Underclass

Enthusiasm and interest spark the junior class officers: Ed Miller, president; Dave Fisher, vice-president; Leslie Hamilton, secretary; and Susie Osborn, treasurer.

Junior Class

Mrs. Dorothy Potter Swindell and Mr. William Bridgeland, class advisers.

From the day school resumed in September to the very last moments in May, the junior class planned and enthusiastically executed the many projects which they undertook. Leading the class in these activities were class officers Ed Miller, president; Dave Fisher, vice-president; Leslie Hamilton, secretary; and Susie Osborn, treasurer. Advisers for the junior class were Mrs. Dorothy Swindell and Mr. William Bridgeland.

Always ready for fun, the juniors helped spark the varsity team on to victory, held a chili supper as a money raising project for the prom, and participated with great enthusiasm in various plays and musical productions.

This enthusiastic class had a serious side also. Already the pressure of college was present, and they took the PSAT and other tests to prepare themselves for the long hours of college boards ahead of them. In late spring, many juniors swelled the ranks of the CHS honoraries and were inducted into Thespians, Quill and Scroll and National Honor Society. The climax of this wonderful year was the Junior Senior Prom, an unforgettable night for all who attended. The junior class now look forward with eagerness to their senior and last year of high school.

Although college is still two years away, Bill Unzicker, Barb Egbert, Jill Haines and Allan Lappin stroll over the U. of I. campus grounds to observe the many familiar and traditional buildings of their future alma mater.

These mischievous juniors did not let Halloween go by without pulling a prank on a poor befuddled senior, Pete Bates.

Our High School Years, Moments of...

THOUGHTFULNESS

HAPPINESS

SURPRISE

Sophomore Class

"Golly, we're finally sophomores!" was an often heard comment in the halls of CHS when school resumed in September. The newcomers, who now exclaimed in awe and admiration, were the "Seniors of 1965" as they called themselves with an air of importance—and important they were.

Orientation Day, the Howdy Hop, and assistance from upperclassmen and faculty all aided the sophomores in becoming acquainted with CHS, but it soon became evident that the "little sophomore" needed no assistance when it came to pep and enthusiasm. Under the capable leadership of class officers Nancy Easterbrook, president; Sara Kretschmer, vice-president; Terry Flewelling, secretary; and Kathy Owens, treasurer, this eager class sparked the interest in every activity from athletic events to musical productions. Advisers for the class of 1965 were Mrs. Helen Kohlmeier and Mr. Harold Jester.

It was a wonderful year, from the first exciting day to the last unforgettable moment when the sophomores realized that their first year of high school was coming to a close. Many new friendships had been made, much knowledge had been gained, and now the sophomores could look forward to their next two years at CHS.

Mrs. Helen Kohlmeier and Mr. Harold Jester, class advisers.
