We Are Central High

We, finally unified to a single loyalty, are the essence of Central High. For three years the spirit of Champaign High was divided, but now each student belongs to only one school. We are Central High. We are the spirit of learning and the spirit of youth. We follow traditions but we want to start new ones that exemplify us.

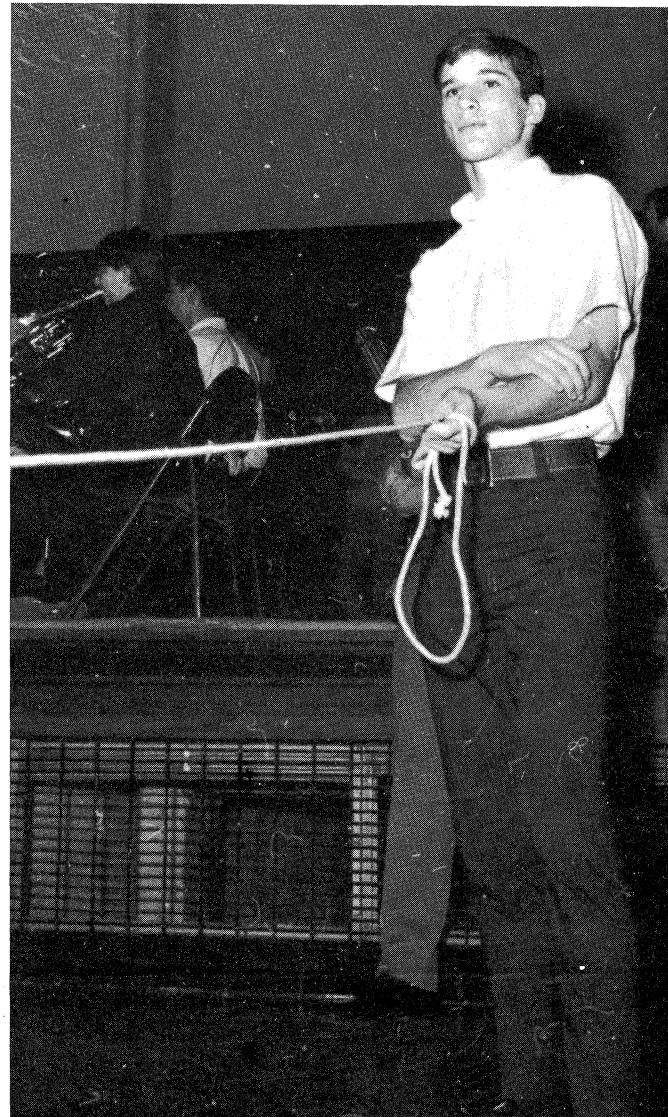

The classes of the new Central High are unique: independent, devoted, aggressive, yet casual. We are proud to say, "We are Central High."

We have many traditions that have been handed down to us for one hundred years: the spirit of competition, the vigor to win, and poise in defeat. We have the experience to support what we believe, but to protest what is against our standards. We are opinionated and thoughtful. These are the traditions of Central High.

We are an old school under a new name, so we have problems new and different from any we have faced before. We meet these challenges and try to find the best answer for every problem. There are changes in Central High, some of which we like, others which we dislike. We hesitate, but finally we accept the changes. We, as individuals, also change. Sometimes our changes are successful—but sometimes we fail. These are more challenges we must meet because, "We are Central High."

These are the qualities, problems, and aspirations that we all share as students of Central High. For the seniors these traits may be subordinate to busy lives, but as commencement night approaches, the memories start to swell and revive. The spirited juniors test these traditions and finally conclude that they can build upon the experiences of the hundred classes before them. Many of the sophomores find themselves overwhelmed by those very traditions the seniors take for granted. Yet they test those traditions and soon pattern them into their school life, capturing the enthusiasm of those who have gone before. This is the story of this year, 1967-68, the first year we can boast, "We are Central High."

Sparkling Fridays; Drab Mondays

CCHS students jive at Friday night hop.

CROWD reactions may often determine basketball game results even if they are disappointing.

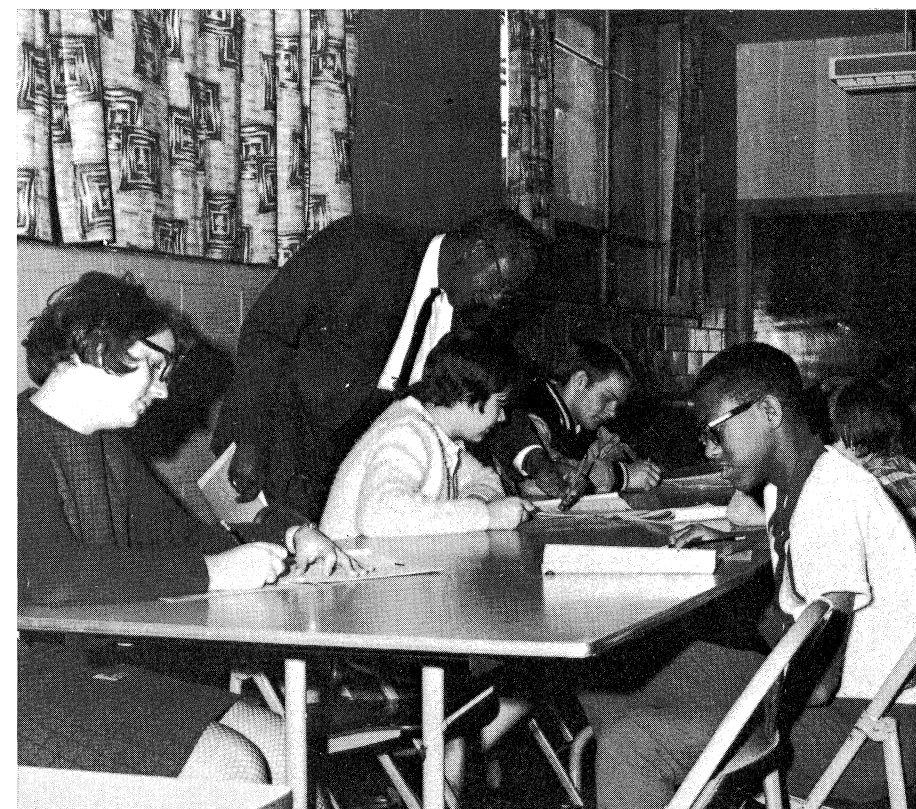

Typical CCHS weekends were filled with action from Friday afternoon dismissal to Monday's reluctant return to studies. A football or basketball game on Friday night got the weekend's activities under way. Saturdays with an aspiring job, shopping excursion, movie or party seemed to be the height of weekend with pool and bowling on Sunday.

During the school week, CCHS'ers hit the books and settled down to a more routine schedule. Guys continued to make the scene dressed just as they were Saturday night, but the girls found it necessary to alter their Monday through Friday wardrobe somewhat. Those divided skirts and ultra-minis were pushed to the back of the closet, and the more conservative look prevailed.

Those jiffy lunches at Mr. Quik were replaced by cafeteria hot plates. Gone were the good old days of open lunches and here were the perpetual standing in long line days of closed ones.

BRUCE Garret and Alfie Marfort typify the junior look.

DESPITE the lure of the bright autumn Saturday mornings, CCHS'ers confine themselves to the atmosphere of college entrance tests.

SOPHOMORE girls clutter the halls to talk about a special boy, a favorite class or . . . to sleep?

Skits, Floats, Game Spark Homecoming

Halls adorned with crepe paper, class officers' valiant attempts to burst balloons and the senior girls' skit all added excitement but amusement to the activities of Homecoming week. The announcement of the king and queen finalists highlighted Friday's pep assembly. Although spirits were slightly dampened by the football team's loss to Schlarman, Central High students applauded the election of Jerry Kurasek and Patty Dukes as 1967's Homecoming King and Queen. The unofficial coronation of Saturday night's dance climaxed the entire week.

AMIDST the realm of ballons and crepe paper, newly crowned King Jerry Kurasek and Queen Patty Dukes join 1962 royaltys Carl Punkay and Tula Vaream to reign over the Homecoming Dance, "Over the Rainbow."

PATTY Bash plays the "real" Charley's Aunt.

MASKED by costumes and make-up, Sandie Gish, Mike Hendricks, and Jim Bash assumed false identities in Wig 'n Paint's fall play "Charley's Aunt."

CCHS Fall Play Merits Applause

In "Charley's Aunt," the 1967 fall play, a farcical situation about mixed identities and money sets the stage for comedy. Two young ladies accept a dinner invitation, assuming that Charley's aunt would chaperone. In the aunt's unexpected absence, a friend disguises himself to take her place; ironically, the girls' uncle, who escorts them, tries to woo the rich "aunt."

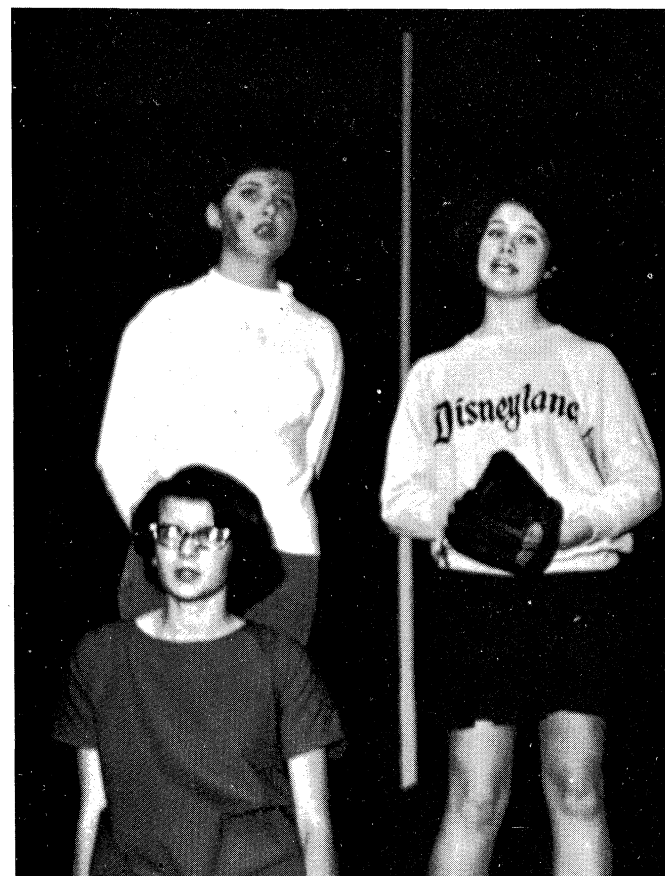

Ken Francis and Mike Hendricks played the two young gentlemen; Sandie Gish and Mary Jane Bloomer portrayed the young women. Jeff McGill, the false aunt, was the counterpart of Patty Bash, the boy's real aunt. The valet, whose confusion added humor to the situation, was portrayed by Steve LaRocque. Ken Francis' father was played by Howard Reeder, and Mary Block was Patty's traveling companion.

SOUL music played by the Mellow Tones, which won first place for the non-organizational group, set the pace for the entire stunt show.

1968 Miss America at Stunt Show

DEBBIE GOHL, Patty Hendrix and Nancy Kennedy join to make Snoopy's day a little more special.

"100 Years of Progress" was the theme of the 1967 Stunt Show. The highlight of the evening was the farcical C-Club act. These lettermen had a lot to live up to following last year's act but they came through and presented their rendition of former bathing beauty contest winners. Tom Bennett, clad in a brief leopard bikini, was their interpretation of what was to come in the 1968 pageant.

The "Mellow Tones" added the professional touch to the evening as they belted out some sweet soul music. The effect was great enough to warrant the first place trophy for the non-organizational acts. The Student Council Shag-Line landed the first place trophy for the sponsored groups. Council entered unexpectedly throughout the show as cavemen, cowboys, flappers, and finally protesters. Although stunt show's preceding presentations failed to render it highly professional, 1967 proved bigger and better than ever.

"Beat Urbana Week" Stirs Spirit

Charlie Brown and the Peanuts characters were highlighted as loyal CCHS'ers witnessed Central's traditional "Beat Urbana Week". Students displayed support of their team by wearing the color of the day. Both new and old activities were featured in the assembly on Friday. The junior girls presented the annual Tiger Hunt and captivated the excitement of the student body. To everyone's satisfaction, class officers competed in a "peanut butter sandwich-eating contest". The Champaign-Urbana game Friday night at Centennial Field climaxed the week's activities. Though the Maroons lost, 33-20, we were victorious in sharing the Big Twelve Title.

"WHO ME ... a tiger"? exclaimed Marilyn Catlin as she participated in the Junior Girls' Skit.

Ilse Samples American Customs

Elaine Massock, this year's exchangee representing Central High, spent a summer and semester living in Jonkoping, Sweden. Ilse Ruhmkorf was Central's exchange student from Hanover, Germany. Junior Mary Jane Bloomer and her family hosted Ilse. Both Elaine and Ilse shared the privilege and challenge of adjusting to unfamiliar customs.

CCHS planned its first foreign exchange weekend. Paxton, Fisher, Unity, Danville, Rantoul, Farmer City, Urbana, and Centennial schools sent exchange students from Vietnam, Germany, Holland, Sweden, Norway, Guatemala, and South Africa. Each student stayed with a Central host, visited school Friday, and attended such activities as an open house, a coke party, a football game, and a sock hop. It is also rumored that a few got their first glimpse of U.S. T.P.-ing!

Anxious to Learn, Willing to Listen

The Intra-State Exchange Committee, headed by Linda Smith and sponsored by Miss Betty Didcoct, offered students a chance to visit another Illinois high school for a week, meet new people, and exchange ideas. Exchangees were chosen by a House of Representatives committee according to their interest in extra curricular activities, knowledge of Champaign High, ability to adapt to new surroundings, and interest in all types of people. Central exchanged and hosted 2 students from high schools in Collinsville, Springfield, Decatur, Waukegan, and Galesburg.

State and Nation Salute Our Seniors

The Boys' and Girls' Annual State Convention was held this summer in Chicago. The students representing Champaign Central, Bob Mulcahey, Bruce Elliott, Pat Dorsey, Jim Williamson, Jerry Kurasek, and Elaine Massock were chosen by students and sponsored by the American Legion.

Juniors throughout the nation took part in the initial test for the National Merit Scholarship. Students who attained high scores, received financial assistance in college. CCHS claimed three semi-finalists: Carolyn Berger, Barbara Koester, and Stan Honn.

CCHS Aids Mentally Handicapped

Central High opened the long looked forward to season of snowball fights, caroling, and good cheer with the announcement of Paula Davis as Miss Merry Christmas and her court Carolyn Berger, Cheryl Faust, Rita Nachtmann, and Marilyn Terrill. After weeks of penny pinching, shoppers went on their annual gift purchasing spree. Even so, CCHS'ers helped Student Council earn money for Lincoln State School for the mentally handicapped. Several projects were a benefit hop and a candy cane sale in addition to donations. Students contributed in a Christmas card drive for soldiers in Vietnam. As a contrast to studies, students participated in a Christmas dance at Old Orchard Lanes and the Centralia Basketball Tournament.

The first year of Campaign Central's Student Council was characterized by few regrets, many triumphs, and exposure to new experiences. Members organized assemblies, elections, Homecoming, Beat Urbana Weeks, Howdy Hop, the Teacher's Tea, and the Christmas project. A relations committee was a first, established for the purpose of improving public relations, and a committee was formed to revise the student handbook. A lack of funds resulted in a supreme brainstorming effort for money making projects. The money earned by selling Christmas candles, calendars, and car stickers helped to finance the many projects throughout the year.

Different Format Bolsters House

House of Representatives went through a series of big changes this year. Starting second semester, House regrouped itself into a service organization. Moneymaking and social activities were dropped in favor of working towards better student and administration communication.

The change that hoped to put force into the House was the once a month meeting held during school time. These meetings enabled Representatives to bring ideas to the House for action.

The House underwent several organizational changes this year which included meetings during school instead of after. Miss Betty Didcott, sponsor, led the group in discussing issues like open lunches and dress code.

New Council Unites Four C-U Schools

Last year's Tri-high Council plus representatives from Centennial, formed this year's Inter-high Council. Since a new high school was added, the council members held many organizational meetings at the beginning of the year to discuss problems and make suggestions for the new Council. The relationships between the four high schools were improved by such activities as the annual formal dance and the student exchanges that gave students opportunities to visit other schools.

ODDLY enough, Sandie Gish and Kathy Hackett, Urbana exchangee, are tickled over a popcorn ball.

Honor Society Taps Academic Elite

SPONSORING the Homecoming Hop involves a little money counting but Marsha Wildemuth, Sharon Robinson and Mr. Coates are equal to the task.

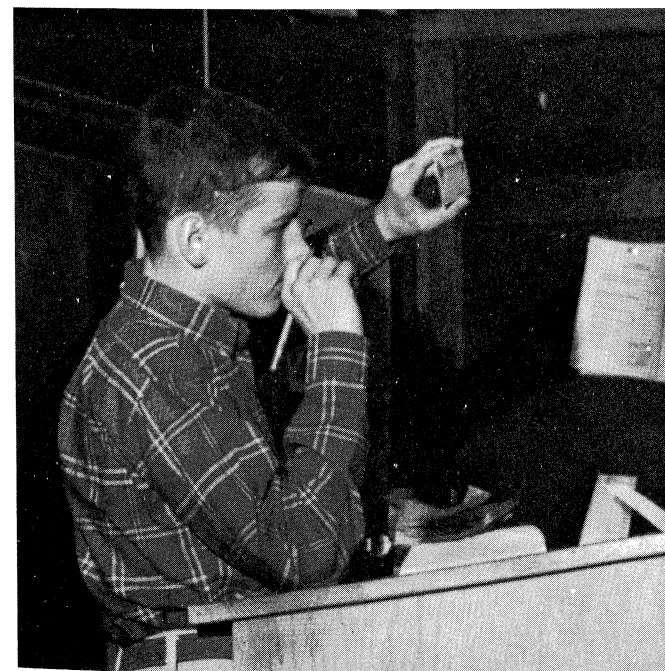

Champaign Central's chapter of National Honor Society once again showed itself to be an active participant in school affairs, not an exclusive club of "brains." In addition to holding its annual banquet and "tapping" session of new members, Honor Society sponsored the Homecoming Hop and a table of Southern U.S.A. food at the International Supper. Under the direction of sponsor Mr. Coates and president Marge Stevens, it has more than met national standards, as well as local expectations.

Lively Key Club Aids Community

If you recognized any boys ringing Christmas bells for the Salvation Army, you can be sure that the Key Club was once again having one of its many service projects. Sponsored by the Kiwanis Clubs International, the teen-age administered organization held a party for underprivileged children, packed cartons containing pamphlets explaining the American Cancer Society and collected money for UNICEF. The club began the year by having a joint meeting with the University of Illinois' Circle K, an affiliation of Key Club on the college level, to discuss ways to serve the youth and community.

New Club Studies Negro History

The Afro-American Club, a unique organization at Champaign Central, was formed this year. Films, reports and speakers aided the club in achieving its purpose, to acquaint today's youth with Negro history. Popcorn balls and taffy apples were sold regularly after school by members of the club in order to finance their trip to the Johnson Printing Company in Chicago, publisher of Ebony magazine.

Human Relations Club was considerably smaller this year, but this hampered them little. Combined meetings with Centennial made possible a fascinating panel discussion on hippies, featuring a few local hippie-types. With the second semester came the planning for a Human Relations Conference for area schools, and a talk on the future of cybernetics in America.

Staff's Course

Ever hear a persistent buzzing after school and wonder where it was coming from? Undoubtedly it was from the beehive of activity found in Room 105, the home of the newspaper that no CCHS student was ever without, the CHRONICLE.

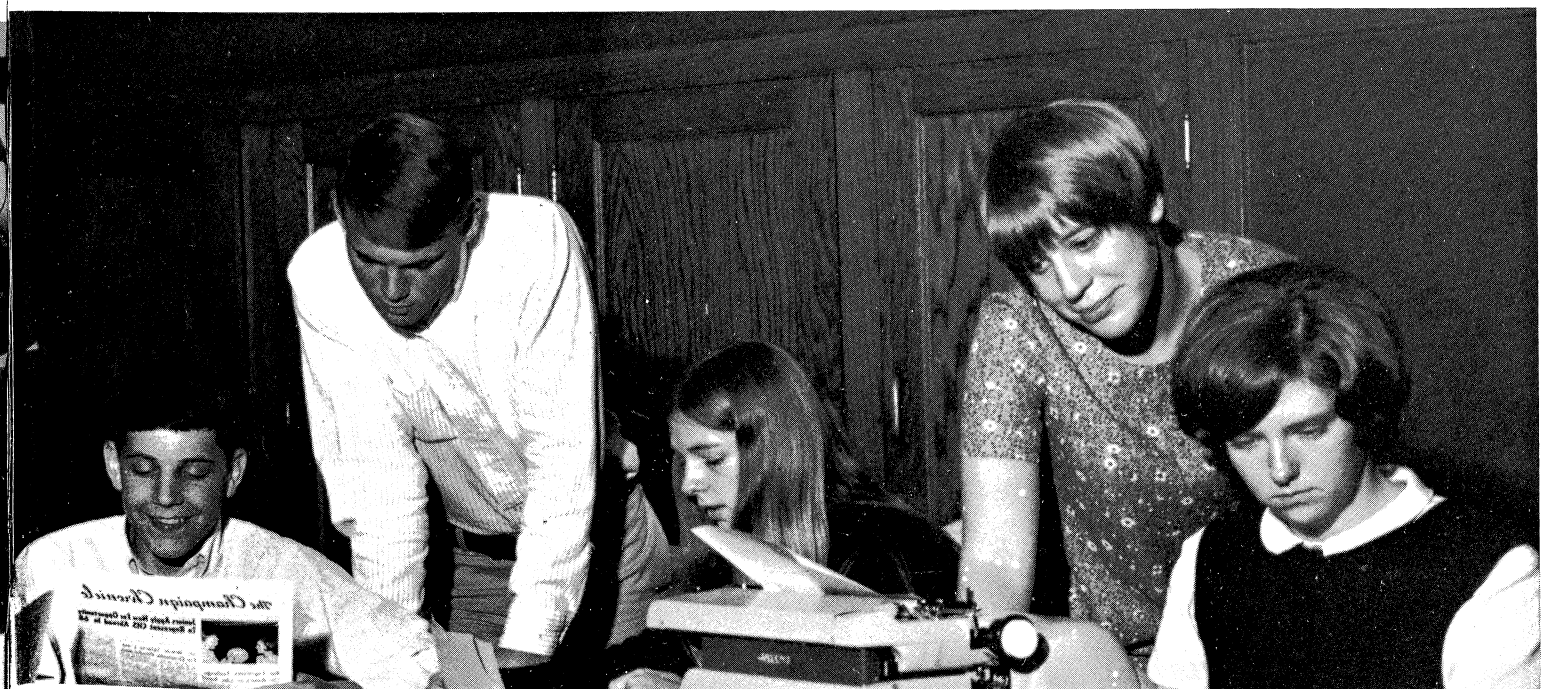

Hovering over the productive effort was advisor Mrs. Evelyn Kovar. Co-editors-in-chief Barb Koester and Nancy Kennedy guided a staff which included reporters, editors, typists, photographers, and an artist. The business staff, led by John Borchers, was in charge of selling ads, and handling all the finances.

A first place rating from one of the national rating services rewarded this diligent staff for its work towards better news coverage and a more interesting, readable CHRONICLE than ever before.

What better place to produce a great literature than amidst printing presses and type cabinets? Operating under this philosophy, MAROON advisors Mrs. Nancy Gerrish and Mrs. Maureen Bekemeyer, and editor-in-chief Edra Jones, moved headquarters from Room 102 to 219. The new room boasted many assets – more space, a dark room, and those inspiring presses—all of which helped in the creation of the 1967-68 MAROON.

Quill and Scroll Sponsors Banquet

After toiling long hours over the CHRONICLE or MAROON, members of the staffs were awarded with membership in the literary honorary, Quill and Scroll. Selling refreshments at the Urbana-Champaign basketball game helped the club pay for their spring banquet and formal initiation. The banquet was held at the Illini Union, and was followed by the initiation ceremonies, which featured a speaker on journalism and a candlelighting ceremony. A lighter touch was added by the new members' skit.

Literary Endeavors Are Preserved

Because of the modesty displayed by CCHS students, Central showed a definite need for a tireless SMOKE AND PARCHMENT staff to draw out their hidden talents. Along with teachers, the staff sought poems, essays and short stories and presented them in the form of the 1968 SMOKE AND PARCHMENT.

Christmas Eve found Future Teachers preparing for their joint Christmas party with Key Club for Children of underprivileged families. The officers, Susan Porter, Joan Froom, Sandie Gish, and Candy Havener, along with sponsor Mrs. Louise Vidas, instigated visits to a local Montessori School, and to Evanston High School.

These exposures to newly instituted teaching methods hopefully influenced their future careers.

SUITCASE in hand, Bonnie Joop braves the elements in order to get to Cook County Hospital.

FNA Girls Visit Chicago Hospital

A field trip to the Cook County Hospital and a tour through its nursing quarters and classrooms revealed to the future nurses of CCHS the inside operations of a large hospital and nursing school.

Mrs. Eastman, a representative from Cook County, answered FNA members' questions concerning their curriculum and requirements at a later meeting. The Easter party held for the children at Burnham Hospital and the annual spring picnic to elect new officers ended another year of learning for Central's Future Nurses.

Champaign's FFA chapter, composed of agriculturally minded students from Urbana, Centennial and Central, again strove to maintain their award-winning status. Club activities included the Parliamentary Procedure Contest and grain shows. Special field trips were planned, in addition to their trip to the National FFA Convention held in Kansas.

Sponsored by the National Secretaries of America, an organization of professional secretaries, FSA tried to introduce high school students to the life and responsibilities of a secretary. Selling candy helped the club to meet expenses in sending girls to NSA meetings and Spring Workshops, where they were given a chance to discuss future problems and learn from professional secretaries.

Second hour found a group of chronic school-haters uniting under Mr. John Griffin to get out of school at noon. From school, these part-time students went to jobs that carried them to all parts of the business district. While in class, they learned the ins and outs of retailing and practiced such arts as display window decorating. But work was not the only object of this group's existence—they also found time for such activities as the poster-making spree that was held before Christmas.

Self-sufficient was only one word that could have described Mrs. Bertha Darsham's VOA girls. With the authority of their badges behind them, these Volunteer Office Assistants traveled the lengths of the school delivering summons slips and collecting attendance cards. In an effort to relieve the main office, the girls cheerfully undertook many small tasks, including that of decorating the office for special occasions. Frequent early morning meetings helped the girls in their efforts to make CCHS's main office the epitome of efficiency.

Christmas" at their annual holiday party, and follow it up with a sour rendition of "Jingle Bells."

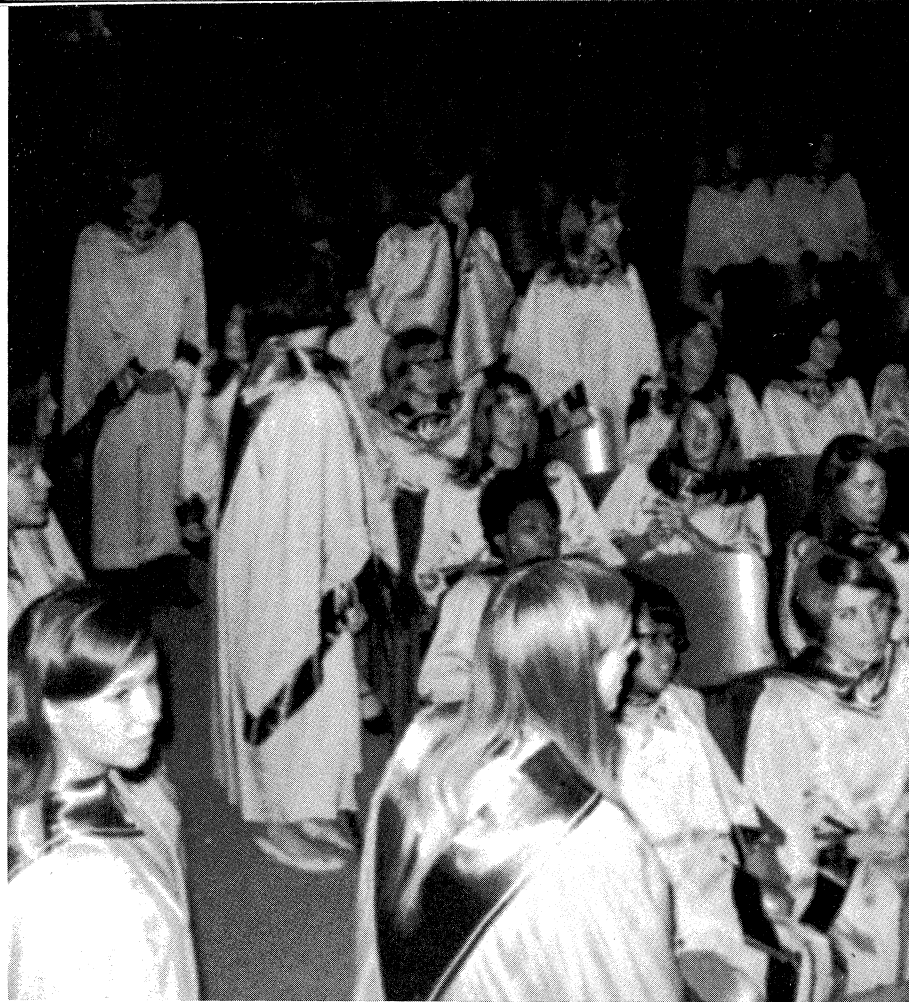

Fourteen efficient girls wearing maroon badges composed one of CCHS's busier groups—Counseling Guides. Each hour of the day found anywhere from two to four girls sitting in the counseling office, eagerly awaiting the call of one of the counselors or a new batch of blue slips to deliver. Out of school, this group enjoyed the Christmas party given for them by the counseling staff, where carols and cokes were mixed to create holiday cheer.

Quantity was not the main attraction of this year's A Cappella Choir, but the quality and enthusiasm present spoke for themselves. With Mr. Eugene Biggs at the head, the choir combined their varied ranges into many delightful performances in the form of concerts and tours. Adding the masculine tones of bass and tenor to A Cappella was the Men's Ensemble. All together the choir was once again directed south for a concert tour.

For their final effort, choir members put everything they had into producing a memorable Senior Concert.

Orchestra Plays At Public Library

Between church circles and men's lunch clubs, there were plenty of opportunities for the Madrigals and Vocalettes to perform. Madrigals, newly outfitted in cranberry-colored velveteen, were a highlight of the Fall Choral Concert with their medley of folk songs. Also heard was Vocalette's feminine blend of voices as they sang an unforgettable "Johnny Has Gone For A Soldier."

Orchestra, under the skilled and enthusiastic direction of Mr. Edward Wilcox, gave concerts for children at the Public Library, as well as the usual performances given at the school.

Small Band Has Added Flexibility

After performing in a sunny Labor Day parade, the marching band plunged into a season of bleak 7:30 A.M. practices and rained-out performances. Nevertheless, the band countered the weather with the sound of the Tijuana Brass, Latina, and TV commercials. Meanwhile, officers Marilyn Terrill, President; Adolphus Sibley, Vice-President; Eddie Bain, Secretary-Treasurer; and Joan Kulwin, sophomore representative, were feverishly making plans and devising money making projects for the tour.

Instead of the previous year's 140 members, 66 made the Band a more manageable and flexible group, especially in concert season. Aside from the spring tour, they performed in U. of I. Band Day, Christmas, Spring, and Senior Concerts, and Commencement.

Braving an autumn evening for the traditional initiates' picnic, Baton Club started another successful year. A clever homecoming float was the project completed during night work sessions.

Spirit was always high whether the club was making posters or providing food for the International Supper. Males low on funds enjoyed the switch of Baton Club's Vice-Versa. As a climax to a busy year Baton Club sponsored "Bells Are Ringing" for the traditional Spring Musical.

Every Thursday at four-thirty, Orchesis members attempted to hold meetings in the Girls' Gym while fighting off the wrestling team. Under the leadership of sponsor Mrs. Ward, Orchesis members danced for a PTA meeting and put on a program in May. A contemporary dance concert at the U of I was a big event for many of the members, for it gave them a chance to gather techniques from others.

Canvas Board: Art and Snowballs?

Signs reading "Go-Go Van Gogh," painting smocks, berets and other unusual clothes adorned CCHS Picassos this year as Canvas Board held its annual initiation. The art honorary attempted to challenge artists by providing advanced studies of art and its history, as well as the usual artistic fun and frolic.

of Progress

Take between 50 and 100 students with talents ranging from acting to set designing, add one Little Theater, mix in Mr. Greg White's sponsorship, and the ingredients combine to form a great dramatics club, Wig'n'Paint. During the course of the year, this group directed their tremendous energies towards producing such works as "Charley's Aunt," and Stunt Show, "100 Years of Progress." Also included on the agenda were a drama festival and a Contest play. All this furious activity was rewarded when spring brought the annual trip to Chicago.

St. Nick Visits French Club Party

Combining their initial efforts on a float "tres belle", French Clubbers displayed hidden talents in the true French spirit. Thrilled by the appearance of Saint Nicholas at their very own Christmas party, members were led by Mrs. Kellogg, club sponsor, in singing "Joyeux Noel" and playing a rousing game of charades. In addition to many diligent hours spent preparing for the International Supper, members also assumed the role of French ambassadors as they endeavored to expose the ignorant masses to French culture.

Fiestas Spread Spanish Influence

Spanish Club, sponsored by Mrs. Gladys Leal, contributed their usual tacos, flan and tortillas for the International Supper. Club members celebrated Christmas with a fiesta which included a traditional piñata filled with goodies. Slides from Spanish-speaking countries were shown throughout the year and conversing in the native tongue helped to spice up the business part of monthly meetings.

"IF AT first you don't succeed—try, try again" is Arna Leavitt's motto as she attacks the piñata.

Festive Saturnalia for Latin Club

Once again, the Saturnalia celebrations at Christmas time became a red letter day on the calendars of all good Latin Club members. Under Miss Lois Bottenfield's guidance, a grab bag of gifts highlighted the gathering. With the help of a refreshment stand at the Salem Basketball game, they financed a spring pizza party and the Italian dishes at International Supper.

EXCUSED from PE, some C-Club members find time for study.

Known as the "men" with the "C"s on their chests, C-Club members displayed their athletic prowess off the field as well as on. Following the custom, C-Clubbers could be seen swinging ropes and restraining crowds at home varsity basketball games. Members of the honorary club also added life to the Stunt Show and planned the traditional C-Club Dance. With their athletic year nearly completed, C-Club celebrated the long-awaited return of spring with a picnic.

Popcorn Balls Finance GAA Events

Led by president Diane Borri, GAA members played their way through another sporty year. Activities such as fencing, bowling and basketball were mixed in with a slumber party and popcorn ball sales to keep all good GAA members on their toes. Under their new sponsor, Mrs. Jean Hovde, members attended activities, earned points, and were honored at the Initiation banquet that ended the year.

Gym Leaders Discover Fine Art of Officiating

True to their high ideals, the forty gym leaders ironed navy shorts and white blouses early on Monday mornings while taking a peek at officiating rules. The senior girls involved in the gym leader program developed responsibility and self-confidence. ## Cheer Block Big First for CCHS

Weary chants of CCHS loyalty poured forth from raw throats as Peparoon buses returning from away games approached the circle drive. Nurturing school spirit was the goal of Peparoons and scheduling buses was only one of their many tricks.

Monday and Tuesday nights after school one could find them outside sponsor Mrs. Baer's room, creating new joys for the poster scene. A new idea and a real crowd-thriller was the Peparoon block section for the Homecoming game, which read, "Homecoming '67" and "Beat Schlarman." Under the direction of senior Patty Page, these activities and many others made this year one of the peppiest ever.

"OUR BOYS will shine!" rises from fifty-one throats, and though pom-poms aren't always together, the idea comes through loud and clear, and even the team seems to get the picture.

Late skirt material, fifty-two girls in a Decatur drive-in at once, an injured Pepette and a wait at a hospital—these will long be remembered by Mrs. Mary Major's Pepettes. Marching in the halls before the Urbana Assembly and wading through oceans of mud while "going on a Tiger hunt" would also be on the list. But at the top would undoubtedly come the agonies of getting up and dragging out to the field, amidst rollers and stringy pom-poms, to practice the latest routine. Yet all seemed worthwhile as voices in the crowd followed the swinging pom-poms to the tune of the Fidelity.

Monday nights after school often found six dedicated cheerleaders taping sinister slogans on various lockers. Such jingles as "Split the Rail-splitters" greeted athletic members of the student body the next morning. Other activities included in the long hours of pre-game preparation were the choosing of new slacks, sweaters and shorts, as well as endless practices. # Unit Four Under Director Berner

New to the Unit Four school system this year was Dr. Marshall K. Berner, Superintendent of Schools. Dr. Berner, who came to us from Belleville, Illinois, views his new position with anticipation.

Assistant Superintendent for Business, George P. Hankinson is in charge of the Unit Four budget, including the payroll of teachers and non-academic staff members. Dr. Robert Cooley, Assistant Superintendent for Instruction, is responsible for the Unit Four academic program.

Typical of the challenges met by the school board was the October ninth meeting, which was attended by many interested parents. The board provides time for an open discussion to encourage communication with parents.

School Division

Offers Challenge

As each new year arrives, so does an avalanche of new administrative problems. The CHS administration, headed by Principal Clint Kelly, is well-prepared to meet these challenges. This will be Mr. Kelly's 31st year of experience in school administration.

Carl Nelson, Assistant Principal and Dean of Boys, is often in contact with students. Handling the disciplinary problems in the school is his major concern. Avoiding conflicts in teacher scheduling and arranging the school calendar are among his other duties.

Assistant Principal and Dean of Girls, Mrs. Bertha Darsham, is always willing to advise students on school matters. Her primary responsibility is the supervision of girls' attendance.

Showcases Offer Career Preview

Assistance concerning careers or further education was eagerly provided by Central counselors. College entrance uncertainties were quickly ironed out during student-counselor conferences with college representatives. "Career Showcase" programs, sponsored by the counselors, kept students up on career opportunities. Informed speakers held seminars with interested students concerning their chosen fields.

Whether searching for fiction or reference books, students always received willing assistance from smiling Central librarians. One of the many exciting facets of Central's English program is its reading laboratory. Students interested in improving their basic reading skills may sign up for six weeks of training with a reading specialist. During these sessions, they strive to improve reading speed, while maintaining a high level of comprehension.

Other equally interesting features include guest speakers for humanities classes and special units on creative writing. Class skits provided a change of pace for sophomore humanities classes.

Teacher Education Math Instituted

Many an equation-filled evening proved math to be no minor undertaking, but persistent students took delight in tackling such problems. College-accredited courses offered an additional challenge for ambitious scholars. Up to thirteen semester hours of credit could be earned towards graduation at the University of Illinois.

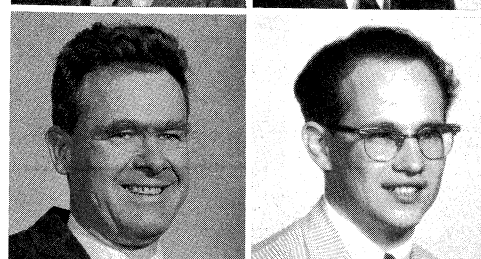

This year the math department introduced a new feature, Teacher Education math. This course provided an in-depth study of basic math principles for future math teachers.

Many startling discoveries accompanied the experiments of Central science classes. This year's microbiology students lost faith in their favorite mouthwash as they observed bacteria thriving happily in samples of Listerine or Micrin.

The science department offers courses in advanced physics and advanced chemistry, as well as the more basic courses. These are such that highly skilled students can proficiency 5 to 10 hours in college.

Add Fifth Year Language Program

Armed with the most up-to-date textbooks and lab equipment, language scholars set out to conquer conjugation. New this year were fifth year levels of Spanish, French, and German. Conducted entirely in the foreign language, these classes provided invaluable help in college placement tests and entrance exams. Aural-oral techniques allowed students to perfect pronunciation, while tapes of their speech enabled them to measure improvement.

The Music department underwent several striking changes with the split of two high schools. Mr. Verrollton Shaul, as music coordinator of Champaign schools, moved his office to Centennial High and Mr. James Rouintree was appointed department chairman at Central. Aside from being more manageable in size, musical groups were more balanced.

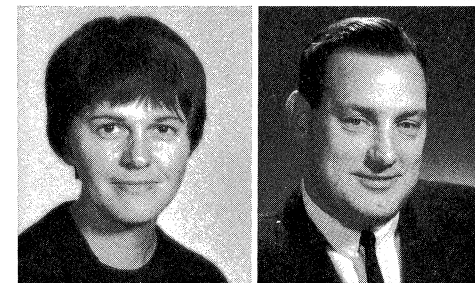

Music students were given many opportunities to perform in high school concerts, various club meetings, at District and State Music Festivals, and Solo and Ensemble contests. As an outgrowth of this program, six students were chosen to be members of the All State Band, Orchestra, and Chorus to play for an international music conference in Dijon, France.

Field Trips Vital in Study of Art

Field trips to Krannert Art Museum and to the Art Institute of Chicago were some of the special features provided by the art department this year. The department now offers sixteen courses which, besides the traditional art courses, include pottery, art history, sculpture, and print-making. Exceptionally large enrollment in these courses necessitated the hiring of two part-time teachers.

Modern Techniques Lighten Load

Several new faces took their places beside the now familiar returning members of the Industrial Arts staff. New methods, such as televised lectures, helped to lighten the load of the mechanized department. Because of smaller classes, both Central and Centennial students worked on the 1968 building trades project house to be completed in the spring. Mr. Rundles' second semester drafting and drawing classes made frequent visits to the project house, perhaps anticipating their designs for next year's house.

Whether preparing for future business careers or acquiring skills for personal use, Central business students received extensive training. A variety of courses, ranging from typing to shorthand, provided a diverse background for the business student. This year a new sequence for students going into general office work was added. This program included a new course, Advanced Clerical Practice, which involves the use of various office machines and is supplemented by frequent field trips to local businesses.

Ever ready with a welcome smile and a helping hand were the ten members of the secretarial staff at Central. Sorting their way through a maze of paperwork and IBM cards, these enthusiastic workers were the aides-de-camp of the administration.

Plagued daily with absences, dismissals, and administrative problems, secretaries did their best to maintain their cool. Guiding students through the red tape of school life was one of their most prominent concerns.

Keeping Central beautiful is the frustrating task that faces the ten members of the CCHS janitorial staff. While students are fighting their way to classes, the Central janitor is busily sweeping paper-strewn hallways. The building maintenance, repair, and improvement jobs require a willing hand and a strong back.

Meanwhile, downstairs, one will find the cafeteria staff faced with the chaotic aftermath of lunch hour. These dedicated women start early in the day to prepare nutritious lunches for energetic and hungry students.

Central Closes Winning Season

Tough defense and an explosive offense were the two main hallmarks of the team which Coach Tom Stewart and assistant Rich Wooley molded into 1967 Big-12 co-champs. Although losing to Urbana in their bid to become the first Champaign team to win consecutive undisputed crowns, the Maroon gridders still finished 7-2 for the season and 5-1 in the conference, sharing the title with Springfield.

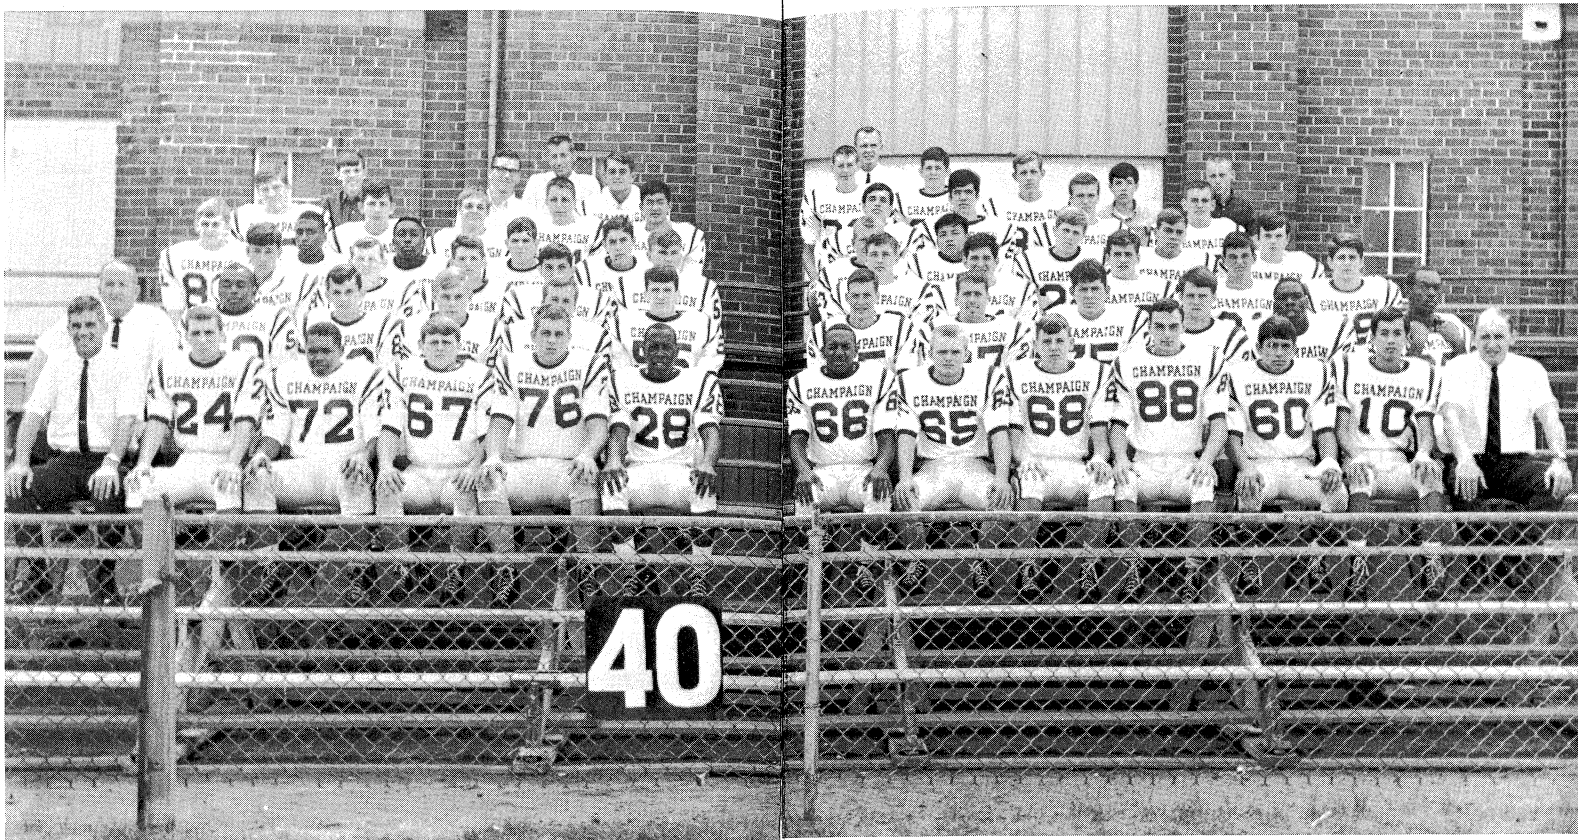

Central fans rapidly grew accustomed to watching the offense run past opponents, often using an option play with co-captain-quarterback Bruce Elliott keeping or giving to nifty tailback Jerry Kurasek. Kurasek led the squad in rushing by gaining nearly 1000 yards. The offense also utilized the running of swift halfback Mark Flora, as well as hard-running Jim Williamson and Bob Jackson.

To balance the running attack, Stewart frequently had Elliott take to the air. Bruce passed for over 500 yards, with ends Pat Dorsey and V. J. Hampton and backfield members serving as prime targets for his thrusts.

Vital to the operation of the offense was the offensive line, which created openings or afforded protection as was needed. Linemen Bob Mulcahey and Dave Hines led many of these efforts.

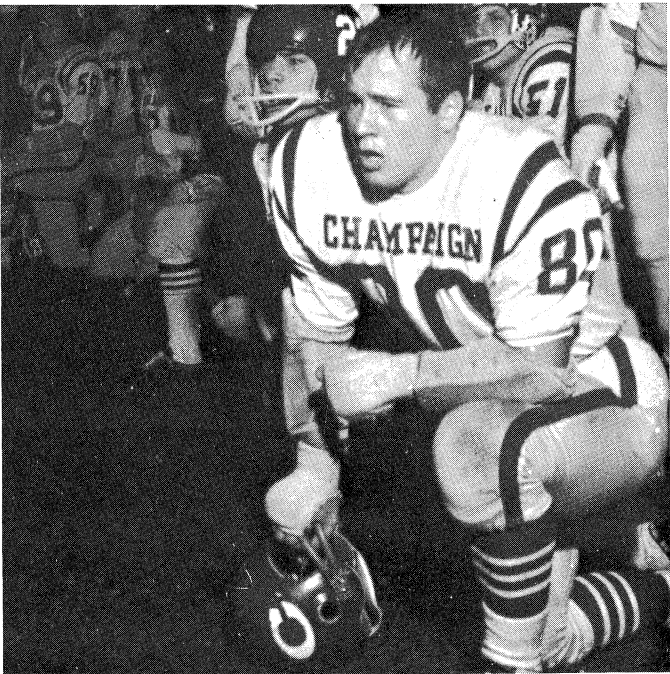

The defense was called upon a number of times during the season to withstand opponents' drives deep in Champaign territory, on most occasions doing so quite successfully. The defense came through in this type of situation in more than one game and preserved a victory, as was exemplified late in the Streator game.

Co-captain-end Bob Shelby and end Leonard McNair and the linemen between them were charged with repelling the initial assaults of the opposition. When past the line, the opponents' offensive efforts were then met by the Central backfield. Much of the time, the entire Maroon offensive backfield could also be found on duty in the defensive backfield. One of the features of the defensive unit was its 13 interceptions for the season, ten more than the opposition's total.

Acquiring momentum as the season progressed, Central's sophomore football squad continued a fine tradition by posting a 6-1 record. Following their opening loss, the sophs, under coach Gene Ward and his assistant Paul Seaman, came back strong as they defeated Urbana twice among their many impressive victories.

One of the strong points of the team was the backfield, which found versatile Eddie Chin quarterbacking the offense. Complementing him were halfbacks Dave Elliott and Alby Hoss and speedy tailback Pete Vriner, all contributing to the team's success. Among the more outstanding young lineman of the team were Jerry Gorman, John Levanti and Dave Ashby.

Under the careful guidance of the two coaches, the sophomore squad gained experience which served as an introduction for many young men to football.

of Their Ability

Hampered by a shortage of available juniors and seniors, the junior varsity squad came to share the skills of many of the members of the sophomore squad. Mixing effectively the talents of all, Coach Tom Gher directed the team to a respectable 2-1-2 mark.

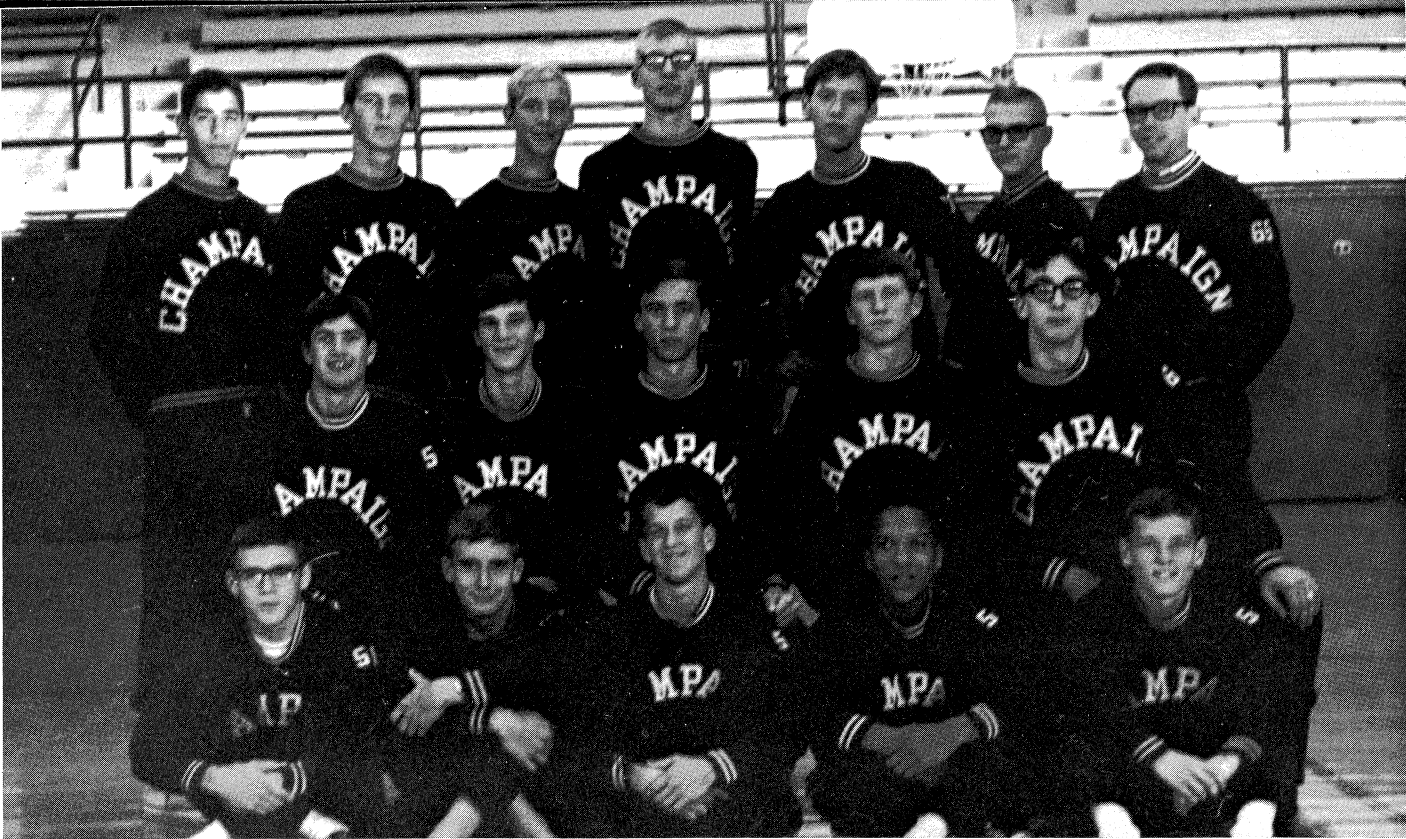

Having a 25-game J.V. winning streak broken in their opening encounter, the jayvees rebounded to finish the season without a further loss. Playing a number of close games, the game with Stephen Decatur displayed the hardest-fought effort of the squad. There, trailing 13-7 with barely 20 seconds remaining, Eddie Chin picked up a Decatur fumble and ran it 20 yards for the score which achieved the tie.

In their final effort of the season, the J.V. scored once in the second quarter to take the lead. They held the lead till the last period when Bloomington scored to tie the game ending the J.V. season.

Harriers Gain First Win Since 1965

WITH or without shoes, junior Chuck Bayne helps to boost Champaign's score.

Arousing fresh interest in the sport, the Maroon cross-country team concluded their season in a spirited fashion, copping third in both the Conference and District meets. Working under new coach Fred Schooley, the harriers recorded a rather modest 1-6 record for their dual meet season, having victory often elude them by a narrow margin of points.

Realizing the rewards of scampering nightly throughout Hessel Park, however, the Maroons ran well to place third in the Conference. Climaxing their season, they outran in the District every team by which they had previously been defeated except Big-12 champ Danville.

Pacing the Maroons much of the season was junior Bruce Garret. Finishing third individually in both the Conference and District, Bruce was the lone Champaign representative in the State meet which was staged at Urbana.

Juniors Alfie Marfort and Tom Good also led the Maroons. Alfie paced Champaign runners in a number of dual meets, and he and Good were consistently among the top Maroon finishers. Other lettermen included senior Gary Baker, junior Chuck Bayne, and sophomore Marc Cutright, who placed tenth in the

Grapplers Press for Conference Title

Faced with the prospect of only two returning lettermen from last year's Big 12 championship squad, Central's grapplers met the challenge head-on. Converting the girls' gym into a modified sauna bath, the squad sweated the pounds off while replacing them with mat experience and strategy. Evidencing the fine teaching of coach Don Pittman and his assistant Tom Gher, the wrestlers compiled a 5-2 midseason dual-meet record.

Captain and defending 180-pound state champion Bob Shelby led the team with a 10-0-0 record which included nine pins. Among them were the two fastest pins on the squad in times of 26- and 43 seconds. 133-pounder Tim Mecum held the next-best record at 10-2. Others with fine individual records included Bob Jackson (165), Steve Griffith (127), Dean Ingelman (154), and heavyweight Mike Levanti.

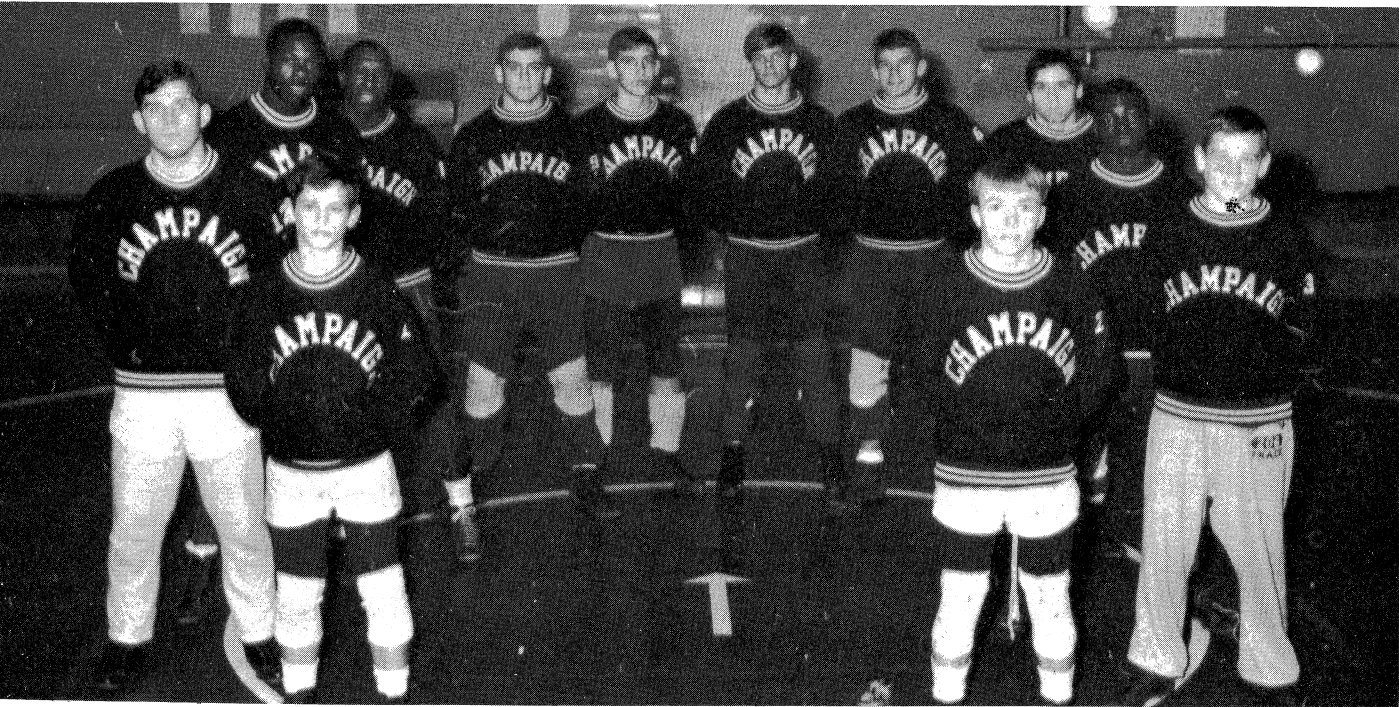

Kicking off their season in the CCHS quadrangular with Granite City, Peoria Richwoods, and Savannah providing the opposition, the Maroon matmen copped third, trailing second-place Savannah by one point. After a dual-meet setback at the hands of Rantoul, the grapplers reeled off three straight wins. The close Urbana meet Champaign won after Shelby pinned his opponent to tie the team score at 19-all and Mike Levanti decided the Urbana heavyweight to gain the victory.

After being narrowly defeated by Bloomington, the grapplers traveled during Christmas vacation to Granite City for the Holiday Wrestling Tournament there. Somewhat disappointing, they took tenth as a team with no one advancing to the finals except Shelby, who took a first.

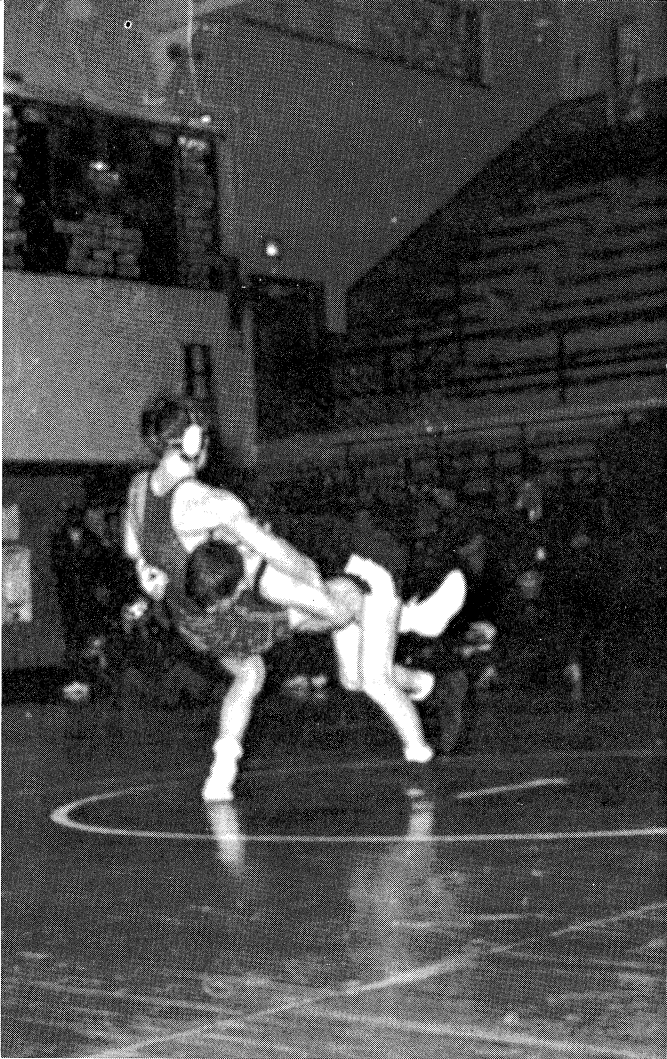

After taking a breather, the matmen returned to action by winning both of their engagements in a three-team meet with Shelbyville and CC of Bloomington. At that point, with the season past the half-way mark, the grapplers began the final polishing of their moves for the rest of the season and the state tournament.

Backing the varsity throughout the season was the JV squad which turned in fine performances while preparing for spots on next year's varsity. Holding the leading individual jayvee records were juniors John Murray and Kip Mecum.

Intramural Develops New Interests

"Aces" "69'ers" "Jets." Neither mod combos nor a brand of tennis shoes, these were three of the teams entered in the winter intramural basketball program. Although among the most popular, basketball was only one of eleven intramural sports offered to CCHS'ers throughout the year, with others ranging from gymnastics and weight lifting to bowling and tennis. With all students eligible for most sports, the main goal of the IM program was greater all-round physical fitness for the participants.

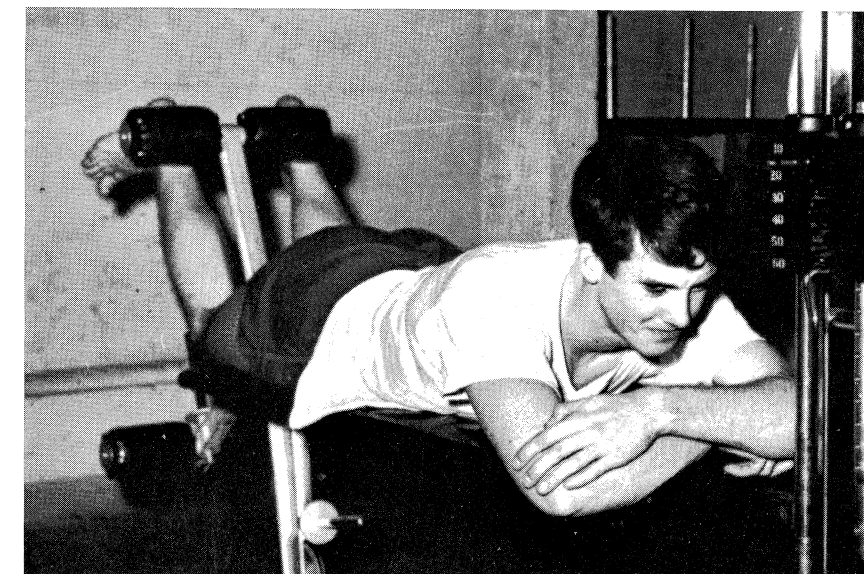

Supervising the intramural program, in addition to Mr. Carl Wolfenbarger, Head of IM Athletics, was a student-staffed Intramural Board. Composed of twelve students, the Board had one student to supervise each sport offered, as well as two whose duty it was to select officials for the contests.

In most intramural activities, normal high school rules for the sport were followed. However, some changes due to safety factors as well as time and space limitations were necessary.

Cagers Successful at Midseason

Establishing a predominantly under-class nucleus, the Maroon varsity basketball team chalked up a noteworthy 9-4 mark for the first half of their season. Facing top-rated and well-regarded opposition, the cagers' varsity ability was soon proven, as their four losses were by a total of only 13 points.

Head basketball coach Lee Cabutti, in his thirteenth season at CCHS, was joined this year by new varsity assistant Coleman Carrodine. The team's decision over Rantoul gave Cabutti his 100th home victory as basketball coach at CCHS.

Building their attack around seniors Larry Jackson, Jerry Kurasek, and Bruce Elliott and juniors Clyde Turner, Dave White, Joe McNeal, and Arberry Barnes, the Maroons began early to play aggressively to force the opponents into mistakes.

Opening their season at the Rich East Turkey Classic, the Maroons took their first two encounters by comfortable margins before barely being edged by Blue Island Eisenhower for the title. Clyde Turner, 6-6 junior and only returning season-long starter from last year's Elite-Eight squad, put in a high of 32 points in that contest.

Opening the conference schedule, Central marked its first Big-12 victory with a tinge of revenge over Springfield. After being handed their first conference loss by Lincoln, Big-12 leader at midseason, the cagers upped their conference mark to 2-1 by defeating Danville as Dave White poured in 24 points.

In perhaps their best showing of the first half of their schedule, the Maroons traveled to Stephen Decatur where they upset the highly-ranked Running Reds. Pacing the Maroon scoring was outstanding senior Larry Jackson with 28 tallies.

Following a somewhat disappointing showing at Centralia, the team returned home only to be narrowly defeated by arch-rival Urbana. Definitely not out of the conference race at that point, the Maroon cagers also had the state tournament looming ahead as a challenge.

Highlighting the first part of their schedule with an encouraging victory over rival Urbana, Central's sophomore basketball squad strove for continued improvement during the remainder of the season. Lacking extremely outstanding individuals, the sophs worked together diligently under their coach Charles Due and his new assistant Fred Schooley in an effort to improve their 2-6 midseason mark.

After opening their season with a victory over Rantoul by a narrow one-point margin, the sophomores were unable to win again before the Christmas vacation, losing a rough string of six straight. Returning from the holiday break, the team practiced hard and keyed themselves for Urbana, emerging from the contest a victor by five slim points. This win became the sixth consecutive decision for coach Due and his CCHS sophomores over Urbana.

Leading sophomores included play-maker-sharpshooter Steve LaRocque and vital scorers and rebounders Dan Carlier, Dave Elliott and Eddie Chin. In addition, as the bigger members of a relatively small squad, sophs Bob Henry and Doug Allen served as principal rebounders while playing an important role in the scoring effort.

Swimmers Directed by New Coach

Building a team mainly around sophomores and juniors, Central's swim team rebuilt its squad after losing all but one letterman from the previous year. Led by new coach Dick Mulvihill, the swimmers trained and conditioned hard so that, despite their 1-4 midseason record, they displayed marked improvement over the start of the season and held promise for the immediate future of Central swimming.

Staging their meets in the new pool at Centennial High, the swimmers also held their daily morning workouts there, arriving back at CCHS at the end of first hour. In addition, they lifted weights two nights a week after school in the weightroom to prepare their bodies for the physically grueling sport.

The team seemed to be strongest in the freestyle sprints and individual medley events. Seniors making vital contributions to the team's efforts were John Rogers in the breaststroke and 50-yard freestyler Craig Hays. Also, playing increasingly important roles on the team were Don Delbert, a freestyler, and backstroker Dave Wax, both sophomores.

Composing the largest representation on the team, however, were the junior members. Led by letterman Chris Bland, whose specialties were the butterfly and individual medley, others included Bob Carpenter in the breaststroke and individual medley, Steve Mill, 200- and 400-yard freestyler, and John McCulley, a diver who also swam the butterfly.

"Hey Sophomores!" ... Silence ... The traditional cheer at Central High was heard, or not heard, again this year. The sophomores' good intentions were appreciated in their attempt to decorate the third floor hall during Beat Urbana Week. Throughout their first year of high school, sophomores found the status of low man on the totem pole not as impressive as being last year's junior high leaders. Their new role as Indians, not Chiefs, meant that sophomores had to make an all-out effort to become a true part of school fun and academics. They eagerly studied new subjects and joined clubs for enjoyment and service. OFFICERS and sponsors participate in a local sit-in on the stairs: Mr. Schooley, Susan Shoemaker, Marcia Foster, Arna Leavitt, Karen Welch, and Mrs. Marie Harrington.

Overflowing lockers, posters advertising coming events, sore throats, and hoarse voices after an exciting game are only a few of the things juniors will remember of their second year of high school.

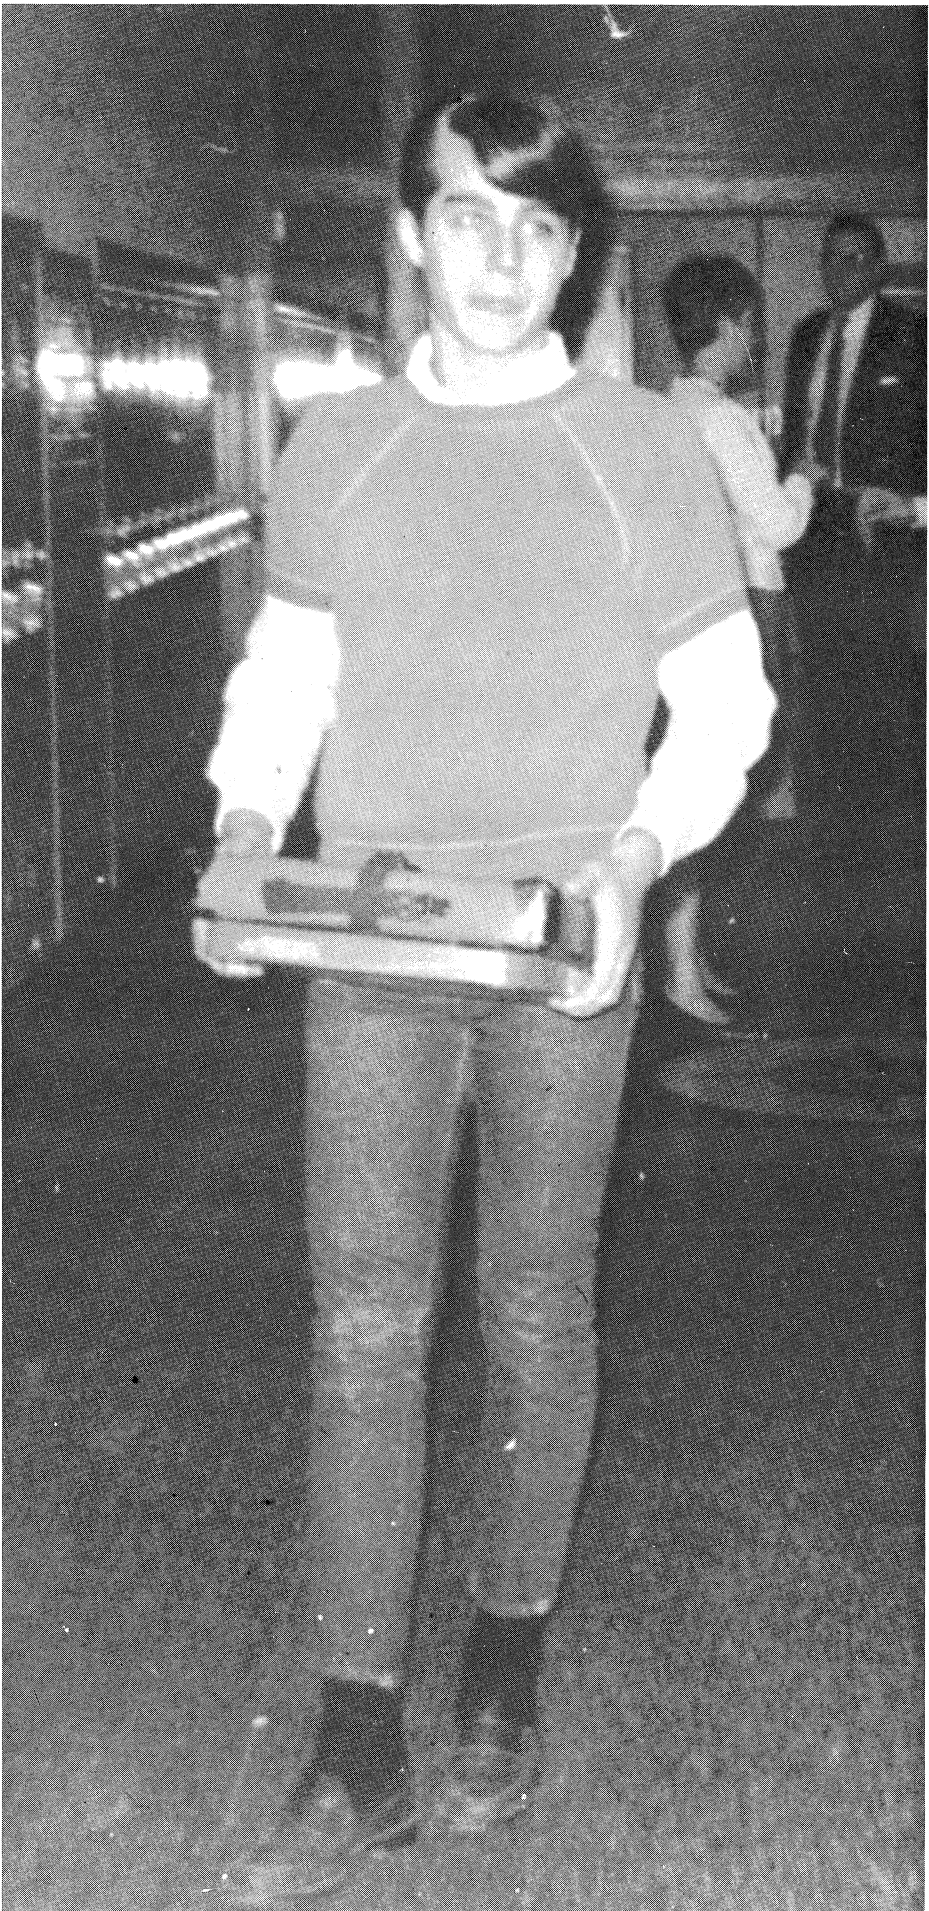

Horrifying memories of deciding which of two club meetings to attend, trying to keep grades up, and the eternal fight against lack of sleep will haunt the minds of the class of '69.

Spirit conquered all as the junior class rose above all obstacles to win the class competition of MAROON sales, Beat Urbana Week hall decorations, and peanut butter eating contest. Best junior class yet! Their money-making projects for Prom included a pancake supper, car washes, bottle drives, and a "Prettiest Legs Contest" between the varsity basketball players. The Class of '69 under the direction of President, Susan Shoemaker; Vice-president, Marcia Foster; Secretary, Arna Leavitt; Treasurer, Karen Welch; and advisors, Mrs. Marie Harrington and Mr. Fred Schooley was a model of enthusiasm and hard work, promising an even better senior class.

Class of 68—First Central Graduates

AS SENIOR class officers, Linda Manning, Treasurer; Pam Jacobson, Vice-President; Candy Havener, Secretary; and Linda Smith, President, apply their female intuition for successful class moneymaking projects.

WE, the class of 68, have a history of being moved from school to school. As sophomores many of us attended the Annex, while others of us were one of the few sophomores at the main building. No matter where we were, we all plowed through term papers and fought or succumbed to the urge not to do that nightly homework.

We've crammed our precious time with dates, games, hops, street dances and "bombing around." We've worked on skits for assemblies, planned a Prom, decorated school halls for class competition, and participated in clubs and sports.

But our high school years have been filled with emotions and ideas as well as events. Sometimes we've been furious with an unsympathetic teacher or crestfallen with an unexpectedly low grade. We have exploded in tears or indignation at a loss of an important game or filled with pride at a goal met in our grades, athletics, or activities.

We have accepted the responsibility of driving a car and having jobs. Decisions about the present and future—colleges, jobs, or military service, have caused us much confusion. We have become aware of the world around us and have established views on drugs, civil rights, religion, and war.

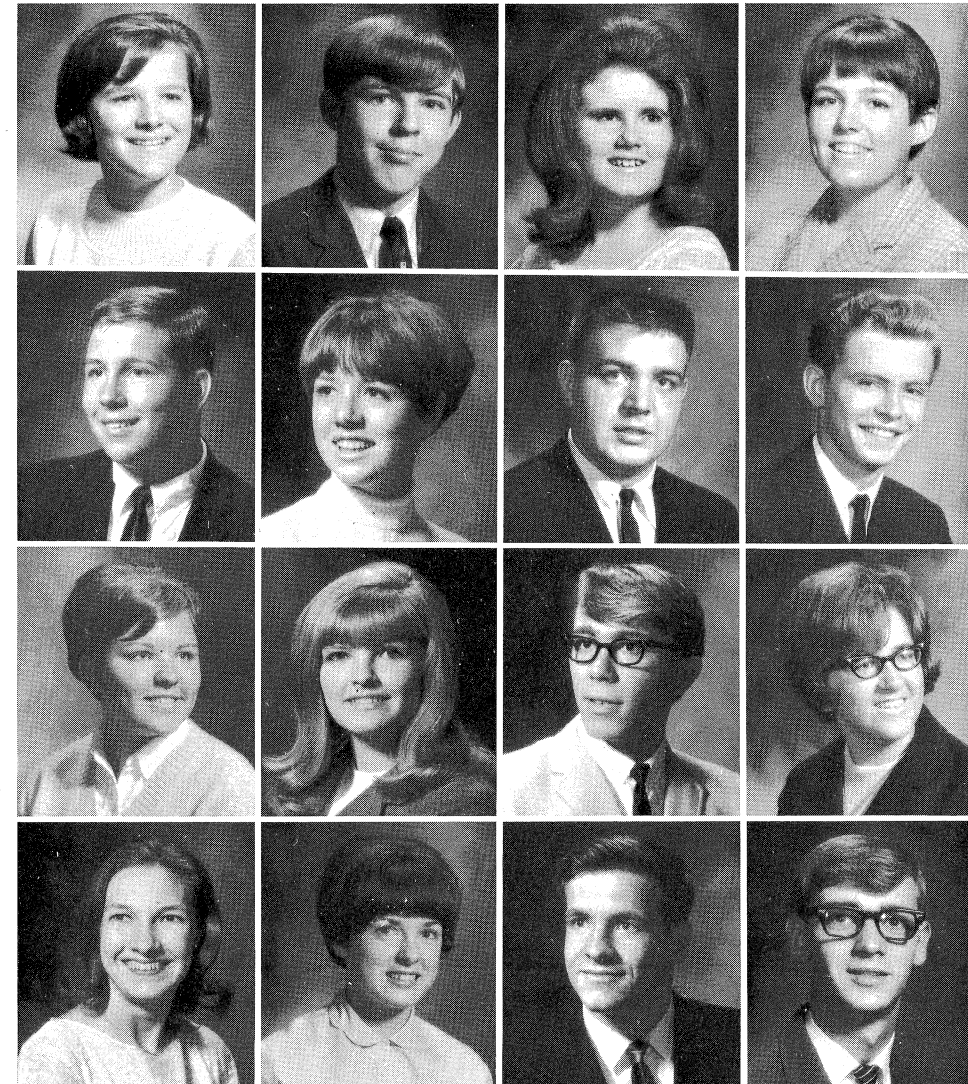

WE, a class with individual experiences and futures, are proud to be a special class, the first to graduate from Campaign Central Senior High School.

MISS THELMA Fite and Mr. Jean Ward, took on the responsibilities as the senior class of 68's sponsors.

BESIDES EATING, Pattie Christie and Jane Schaefer use a half hour lunch period to tell the latest news, finish up neglected homework, and swap choice gossip.

RHONDA RANSOM and Jerry Lewis enjoy the benefits of this year's closed lunch hours and the new sandwich line.

THESE Senior girls agree that the sandwich line, although a dieter's temptation, is an asset to the cafeteria.

1968 Year Ends

After sweating the last finals, the realization hit that the first year for Central High was over. The frustration of a border-line grade or a confining rule ended for the summer. The sophomores reflected on their first year of high school and of Central and they wondered what the next two years would be like. The Juniors gloated over class spirit and success and anticipated the status of their senior year. Seniors rejoiced at finally making it, but were reluctant to leave the friends and security of Central's halls. They thought of the past year and prided themselves in being the first class to graduate from Central High.
