I've heard it said that when a female child is born, that child holds the heart of her father in the palm of her hands for life. As your mother I want you to know that you have been my heart, my life, my pride, and my joy since the day you were born. I am so proud that God has entrusted you to me and your father all these years.

My daughter, my baby look how you have grown, you are now a young woman, facing your own chapters in life. I hope that you will remember what I would tell you when you were feeling down,

"Never let anyone, not even me try to tell you who and what you are." Life has a lot in store for you baby; I hope that you are ready. I'm always, and always will be here for you.

Love, Mom

Alicia

Eighteen years ago you were born and from that day forward I have been your #1 fan. When the nurse took you from the delivery room, I was right there with you; we were inseparable from that day on.

I remember when you use to ask, "Daddy where are we going?" every time I picked up my keys. We have always been close. No one can every take your place or come between us. Keep challenging yourself, and never settle for less; and you will succeed. Keep God first in your life. Always remember, your daddy love you.

Love Dad

Alicia,

I have worked along side of you; I've watched you grow into the young woman you are today. I shared your joy, and I have shared your pain. It has been a pleasure to watch you grow. Go on, accomplish your goals, and don't allow life's little side tracks to get in your way, make me proud.

Mama

'Licia,

You will always be my little sister and I will always be here for you. Remember what you want to achieve in life and it will be done.
