Bodyguards in action

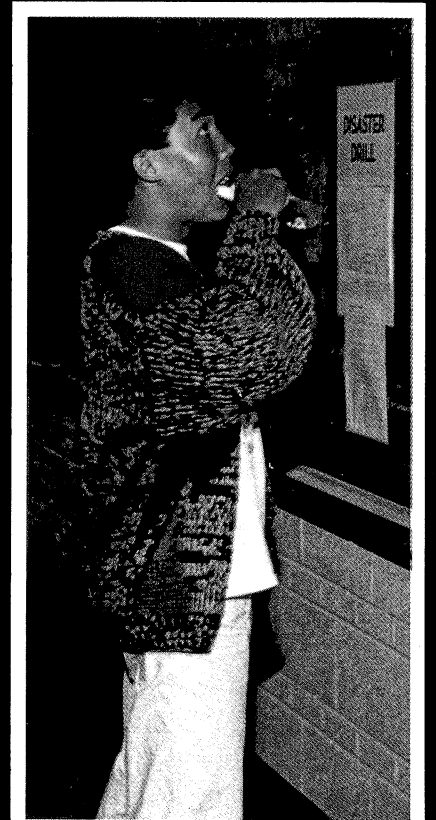

It wasn't as bad as we thought it would be. Sure, we were inconvenienced; half of Urbana High School was sealed off and under renovation. But we managed to survive. The crowded hallways simply enabled us to grow closer to one another. We will forever remember the sharing of lockers, the brightness of the tunnel, the pounding of the jackhammers, and the laughter kept throughout the construction. These are things which made the school year unique. It was the first year of Urbana High School's renovation. It was the best of times; it was the worst of times.

It was the age of the Tiger

We were living in the age of the tiger. We proudly roared at the best of times and boldly accepted the worst of times. With the renovation rapidly progressing, Urbana High School sometimes seemed like a zoo. Each and every one of us were tigers in that zoo. We were the main attractions in the age of the tiger.

Times were joyful; times were sorrowful. Our most typical times included staying up all night and getting the homework done, sharing homework with friends, running into class right before the tardy ball rings, and fidgeting while waiting for the last bell of the day to ring. We knew that we could get things done; we knew that every approaching day would lead us to bigger and better things. And so the days rolled on and we had our fun. We believed in our school; we believed in the tiger. This year carried high hopes for all of us. It was the epoch of belief.

It was quite an experience

Week after week we viewed finished parts of the renovated school. Slowly but surely our school took on a new form. The building of new sections amazed our eyes as we peered through windows and watched the beams being set in place. It was a year of learning, a year of achieving and a year of growing. New aspects of life crossed our paths throughout the year. It was quite an experience.

It was a day of excitement

On October 9, the student body gathered on the bleachers to recognize members of various sports and to ready themselves for the exciting events which followed. These activities included the parade, tailgater, and homecoming game. Everyone cheered when Jeannie Bloome was named queen and Shad Barker was named king. The homecoming parade was also quite a success. There were many participants in floats and cars, and those who didn't ride eagerly viewed the event.

The Second Annual Tiger Tailgreat was a smashing success. Popular local businesses such as K-104 and Garcia's showed respect for the tigers by their presence. This year there were numerous school entries from different organizations and people. The Grand Prize Winner was the National Honor Society with their "Wheel of Fortune." All in all, the event was great and many students and parents took part in it.

The spirit and tiger pride carried on throughout the game. The stands were full of fans and many graduates from years past. At the end of the first half, Tigers lead the Railsplitters 7 to 6. At this time the band played and the king and queen were honored. Finally, the game ended after Tigers conquered Railsplitters, 24 to 6.

Student life outside of school

It is 3:10 on a Friday. Although the day is not officially over, students gather their belongings and impatiently wait for that last bell to ring. The teacher tries to hold the attention of the class, but before the bell stops ringing, students are racing out the doors. Surprisingly, students do have a life outside of Urbana High School. Some activities include movies, campus strolling, relaxing, shopping, parties, eating, and much more. As the weekend closes, homework begins. And on Monday morning, student life starts its weekly routine.

Our Urbana Kickers

The 1987 version of the UHS soccer team was a big improvement over last year's team. With a record of 12-4-1 overall, the team placed third in the conference. Even though the squad lost in the regional finals, the season was very successful overall. The 1987 Tigers posted the first ever victories against Central and Centennial with a very "team oriented," diverse offense as well as a tough defense. The biggest improvement, however, was in team unity and leadership. This year's squad had 10 different people score and 7 senior starters. Hopefully this year will serve as a basis for further improvement by the strong corps of underclassmen.

Grapplers Pin The Competition

Due to the renovation, the team had to find new accommodations for practices and home dual meets. These changes, however, didn't affect the grapplers' performance. They ended the season with a winning record of 14-8 and became twin-city champions for the sixth year in a row. They also made good showings at tournaments, placing tenth out of 24 teams at the Rockford Boylan Invitational; fourth out of 12 teams at the Morton Invitational; and won first place in their own Invitational against 11 other teams. In the Big 12 Conference meet, Urbana fell short of Bloomington and placed second. Matt Madsen walked away with the Most Outstanding Wrestler award of that meet. Urbana won Regionals and advanced to team Sectionals and seven individual wrestlers also advanced to Sectionals.

The Urbana Girls Tennis Team had a surprisingly good season this fall. The outstanding record was 9 wins and 4 losses. However, this record contradicted their inability to practice regularly. The home meets had lots of exuberant fans which sparked the team's desire to win. The team had fun all year despite the hideous "puke-orange" polos and the near fights between themselves, the coach and the opponents. Sophomores and Juniors plan for an even better season next year.

The 1987 Track Teams had fairly good seasons. Several girls and a few relay teams advanced to the Honor Roll Meet. And, despite the absence of any field event competitors, both teams competed very well and won many individual running events. The team was well-balanced with a good number of freshmen, sophomores, and seniors, and is therefore hopeful for a greatly strengthened and successful 1988 team.

Urbana Baseball

The 86-87 varsity baseball team finished with a winning record of 13-11 despite their many injuries. Seniors Shan Pendergast, Mike Johnson, Matt Langendorf and Brett Clark showed outstanding performances in the infield while the exceptional batting of John Kelso and Kirk Mammen brought in the winning runs. In the outfield it was Mark Thomas, a sophomore, and junior Mike Larson who made the necessary catches. Overall, it was an exciting season for the players and fans.

As a team, the Tigers beat their long time rivals, the Rantoul Eagles, three times out of four to gain the Regional title, including winning for the first time on the Eagles' home field. The Tigers also captured the Twin-city Championship by beating both Central and Centennial two times each.

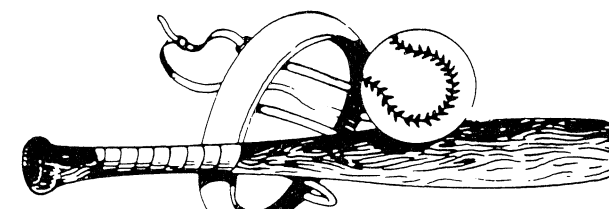

The Tigers' winning streak wasn't broken until they met with Blue Ridge, who won 1-0. Blue Ridge went on to the State tournament. However, the Tigers' spirits were not broken. The season closed with a strong 18-11 record, and with a very proud, record-breaking team.

Girls swim their hardest

Is Huff Gym any better than our "never again" bathtub? That's what the girl swimmers wondered as they practiced each day at Huff. It was obviously better because the girls took 4th place at the Big 12 conference meet at Centennial on November 7.

— Was the massive chlorine build up in their hair worth it to one of the swimmers? Obviously, since there were 11 members this year: 2 seniors, 3 juniors, and 6 freshmen. Was traveling to Huff Gym worth the loss of time? Definitely! It meant less time to have to practice and to get too tired to do something afterwards.

Girls Fight For Winning Season

With last year's Regional Championship under its belt, the Women's Basketball team started the season under the leadership of the new head coach, Ann Yarber, and assistant coach Stan Summers. Paced with a balanced scoring attack, the Urbana Tigers took the Thanksgiving Tournament title, defeating Regional rival Danville in the championship bout. With the experience of the team's seven seniors and the depth of the bench, the women's team had a strong and successful season ending with a final record of 14-10. Also with the leadership of co-captains Nancy Garrett and Jeannie Bloome, the team, seeded fourth, advanced to the final round of Regionals.

The boys' varsity team consisting mostly of juniors started out young and inexperienced under their new head coach Preston Williams. However, as the season progressed, the team responded to the new system, and developed into a tough, high-rebounding team with a strong defense. The team finished 10-13 overall, and had a conference record of 7-8 in the Big 12. The Tiger's top scorer was Keith Douglas, and Russell Thompson was the leading rebounder. The team looks forward to their next season with the hope that their junior talents will have matured to make for a strong team.

Girls take a pleasant breather

The Urbana Girl's Cross-Country team finished the 1987 season exceptionally well. Their dual meet record was 5-2, while during the season, they finished 5th at the Springfield Invitational in a tough field of runners, and also turned in a third place finish at the Big 12 meet. After finishing 4th at the Regional meet in Danville, the Girl's Cross-Country team moved on to the Sectional meet, which was for the first time since 1982. They were coached by first-year assistant coach Jim Acklin, from St. Joe-Ogden High School.

Meanwhile, Boys Cross-Country also had a great season this year, highlighted by a sound victory in a Tri-meet against Centennial and Rantoul for the first time in seven years, and by Brad Cortright's qualification to Sectionals. The Boy's dual meet record was 6-2, the best in seven years. Matt Hill was voted most improved, and Brad Cortright most valuable. Returning sophomore Tom Trimble and junior Chris Plummer will be leading the team next year in what looks to be an exciting season. Both teams ran though illnesses and injuries, but still competed very strongly all year.

On The Matmen

It was not an easy year for the wrestlettes, but they pulled through. They spent their summer practicing cheers, learning how to keep score and statistics for the matches, and holding fundraisers to help pay for uniforms, locker signs and flowers for the wrestlers. During the fall the wrestlettes helped raise money for the wrestling program by working at the U of I football games. The wrestlettes started as a twelve-member squad that was reduced to a six-member squad with two alternates. This made for a tougher season. "The girls who stayed on had to work extra hard to make up for the missing people. I think they did a great job," said captain Missy Everette. The girls attended every meet and cheered their team on to Sectionals.

The Tigerette squad, which is sponsored by Polly Washington, performs the half-time shows at Urbana home football and basketball games. During football season the squad performs dance routines to music played by the high school band. During basketball season, the squad performs to a variety of music. In order to prepare for half-time, the Tigerettes practice twice a week for two hours — sometimes practice is even called on Saturdays and during the summer they attend camp at SIU. Tryouts are at the end of April or the beginning of May. The squad encourages everyone with interest and dedication to try out.

Varsity Cheerleaders perfect a routine

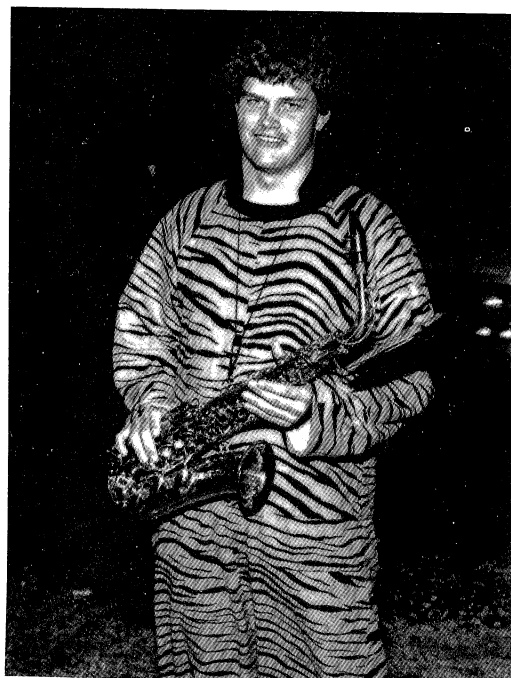

Cheerleaders kept spirits high at the Tigers' football and basketball games for the 87-88 seasons. Sponsored by Mrs. Gerriettis and Mrs. LeSeure, the cheerleaders spent many hours practicing, making locker signs, having run-throughs, and of course, cheering at the games. The cheerleaders were backed up this year by the newly formed pep squad. One cheerleader commented, "It's a lot of fun, especially when the fans are out there cheering with you."

This year's Marching Tigers were kept in line by Drum Major Rachel Smith and Director Ken Peters. It was a small but dedicated group. Their performances included every home football pregame and halftime show in rain or shine, UI band day at the Memorial stadium, and leading the first homecoming parade in four years.

The visual and quieter part of the band is the Flag Corps, led by captain Missy Everette. The flags spent a large amount of time inventing and practicing routines. Besides performing with the band on the field, they also performed at the home basketball games.

In the spring the Dance Club presented its annual spring recital. In preparation for this, the club saw shows, held fund-raising events, and of course, danced. The recital's repertoire will soon include pieces of jazz, ballet, modern dance, ballroom, Indian, Highland, and African dance. Along with giving students a chance to experience different forms of dance, the club lets students learn more about choreographing, timing, and acting out each other's parts. The Dance Club also teaches responsibility, respect for others, cooperation, and motivation. Because the students handle every aspect of the production themselves, it gives everyone involved a sense of accomplishment that cannot be gained by technical excellence alone.

Rip-Roarin' good time!

The UHS Drama Club presented Lerner and Loewe's musical PAINT YOUR WAGON as its spring production. PAINT YOUR WAGON is the story of a small town in California during the Gold Rush of the late 1800's. The story centers around Ben Rumson, the founder of the town, portrayed by David Bidwell, and Ben's daughter, Jennifer, played by Stephanie Murrell. The story tells of Jennifer's coming of age and her relationship with Julio, a Mexican miner, played by Mehrdad Azemun, and the growth and eventual failure of Ben's town.

ECHO: E. Bohn. Adviser C. Barkley. S. Shorish. ROW 2: J. Beck, P. Hawley,

The Echo is an all-school newspaper that is published as an extra-curricular activity. For 74 years "The Echo" has been published using first amendment rights. On January 13, 1988, the Supreme Court ruled that high school newspaper could be censored by principals. However, at Urbana High School censorship has not been a problem because of our academic freedom, and it is not foreseen to be a problem in the future for "The Echo."

It is published ten to fifteen times a year, and provides a way for students at UHS to become accustomed to unbiased, accurate reporting. It also gives them a chance to voice their opinions through editorials and reviews.

The Minorities In Action organization is a community service organization at UHS, with open membership to all students. Although the membership is predominantly minority students, all are encouraged to participate. Activities of the group include providing giving dances for students to attend and providing Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets to needy families. On several occasions the students have been involved in visiting community nursing homes and has even played the Easter Bunny at one of the local day-care centers. One of the main events of the group is the annual Spring Fashion and Talent Show. Last spring, MIA presented the play TONYA'S BABY, DADDY'S MAYBE, a play on teen pregnancy, starring Josh Gillespie, Kim Woodson, Tony Britt, and Ms. Ann Yarber. The group also sponsors an end of the year bus trip for those students who work and participate throughout the year. The group has several fund-raising activities during the year and is seen as an ideal organization for young people to develop positive leadership skills.

Thespians is an international society honoring those who have devoted over 100 hours to numerous aspects of the theater. Actors and technicians alike are initiated into the troupe after participating in two full-length shows. The troupe partakes in activities throughout the year, such as acting exercises, a playwright's workshop, and other theater-related events. Yearly, an international thespian convention is held in Muncie, Indiana, which some Thespians have attended in the past.

Golden Eagles Society, an organization formed this year, strives to improve the school environment for all who live and work here. There are no requirements for joining Golden Eagles, so it is open to all. To improve relationships in school, we listen and bring out problems people are having in discussions. Then if the members see the possibility of a realistic solution, they try to solve the problem in association with the school administrators. Thanks to hard work and team unity, the chess team won the state championship last year, finishing with a 29-2-1 record. Kevin Leuthold, Malcolm Carroll, and Dave Karasick all finished in the top ten in the league individually as the team won league for the third straight year. Coaches Terry Hutson, Paul Lock and Tyrone Jones have seen the team start this year's season undefeated in twenty matches, already defeating two of the top — rated teams in the state. After losing only two players from last year, this year's team looks even better and hopes are high to win the state title again.

Intense Academic Competition

The tradition continued this year as the Urbana High School JETS team finished second in regional competition to qualify for the sectional meet. The students competed in six different areas: math, physics, chemistry, biology, English, and graphics. At regionals, John Balbach took first along with John Lee finishing second in graphics. Nicolas Dade placed second and Brady Montz received third. Kevin Leuthold ranked second in math. The team did extremely well, sending fourteen of its top competitors to Sectionals on the fourth of March.

The Scholastic Bowl or Quiz Bowl team is an academically oriented excuse for playing team trivial pursuit. Sponsored by the IHSA and funded by each team's school, Quiz Bowl consists of competition between two teams. Each team has five players playing at a time. Substitutes are allowed to replace players at half-time or if a time-out is called. A "toss-up" question (a question either team can answer) is asked by a moderator. The first person to press his buzzer and then correctly answer the question gains ten points for his team along with the right to receive a 30-point bonus question. If his team can't answer correctly, the other team may try. The winner is the team with the most points at the end of the two halves. Team members include David Fleming, Laura Steigmann, Matt Kagle, Matt Ludwinski, Mitra Cowan, Rob McColley, Zach Gimm, Matt Pearson and James Hesser. The Coach is Mr. Bill Flotmann.

14th Dinner Another Success

This year the Student Senate held its 15th Thanksgiving Dinner. Over 500 people came to the Dinner to sing the famous Turkey carols with Mr. Lemons. Under the chairperson Jason Combs, 150 students and parents donated their time to provide a nicer Thanksgiving for others.

The Thanksgiving dinner is the most widely known function of Student Senate, but certainly not the only one. With the renovation, the focus of Senate has been the students. They have had many student complaints and suggestions. Senate has tried to improve the school conditions for the students. Senate also held its 2nd Annual Tiger Tailgreet, the annual Auction, worked with the Special Olympics, and manned the Pepsi machines. In addition to the well-publicized events, Student Senate is always working to serve the students and help keep the school running smoothly.

SPEECH: M. Azemun, Coach B. Griffiths, T. Grassman. ROW 2: T. Lowery. ROW 3: L. Steigmann, J. Anderson, R. McColley, M. Pearson.

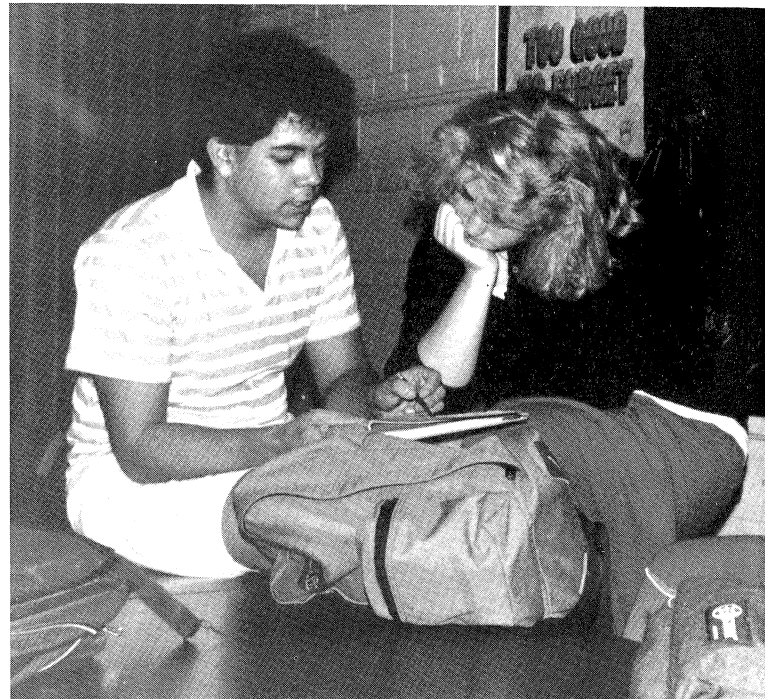

Although the Speech team organized late this year, it still enjoyed a successful season. The team included Tom Grassman with Humorous Interpretation; Matt Pearson with Extemporaneous Speaking; Todd Lowery on Original Comedy; Laura Steigmann delivering both Prose and Verse; Jenny Anderson with Oratorical Declamation; Mehrdad Azemun on Radio Speaking; and Rob McColley and Mehrdad Azemun presenting their Humorous Duet Acting skit. The group placed fourth overall in Regionals, and over half the team advanced to Sectionals. As well as sponsoring WUHS and the Video Calendar, Speech also presented Group Interpretation and its Group Play.

SADD members discuss the Saferides initiative

Shan Lusk receives a phone call at Burnham

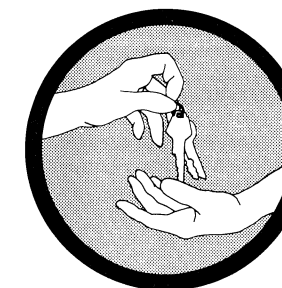

Over 8,000 students die every year in alcohol-related accidents. The SADD and Saferides programs are an attempt to decrease this number. Students involved give speeches, volunteer time, and help make the public aware of one of the country's largest problems: drinking and driving.

SADD/SAFERIDES: S. Hall, S. Lusk, T. Grassman. ROW 2: A. Zeiders, M. Draves, L. Hummel, B. Belber, D. Karasick, J. Gravelin.

Leslie Harmon lists off the meeting's agenda

FSA OFFICERS: L. Landgraver, S. Deloney, T. Lane, L. Harmon.

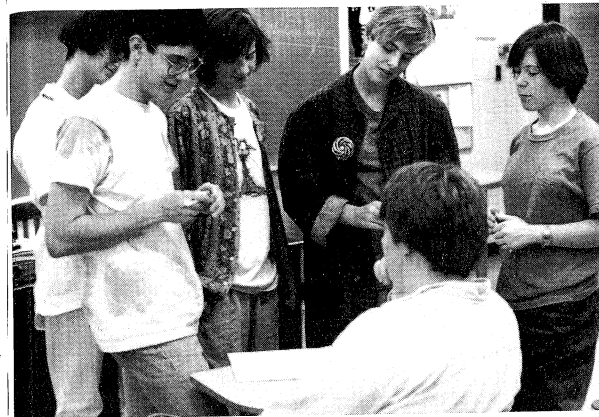

Future Secretaries Association is an organization for students interested in office careers. It is open to juniors and seniors who are enrolled in any business course.

The purpose of the club is to become familiar with all kinds of office careers by listening to speakers who are actually working as a legal secretary, medical transcriptionist, accountant, etc. Other meetings may be devoted to fashions for the office, grooming and makeup, interviewing, and other topics of interest.

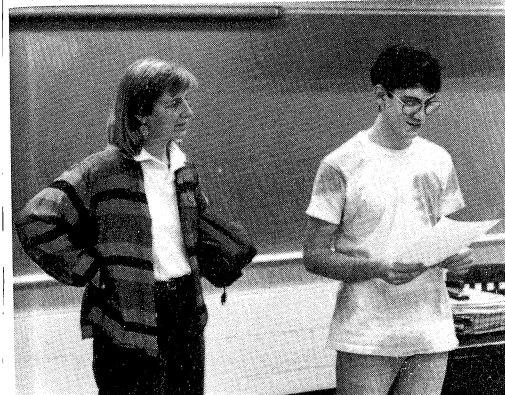

FSA: A. Smith, L. Landgraver, S. Deloney, T. Lane, L. Harmon ROW 2: J. Mathas.

Promoting Peace

The group discusses a letter to a local politician

SWI is an organization devoted to social awareness. Through sales of baked goods and tie-dye T-shirts we raised money to be distributed to worthy organizations such as the Sanctuary movement for Central American. Many forums were held on Sanctuary, the effect of the Soviet invasion on Afghanistan, and other current topics. We held a concert to promote World Peace. The Lonely Guys, Lonely Trailer, and Titanic Love Affair were among the bands participating. Various campus organizations were at the concert spreading the word about the importance of World Peace.

Pat Hawley reads a newsletter to the group.

PUPS Teaches Skills

PUPS is held at the church by Lincoln Square every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. The students are split up into three groups: those who interact with parents, those who take care of infants and toddlers, and the students who take care of three to five year-olds. They work on improving many skills, such as motor skills and social skills, to name a few.

They talk with the parents and try to give them better ways to approach their children in a more effective way. The PUPS students also learn from the parents what to expect from marriage and children. The children in the group learn how to be away from their parents and to make other friends. PUPS is truly a great advantage to the students, children and parents involved in this special class.

Larry McMillion and friends work on counseling strategies

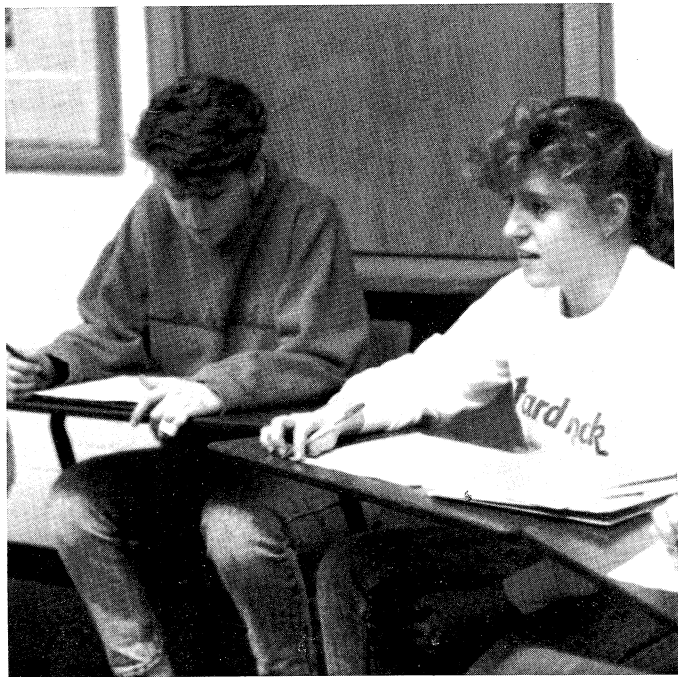

Support, advice, and concern. These are what Peer Counseling offers students at UHS. Students in this class were trained by Grace Winfield to be counselors for those who need to discuss a problem with someone other than an adult. The class also sang Christmas carols at Clark Lindsay, and planned field trips. With Peer Counselors, help is on the way.

Peer Counselors

Students looking towards their future are able to explore careers and jobs outside of school. Those in the Executive High School Internship program have started their work with sponsors in the community. The Internship program allows students to earn high school credit while working in a field they are considering as a future career. Through CWT and WECEP, students may also meet graduation requirements while these programs give them general and practical experience that may help in planning their future.

Medical Careers and Health Assistants classes meet once a day. They practice health skills and learn about the human anatomy in preparation for their careers. This year the group held a very successful blood drive, with 69 students and staff members donating 53 pints of blood. The students worked in all areas of the blood drive: registration and screening of donors, computer search, testing of blood, and processing of blood.

NHS Excels

The National Honor Society, led by president Nancy Garrett and advisor Carol Leuthold, is an organization which honors outstanding juniors and seniors for their academic accomplishments, leadership, character, and community service. In order to become a member, one must maintain a 3.5 grade point average and be notified of acceptance after the first semester of both junior and senior year. The National Honor Society holds many fundraisers throughout the year for the student body, including the Volleyball Bonanza and the Spring Runathon.

Teams fight it out at the Bonanza

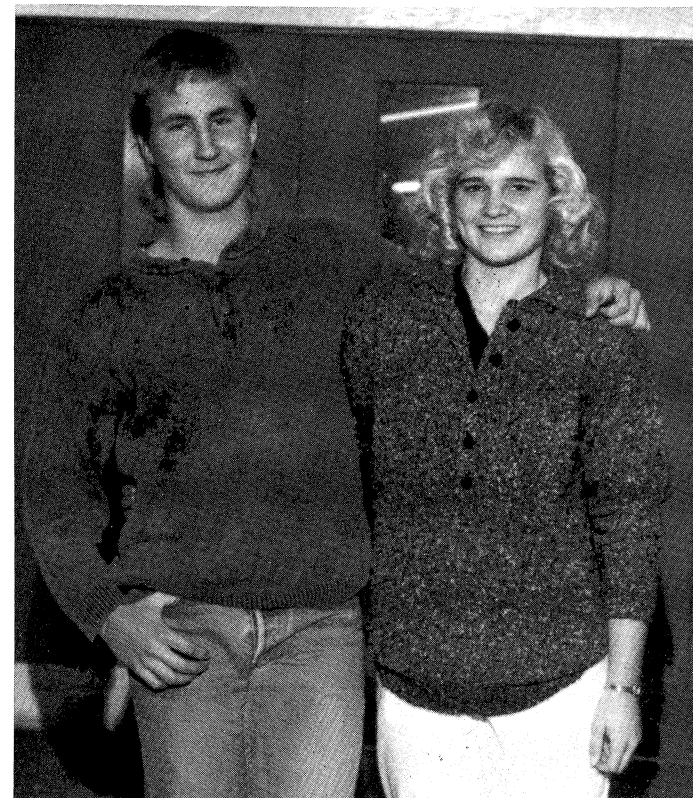

NHS OFFICERS: ROW 1: J. Kemp, N. Garrett, K. Leuthold. ROW 2: R. Tepper. ROW 3: K. Maggs. ROW 4: J. Bloome. ROW 5: M. Larson.

High Achievers

DAR-SAR award winners: M. Larson and J. Bloome.

NATIONAL MERIT SCHOLARS: N. Garrett, A. Dries, J. Balbach.

Every year the school honors students who excel in academics. These awards include the DAR/SAR award, Principal Scholars Program, and the National Merit Scholarship. The Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution scholarships are given to the students who try to make school an excellent growth experience. National Merit Scholars include students who score in the top one percent of the PSAT. Principle Scholars are students who are honored by eligibility for scholarships.

Voted Best

Each year the senior class selects five members of its graduating class to honor as outstanding. This year, the Rosemary Outstanding Senior Award was presented to Steve Welch by Mehrdad Azemun, the yearbook editor, and Tessa Bowen, the assistant editor. Also honored were nominees Camille Bouslog, Jeannie Bloome, Nancy Garrett, and Julie Kemp.

Teachers Look Back

Believe it or not, the faculty members of Urbana High School were once young, immature students like all of us. We asked a few teachers to look back at their high school years, and recall what has changed since then.

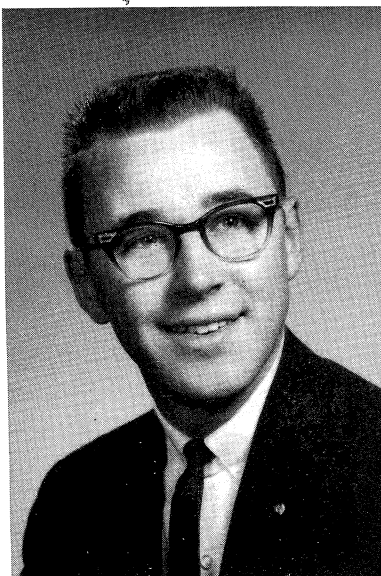

"The more things change, the more they stay the same." I don't know who said that, but the writer easily could have been talking about high school. I graduated nineteen years ago, and despite superficial changes in fashions and fads, things are still very much the same. Students still

- wait until the last minute, and beyond the last minute, to do assignments
- hate grammar
- find math confusing and utterly pointless
- fudge lab results
- argue with administrative policy
- complain about cafeteria food
- whisper, nudge, and leer whenever their hormones are acting up
- want to move out
- agonize over future plans
- wish high school were over
- wish it would never end

And they still hope their lives will be worthy of their dreams.

RAY STOLIA

What do I remember from high school? First, I remember only skipping one day when my best friend and I skipped one period to work on a science project we conned her brother into doing! (We didn't get caught). The funniest incident I remember from high school was hiding Mr. Litwiller's grade book (biology) outside the window and his spending the whole period looking for it. Dress? I remember wearing hard sole shoes every day (tennis shoes for PE only), always wearing a belt, and girls' always wearing a skirt or dress (the principal came on the PA and would announce a special "slacks day" for girls if the weather fell below 0°.) Most classes were routine — never any movies or field trips, just teacher's lecturing or our doing work sheets. Things have even changed at Urbana High School since I first taught here in 1968. I remember a boy being sent HOME because he wore a tank top which exposed his hairy chest!

DAVID LEMONS

In spite of all the publicity about how teens are so different from other generations' teens, I think in reality teens of every generation generally have common characteristics. Differences, however, do exist. In the 50's when I was a teen, girls were expected to wear skirts and blouses or dresses with bobby socks and penny loafers to school; "pedal pushers" were saved for out of school casual wear. Boys wore slacks and shirts; jeans were very seldom seen. The designer expensive jeans were still in the future. Our places to meet friends were the drive-ins (restaurants). We would usually stop off after school or after a date at the two popular drive-ins for soft drinks and fries or chips and to socialize. After school jobs were very uncommon. Our lives were much less complicated. Saying "no" was only necessary in regard to alcohol. Drugs were still off in the future. Credit cards had not been invented. If you found something which you just had to own, your choices were only cash or possibly "lay-away," until you had the cash.

JAYNE NEWHOUSE

I graduated from Far Rockaway High School in New York City. Lunch was 32 cents, milk was 10 cents, and the mashed potatoes and gravy were 10 cents. They did not do it exactly as they do now. Students would take their paper-wrapped straws and blow through them, and the air would come out of the ceiling. The ceiling was made of sticks so the ceiling looked like a forest of stalactites. Rock and Roll was popular. I remember a student bringing a record, "The Clock," and doing a record "best" music.

There were no hall lockers. We had to carry all our books all day. The hallways were designated UP STAIRWAY and DOWN STAIRWAY and we were assigned to enforce the traffic rules. We had closed lunch and since we were only 18, few people had cars. I remember Olympic-size swimming pools. We wore stretch jersey tank suits. We swam nude. Sorry, girls, there was no PE for boys and girls there.

There were three disciplinary forms, all cards. You could get a "card" for cutting class, and for a minor infraction. The "SALMON," a salmon-colored card, was so serious that it became a "SALMONED" card. I remember the "salmoned" for going up the stairs. And I was trying to get to the top of the stairs.

Although the veracity of the memories might be somewhat tainted by the years, the color of those memories is vivid. It seems that present-day schoolers view school as a place they must be, whereas to us it was the only place to be. We had a deal of pride because we were Wildcats and yearned to prove our ability. This pride filled our lives. Over 2,000 fans during the game when we left after the game had voices remaining. Our school's, ran very high.

Outside of our sheltered lives, the major differences from the escalation of Viet Nam, buddies getting drafted, and further education was the "Impossible Dream."

Students would dip their paper-wrapped straws into the gravy then blow through them, aiming the wrappers at the ceiling. The wrappers would stick so the ceiling looked like a cave with dozens of these wrappers hanging down like stalactites. There were no hall lockers so we had to carry all our books all day long. Stairways were designated UP STAIRWAY and DOWN STAIRWAY and teachers were assigned to enforce the traffic rules. Sorry, girls, there was separate PE for boys and girls then.

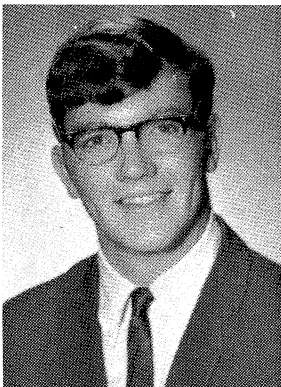

There were three discipline referrals forms, all cards. You would get a white "cut card" for cutting class, and a "blue card" for a minor infraction. Then there was the "SALMON," a salmon-colored card. This was so serious that it became a verb. You would get "SALMONED" for major infractions. I remember the day when I was salmoned for going up the down stairway. And I was trying to get to class early!

STEVE STORCH

Although the veracity of the memories might be somewhat tainted by the passing years, the color of those memories remains vivid. It seems that present day high schoolers view school as a place at which they must be, whereas to the class of '69 it was the only place to be. We felt a great deal of pride because we were the Wheeling Wildcats and yearned to prove our superiority. This pride filled our bleachers with over 2,000 fans during every game and when we left after the games very few people had voices remaining. Spirit, ours and our school's, ran very high.

Outside of our sheltered haven of school the major differences from now were the escalation of Viet Nam, peace marches, buddies getting drafted, and the belief that further education was the only way to reach the "Impossible Dream."

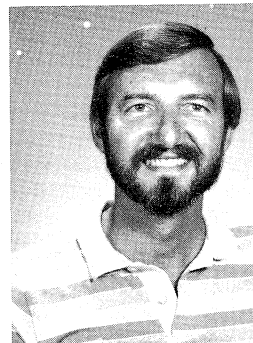

GERRY DALEY

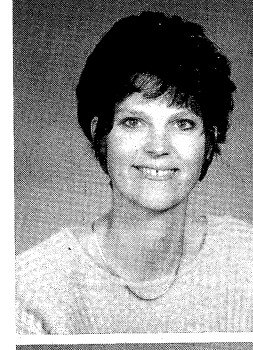

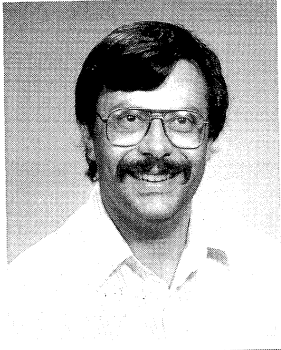

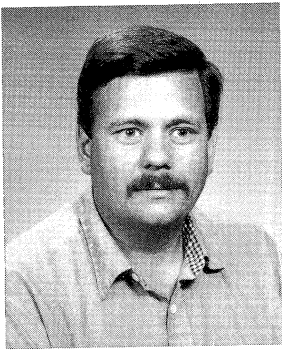

High School students, teachers, and classes are generally much more casual and open now than in the early 1960's. For example, pregnant girls then were required to drop out of school, were shunned by their peers, and left the mainstream for motherhood. Today, teenage pregnancy is accepted, and, fortunately, such girls are able to continue in school toward goals for their future. Another example is manner of dress. Twenty-five years ago, students did not wear jeans or sweats to school. Girls wore skirts and sweaters, while guys wore slacks and shirts. Classes were very structured, but there were still "goof-offs" and substitute teachers were always targets for abuse. For most students, studying ranked somewhere between sleep and taking out the garbage. Football, basketball, music, drama, and "sock hops" provided the social activities which most students attended on weekends. At dances we looked forward to that special last number which was often Elvis Presley's "Love Me Tender," although it was sometimes hard to hear it over the moaning and heavy breathing brought on by the slow dancing or last embrace. Cherry Cokes, along with French Fries dipped in mayonnaise and catsup were a favorite at the local hangout, and characters like "The Fonz" were a reality, strolling around in their black leather jackets. Life was much more structured, and as a result, more simple. We had been raised with stories about "THE WAR" (WWII) and the great depression, and were admonished to get a college education and pay for things in cash. Remembering my years at Pocatello High School (The Poky Indians) leaves me with a warm feeling and I'm grateful for the experiences I had there. Hippies, Demonstrations, and Viet Nam were yet to come, making the 80's more similar to the 60's, thanks to the uncomparable '70's.

The Urbana High School Rosemary staff went through the best and worst of everything this year, but finally came out on top. Staffers had a hard time adapting to the new leadership of Ray Elliott, the new yearbook adviser. The group went through another change when the editor-in-chief position was switched in the middle of the year.

However, throughout all of this chaos, the staff churned out the yearbook with the help and cooperation from many other people. How did they do it? No one can answer this question. ## Our Two Cent's Worth

What a year. If nothing else, a memorable one. But what isn't memorable? Interesting, exciting, rewarding ... these are better ways to describe the year. No regrets. (None? Well ... ) Never thought we'd make it. Never thought who'd make it? Us. The staff. The numerous, ever-varying staff. (Forty? Or, was it four?) My thanks to everyone who helped. To Mr. Elliott, Nancy, Mehrdad, and Mike for those last weeks. To everyone for surviving me and my sneezes without coronary arrest. To Mehrdad, who's ALWAYS ... to Nancy, for all the rides home. And to the various teachers and students at UHS who helped me to identify pictures. Although many times this year it has felt like "one step up and two steps back" (Bruce Springsteen 1987), the good times outweighed the bad. Okay, a quote to finish up with ... "You can fool some of the people some of the time, and all of the people some of the time, but you can make a fool of yourself any time."

— TESSA BOWEN

I hope that in years to come, as you flip through the familiar pages of your 1987-88 ROSEMARY, you will feel the excitement of the cheering crowds at football games, you will recall the pop music played at homecoming dance, and you will smile at the pictures of all other events and activities held in and out of Urbana High School during the 87-88 year.

LISA HOCHMAN

Lacking in ability at writing essays, I have simply included a brief thank you note. This year and ROSEMARY wouldn't have been a success without the input, enlightenment, and cooperation of dozens of people; this is just a selected few of those people.

To Mom and Dad, for just about everything: Mom for letting me skip school to go meet Frank Herbert, and Dad for shaving a lot. To Mojgone for being nyutty. To Mahta for being a captive audience and helping keep my big-headedness under control.

To the trio who helped get this yearbook done: To Tessa, for her feet. To Nancy, for laughing. To Mike, for his weird layouts. And our adviser, Ray Elliott, a cross between Faulkner and Dennis Hopper.

Thanks to my teachers: Bill, Adrienne, Ralph, Paul and Lill.

To Rob, obviously the nicest, most talented, most attractive, most intelligent, greatest guy ever (and a hater of lealties). To Tim, for his fantastic (2,-4) nose. To for that blasted Dr. Who scarf. To Steve for his hair. To Tom, who knows who Brandy is. To Brian (We Will Rock You) for keeping Taco John's in business. To Shan, for his Carmex. To Marleen for her humor, to Karin for understanding.

Thanks to Michelle the seductress, for teaching me not to welch. To Matt — may he never have sugar in his coffee — it makes him disagreeable.

To Messrs. Harrison, Lennon, McCartney, Starkey, Entwistle, Moon and Townsend for helping me keep my sanity. To a microphone company in Indiana. A Rachel in Boston who brought together the team of Rob and Riz. The chicken who gave its life to make my family's last meal in Iran.

Thanks to everyone I've ever met.

It's been a year of experience. Thanks again.

THE FINEST IN SCHOOL PORTRAITURE

A construction worker pauses for a rest during the early days of the construction

ROBERT MURDEN

All year, students and faculty alike complained about the renovation of the school. They complained about the loss of classroom space, the loss of money and the loss of time. But there was one worker at Urbana who suffered the ultimate loss. On Monday, February 1, 1988, 32-year-old Robert Murden of Paxton was killed after he fell fifteen feet to a concrete floor while he was rigging steel in the old gymnasium. Flowers were sent to his family as an expression of sympathy from the staff and students at UHS, and the Murden Educational Fund was founded in his name for the benefit of his children. We at Urbana High won't forget the man who gave his life for the renovation.

JEFF KAUFMAN

Jeff Kaufman, a UHS student, died early Saturday morning on October 10, 1987. He had been fighting a battle with Hodgkins Disease since 1985, when he was in seventh grade. Sadly, he lost that battle in a Chicago hospital. Jeff had overcome the disease three times and mentally never gave up the fight. He appreciated many things in life and did not let cancer get in his way, if he could help it. He was a guitar player and a lover of sports.

When the disease was first discovered, Jeff put a lot of energy into playing his guitar and played in several bands. He played a season of football in ninth grade, despite the chemotherapy treatments he was taking. Jeff worked at home with tutors during his sophomore year, while he spent much time in the hospital, in order to keep up with his classes. His sincere interest in people and life in general served as a wonderful lesson to all.

It has been said that with suffering, a person is brought closer to nature and the true meaning of life. This statement certainly holds true in Jeff's case. Jeff was a wonderful person, and had many friends in the community and the high school. He will be missed. But as he would say, "Rock-n-Roll." Forever.
