Underclass

V-I-C-T-O-R-Y junior, sophomore battle cry

Underclass can mean different things to sophomores and juniors. To a junior it is the year that you look up to one class and down to another. It means yelling a little louder in that old cheer, "Hey Sophomores." It means you have a junior prom to plan. It means getting the experience this year and being the champs next year. It means having been through the excitement of Beat Urbana Week once. It means being older than the youngest kids in school.

To a sophomore an underclassman means realizing you're finally in high school. It means getting told by upperclassmen—sophomores are getting shorter every year. It means learning all the old traditions. It means making new friends. It means trying your best but never making it in class competition. It means that learning gets much harder in high school. It means there's plenty of fun to be had in the next three years.

Their thoughts were victory

The year of being middlemen was filled with many unforgettable memories. Memories of the faces of defeated football players, a victoriously decorated second floor hall, never-ending Fridays, looking ahead to college, struggling prom plans, weekends filled with football games, cars and dances, and those never overlooked sleepless nights of intense studying.

FAR RIGHT The faces of Lila Gadbury, Dixie Etheridge and Carol Swanson beamed with enthusiasm on homecoming night. RIGHT Doug Allen and Nick Kelly are determined to make this game a victorious one.

Class of '71 anticipates being contest winners

Central's class of '71, often derogatorily called sophomores, provided the foundation for the school. This was their first year in high school: a year of being cut down by upperclassmen, enduring 70-minute classes, and getting stuck with the dirty work on any committees or clubs they dare join.

They may have been on the bottom of the class totem pole, but Central's sophomores have passed the test! They tried everything from continually losing hall decoration contests to "Big apple, little apple, little Q . . ." Yes, the class of '71, under the leadership of President, Tom Murray, Vice-president, Margie Graham, Secretary, Deborah Smith, Treasurer, Penny McEvoy, and faculty advisors, Mis Noonan and Mrs. Ward, will make GREAT upperclassmen.

Conversations are eased and spirits are raised as these sophomore boys start a long walk home.
