Each year the drama club puts on a fall play and a spring musical. Ticket sales fund the productions, but the club also sold breakfasts of doughnuts to U.H.S. students to help equip the stage and manage production costs. A winter candy sale provided advance money for the musical. After students have completed over 100 hours on stage and have been active on at least two crews, they are awarded Thespian honors.

The Speech Team moved into stronger and more frequent competition in 1984. The team generally were rewarded for their hard work and talent with high scores. Eden Bodnar finished first in Dramatic Interpretation in regional competition and eighth in state. Mara Langan captured a second in regionals in Prose Reading, Alex Francis a fourth in Extemporaneous, and Jonathan Westfield secured a fourth in sectionals Original Comedy. WUHS continued its tradition of Friday second hour broadcasts with news, weather, interviews and comedy.

Tiger Night Held In UJHS Gym

Student Senators once again proved their commitment to serving the students of the school and the community. The candy and pop machines maintained by Senate provided something good to munch on as well as some good funding for school activities. The annual Thanksgiving dinner was the expected success. Main attractions at the annual auction were Mr. Gremer and Mrs. Ashenfelter. He provided the voices, and she provided the face for the infamous pie auction. Tiger Night was bigger and better than other years. Senate continued its service tradition in style.

1. Chandra Taylor, Jon Westfield and Jerome Wolley check plans for MIA calendar. 2. Stephanie Wisdom and Karen Miles note past, present and future black leaders. 3. Maurice Jones makes plans for making home visits.

Under the advisordship of Grace Wingfield, MIA promoted a host of activities the 1984 year. Several members regularly visited the elderly in local nursing homes. The group produced Black History month presentations daily during February and created a showcase for the month. A dance was held in the Fall and a fashion show was hosted April 6. Day care centers received Easter Bunny presentations and food baskets were distributed in November and December.
