Our Honored

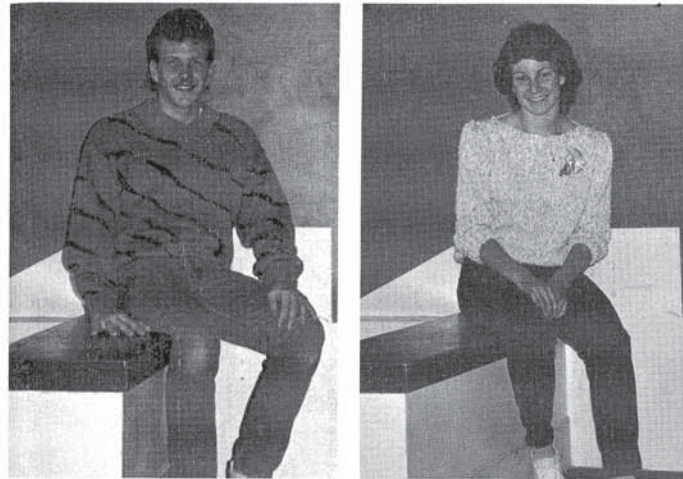

It is typical that athletics receives so much attention and that school activities so well attended. But there are those at Urbana High that receive less attention than they deserve. Those are the honors students. The National Honor Society honors people for their services, leadership, and character. The students involved must so have a 4.5 grade point average. UHS is very proud this year to have 27 students in the Society. Four students have been chosen as National Merit Scholars. Jennifer Unger is not pictured) Those chosen as Scholars must show an above average intelligence and reasoning ability. They attain this honor by scoring in the top 1% of all the people simultaneously taking the SAT. Over the past five years, Urbana's performance has been consistent, boasting usually of four finalists. Girls and Boys State consists of experiments in governmental processes. The participants can, if they wish, attend governmental camps in Jacksonville, IL to learn skills about running a country. At the camp the people have their own elections to hold government offices. The highest honor is to be elected governor. The next four pages honor some of Urbana's most outstanding students.

Nine Urbana High School students were honored at the 22nd Annual Scholastic Art Awards presentation. Stephen Bodnar was the big winner, walking away with two of the five regional Hallmark awards, six blue ribbons, one Gold Key, and one Honor certificate for a total of nine entries exhibited in the show. Irene Juama and Terry Jones received blue ribbons and Bobby Mechtly received a Gold Key. Honor Certificates winners were Jenny Applequist, Catherine Wolfe, Jim Vattano, Peggy Purkosrow, and Lisa Wolfe who received four certificates for her photographs.
