a shut-out victory over the Mattoon Greenwave. Urbana edged over the young gridmen in the next game by seven points. Later in the season Central gained revenge over the crosstown rivals by a score of 14-7. The sophomores then proceeded to down Stephen Decatur and Danville, allowing only one other loss to Decatur Eisenhower.

Sophomore players Jim Koss, Tom Murray, Ron Chambers, and Richard Witt were rewarded for their long hours of muscle-clashing practice when added to the varsity squad. The future of Champaign Central's football squad lies with its sophomores.

Central's '68 junior varsity football season developed many fine football players. Excellent offensive players included Ron Chambers, the team's leading ground gainer, and quarterback John Parks. Giving outstanding defensive action were seniors Steve Michael and Leroy Chin.

The 1-3-1 record is not very impressive, but the junior varsity players learned by experience from the inter-conference battles. The gridmen had tough luck in losing their first game, but bounced back to win their second game against Decatur. Out of next two games with Danville and Stephen Decatur, one was lost and the other tied, respectively. In the finale facing Bloomington, Central was crushed as they lost by one point in the last few minutes of play.

Cross Country

CHS harriers try harder, end season

Coach Fred Schooley's Cross Country team "tried harder" but still ended their season with five losses and four wins in dual competition. Two wins came against Rantoul and one against Bloomington. Much to the dismay of Central, Urbana won both of their outings while the other two losses came from Danville. This season was a major improvement over last year's losing streak. Coach Schooley was quite satisfied with the fine effort the team put forth.

Senior Tom Good, who captured ninth place, along with Marc Cutright, Terrance LaFoe, Chas Wilson, and Clyde Turner, placed Central fourth in the district. Marc Cutright ran for eighth place to lead the team to fifth place in the conference. In the Paris and Peoria Invitationals, Champaign won sixth and fifth place honors, respectively. Unfortunately Chuck Bayne, who showed much promise, was injured early in the season.

Next year the future of Champaign's Cross Country team looks very bright. Three junior lettermen, Marc Cutright, Terrance LaFoe and Chas Wilson will be returning.

Central matmen sweat off pounds, place third

Champaign's wrestling team had a building season this year with a 7-5-1 record for dual meets. The squad converted the girls' gym into a modified sauna bath, where they sweated off pounds while replacing them with mat experience and strategy. The fine coaching of Don Pittman and his assistant, Tom Gher, built the boys into first rate grapplers.

Next year's team will be at a loss without seniors Kip Mecum, John Hecker, Pat Fitzgerald, Fred McHugh, John Murray, and Robin Gadbury. This year's underclassmen will add great strength to the future wrestling team. Andy Warner, Mike Petry, Tom Murray, Dave Ashby, and Jerry Sims have added and developed into the necessary strength Central needs. Extra backing by the student body also helped the grapplers' efforts and as a hard working squad overcame many obstacles and turned the year into a winning season.

lite eight berth shines bright for cagers

Champaign Central's basketball team gave fast start to their season by winning nine consecutive games, including winning the Turkey tournament. These victories earned a number one state rating for the Maroons. Their first loss came in the championship game at the Centralia tournament but was followed by seven wins out of the next nine games played. The Maroons were led by 6'5" senior Clyde Turner, whose many talents ranked him as one of the best players in the state. Other seniors were Dave White, Joe McNeal, Arberry Barnes, Terry Tanner and Dave Henry. Rounding out the excellent team were sophomore Jesse McNeal and Bobby Jo Jackson ready to fill in their talents at any time. The fabulous desire to win by the 1968-69 Maroons led Central in a real Year of Spirit.

Clyde Turner

Central's number one scorer shoots first in state tournament

Clyde Turner officially became the highest scorer in Central High School's history by breaking the record set by Ted Beach in 1944. He achieved this feat at the Champaign-Urbana game, February 4, by sinking a 20 foot jump shot. Time-out was called by Champaign and the new record holder received congratulations from its old owner.

Clyde has developed into a fine defensive player as well as a high scorer. His versatility and excellent team work has made him one of the outstanding players in the state. He achieved the highest total points scored in the IHSA State Basketball Tournament with 91 points which boosted his prep total to 305.

Sophomore Basketball

Young cagers display varsity potential

Champaign Central's sophomore cagers formed a good foundation for excellent future varsity squads. Through patience, persistence and plenty of practice, Coach Charlie Due gave the team valuable experience for varsity play. The young Maroons successfully completed the season with 11 wins and 4 losses.

Tom Geissler and Bobby Jo Jackson were two outstanding players who with their talents added strength to the varsity squad. They will prove to be invaluable as juniors on next year's team. Other outstanding players were Richard Witt, Jim Koss, Ron Oliver, Ron Terry and Willie Newbern. Other sophomores provided good back-up and replacement material.

Building year helps lay foundation for tankmen

In his second year as swim coach, Dick Mulvihill led a building year which gave some good experience to the sophomore-filled squad. Senior letterman Bob Carpenter tried his best for his final year at Central, and senior diver John McCulley finished the season with only one setback in competition. Senior Jeff McGill and junior Don Delbert also put in good performances for the Maroon tankmen. CHS finished 4-12 in dual competition and looks ahead for more successful seasons.

Golf

Putting power gives linksmen edge in meets

Running up stairs and practicing with a net proved helpful for the improving golf team. Second-year coach Richard Wooley hoped to succeed in bettering last season's record. Returning lettermen Scott Glover and Rob Eisner, with the assistance of Tim Nally, have done well for the linksmen. The sophomore team members surely look promising for future years and gave Mr. Wooley a building block. Senior lettermen, Bob Hepler and Jeff McGill, climaxed their golf seasons with superb performance in both dual competition and tournament play.

LEFT Coach Richard Wooley and returning lettermen Scott Glover, Rob Eisner, Jeff McGill and Bob Hepler swing into another season.

Tennis

Netmen volley for six key varsity positions

The Champaign Central tennis team, deeply hurt by last year's graduation, found the going rough in this rebuilding year. Coach Mulvihill had only two returning lettermen, Ed Chin and Jim Lewis. They were placed in number one and two positions consecutively. The other four spots left open on varsity were evenly fought for by John Parks, Rick Tanner, Mark Holste, Bill Campo, Jerry Gorman and a handful of sophomores who were exposed to competitive tennis for the first time.

Coach Mulvihill spent most of the time teaching the fundamentals of the game and trying to develop consistency and confidence in his players.

Hopes for a brighter future increased with each passing week as poise and technique became a part of a good number of the CHS netmen's games.

Running through mud, ice ready thinclads

Renewed enthusiasm coupled with promising talent made this year's track squad a strong contender in the Big 12 title race. Coach Seaman relied on lettermen Paul Andrew, Chuck Bayne, Bruce Garret, and Tom Good, along with veterans Marc Cutright, Dave Henry, Terry Tanner, and Jackie Vonner to pace the cindermen into Conference and District contention. Seaman was pleased with the great interest shown by sophomores and comments that there is great promise among them. Early spring training, the great amount of enthusiasm, and the talent from both veterans and newcomers made this year's track team a satisfying one for Central mentor, Paul Seaman, and assistants Coleman Carrodine and Fred Schooley.

Baseball

Lettermen prepare for fourth Big 12 title

Returning lettermen are Maroon diamond-men's power as they anticipate equaling their 3rd place finish in State finals and capturing their 4th Big 12 title.

Early season practice of weight-lifting, bat-swinging, and stair-climbing conditions conference winners.

Experience in every position will prove to be a major factor in Big 12 games. Returning pitcher Dave White and hitters Dan Bone, Chris Hansen, Steve Mayberry, and Craig Pierce provide the needed experience and unity to make a strong team. Other hopeful players are juniors Dave Ashby, Dan Carlier and Steve LaRoque along with many sophomore prospects.
