

Diamondmen end season with a slate of 7-13

ABOVE: Bob Blackwell waits in anticipation for the pitch.
RIGHT: Dan Carlier meets his opponent for a little chat during play. BELOW: Dave Anderson and Ron Chambers head to home for a point.

Central diamondmen had a rebuilding season with a record of 7-13 record. The team under the leadership of Coach Charlie Due and his assistant Coach Lee Cabutti was one with quite a few up-coming underclassmen. Dave Ashby, Steve LaRocque, and Dan Carlier were the ones who formed the senior nucleus. Up-coming seniors are Ron Chambers, Bob Blackwell, Dave Anderson, Mike Stahl and other men that will help form the core for a new better season.

Spirit never falters

Central diamondmen ended their rebuilding season 1-14. This was quite a good season considering the fact that the diamondmen were mostly underclassmen. Seniors Paul Andrew and John Levanti excelled in the weights, and Tom Murray was an outstanding footman. The spirit of the team never faltered and neither did the enthusiasm. The hard work of the team was not revealed in the season record, but Central did participate in some big meets and came up with many second and third place finishes. Coach Gene Ward has a team that will come back strong next year.

Senior Paul Andrew hurls another discus for the Central trackmen.

Senior letter winner Terry LaFoe puts forth his greatest effort.

Sophomore Ken Bode clears the high jump again for Central.

Central linksmen gain 8-8 season slate

FRONT (Left to right): Bob Burke, Andy Beach, Tim Leonberger, John Katsinas. BACK (Left to right): Rob Eisner, Tim Hoss, Rick Hepler, Clay Robinson, Tim Nally.

Central linksmen ended their season with a 8-8 dual meet slate. The team was coached by Coach Richard Wooley. Tim Nally and Rob Eisner were the senior nucleus of the team. Up-coming juniors on the team will be John Katsinas, Gary VanDenBerg, Tim Hoss, and Rick Hepler. With a number of seniors and juniors on the squad, next year's season should turn out to be a very successful one.

RIGHT: Coach Wooley shows Rob Eisner and Tim Nally the correct stance. BELOW: Garry VanDenBerg, outstanding junior, will lead the 1971 Maroons.

Contemplating hitting or catching the ball is Joe Calcagno.

Eddie Chin gazes in wonder toward a disappearing ball.

Tennis takes talent

The tennis squad this year was led by John Parks and Eddie Chin. The team became highly skilled under the school's new coach, Mr. Brad Roos. The team definitely improved throughout the year resulting in a team record of 10-4. Eligible for state this year was Eddie Chin, who was finally beaten by the state fourth place winner.

Looking determined is Jim Lewis.

Spring apparel exhibits senior boys hairy legs.

Students seem to survive a super spring scene

Restlessness and temperatures increased as the last few months of school crept along. Champaign Central High seemed to be able to survive the high temperatures unlike some schools we know. The duller moments among the tranquil halls found students plotting a lunch escape, planning an Open Arms Inn get-together, trying out for the drill team, signing yearbooks, wearing super, super shorts, running for Student Council, putting out a spring supplement. Spring 1970 has produced memories not easily forgotten.

Demonstrating for peace is Bill Dorsey.

Enthusiastic fans, Pam Scherer, Sue Martin and Brenda Saben never miss a track meet.

Fans are numerous and enthusiastic at a Central High doubleheader baseball game.

Locker cleanout is a real chore for Brenda Saben and Bill Cox.

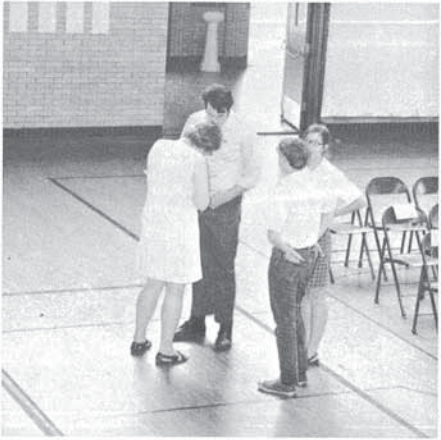

Oh, spring . . . BELOW: "Jazz 70" was a great way to spend a night with our talented Jazz Band in a popular nightclub atmosphere.

"You're eating up all the profits," Steve Hayes informs Ricky Lore at the club bake and garage sale held to raise money for jackets next year.

Reverend Nast speaks for Baccalaureate

TOP: Elaine Tinberg helps foreign exchangee Irmhild Wegener with her robe. ABOVE RIGHT: Baccalaureate speaker Reverend Nast and his son, Pete smile for the birdie. ABOVE: Before leaving for the last time, a group of graduates fondly sign each other's yearbooks.

Graduation Day 1970

ABOVE LEFT: One of the Commencement speeches is delivered by Steve LaRocque. ABOVE: Graduate Roger Adams accepts his diploma from Mr. Richard Foley. LEFT: 1970 graduates stand in front of the old Alma Mater.