'Scum' theme for Homecoming week festivities

Class competition, decorated halls, and enthusiasm, all made up a part of Homecoming 70.

The Homecoming weekend, that passed so quickly, began Friday morning with the excitement of driving and judging the decorated cars, entered in car competition.

During the traditional Pep Assembly, held Friday afternoon, the sophomore attendant, Mary Hecker, junior attendant, Cindy Morgan, as well as King and Queen finalists were announced.

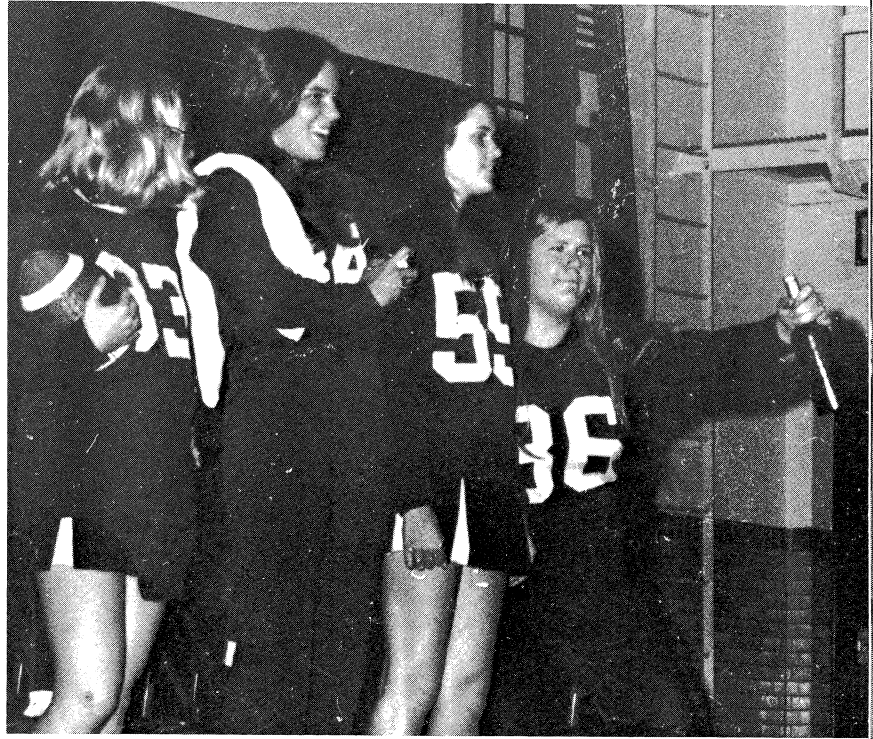

Although spirits were dampened at the loss to Mattoon, it was revived at the Homecoming hop with the naming of Ron Chambers as Football King from the finalists who included Bob Blackwell, Richard Gish, Tom Nally, and Mike Stahl.

Topping off the weekend was the Homecoming dance Saturday night in the girls' gym under the theme of "A Hazy Shade of Autumn."

Central students find Many varied pastimes

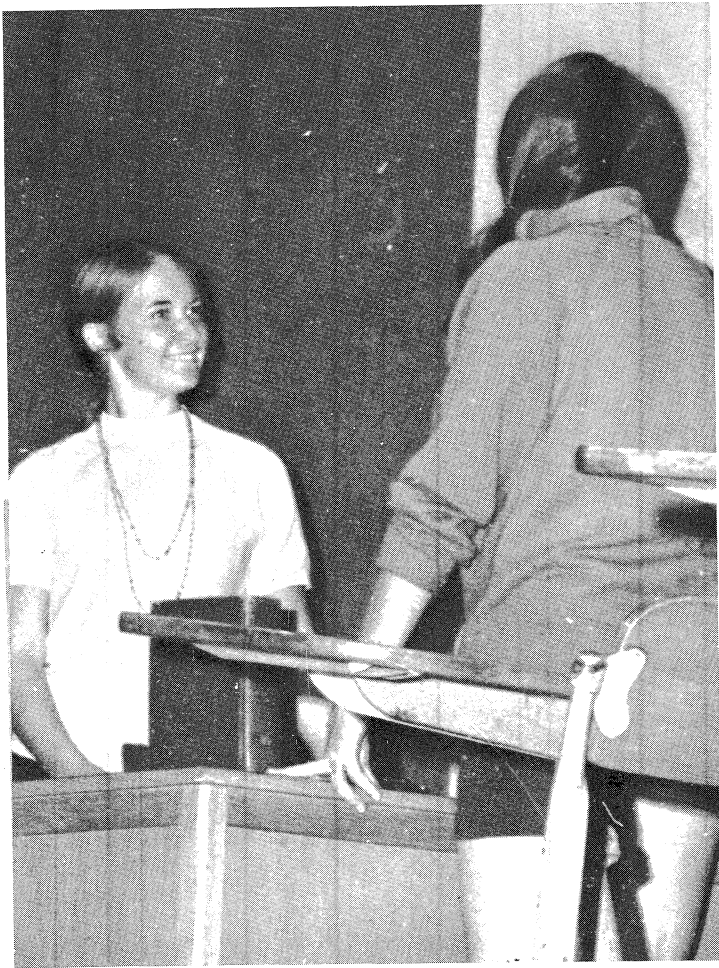

Although Central students were kept very busy this year during school, they found many and various activities after school hours.

Many of the CCHS'ers found jobs at different places around town. Other students joined intramural teams to find excitement. Still others just took off not to return until the next day.

No matter what the students did all CCHS'ers kept busy in school and out.

Broadway smash is Central's fall play

"Up the Down Staircase," the fall play, starred Nikki Broadrick playing Sylvia Barrett, who was a new teacher at Calvin Coolidge High School. Her fellow teachers were the handsome Paul Barringer played by Dave Anderson and Anne Shapland, as Beatrice Schachter, who helped Sylvia survive her first days of teaching. Joe Ferone, played by Avery Grimes, was the problem student, and John Yarling played J. J. McHabe, the vice-principal much like our own. These and the many other students helped to make the play a great success.

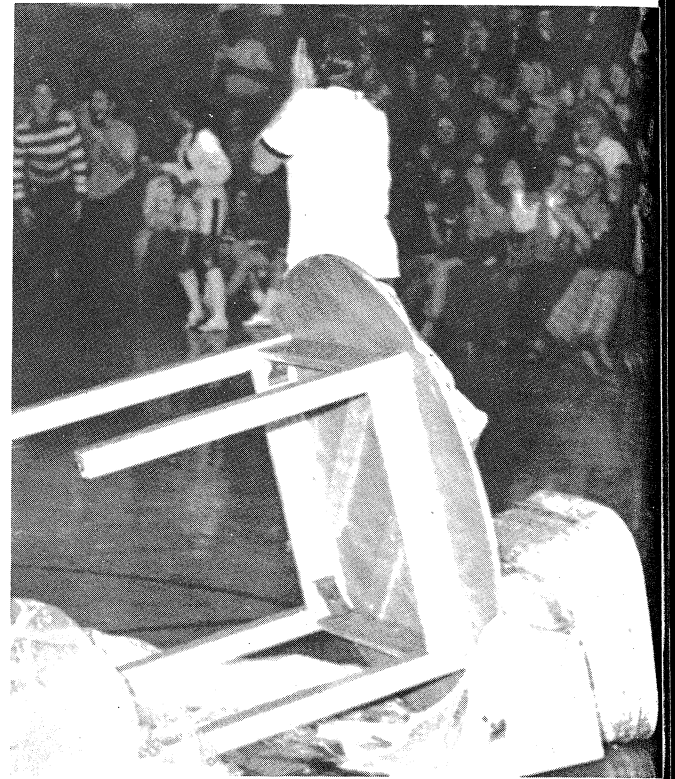

Mighty Maroons slaughter the Urbana 'Regits

Proven by the game on Friday the thirteenth, good luck was on the Maroon's side.

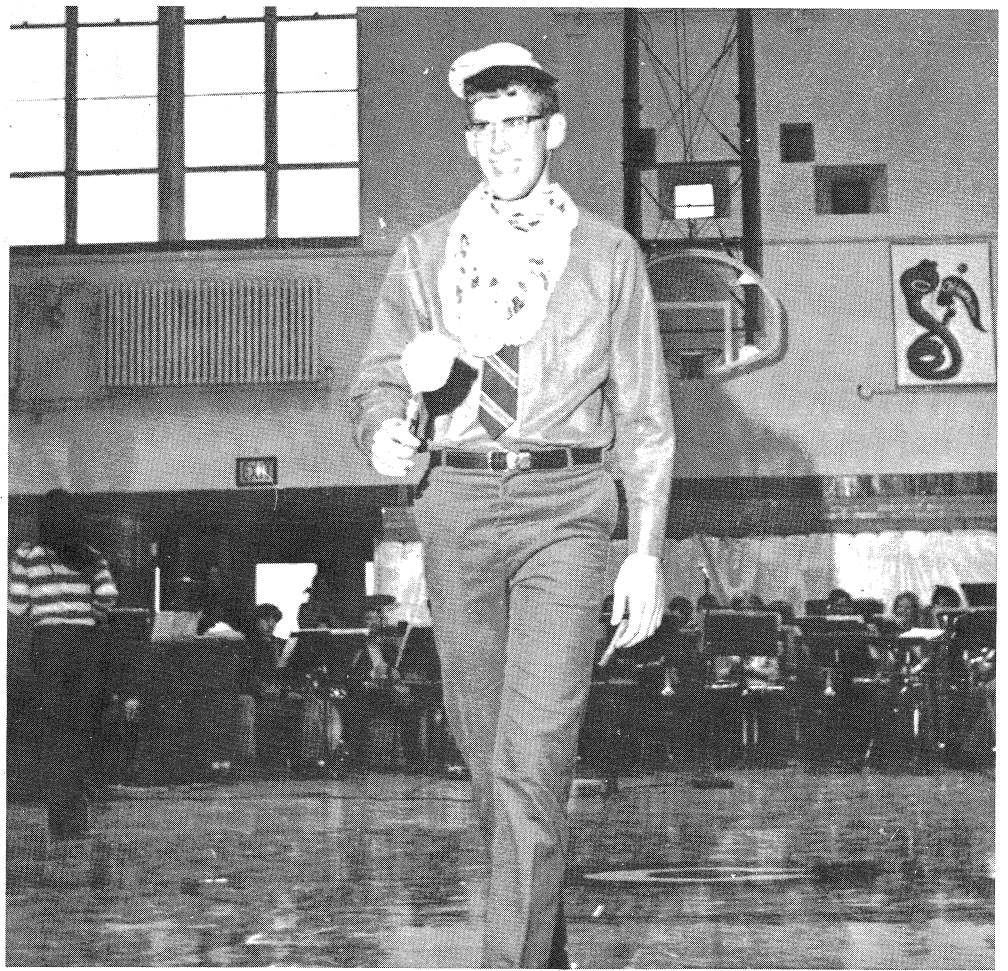

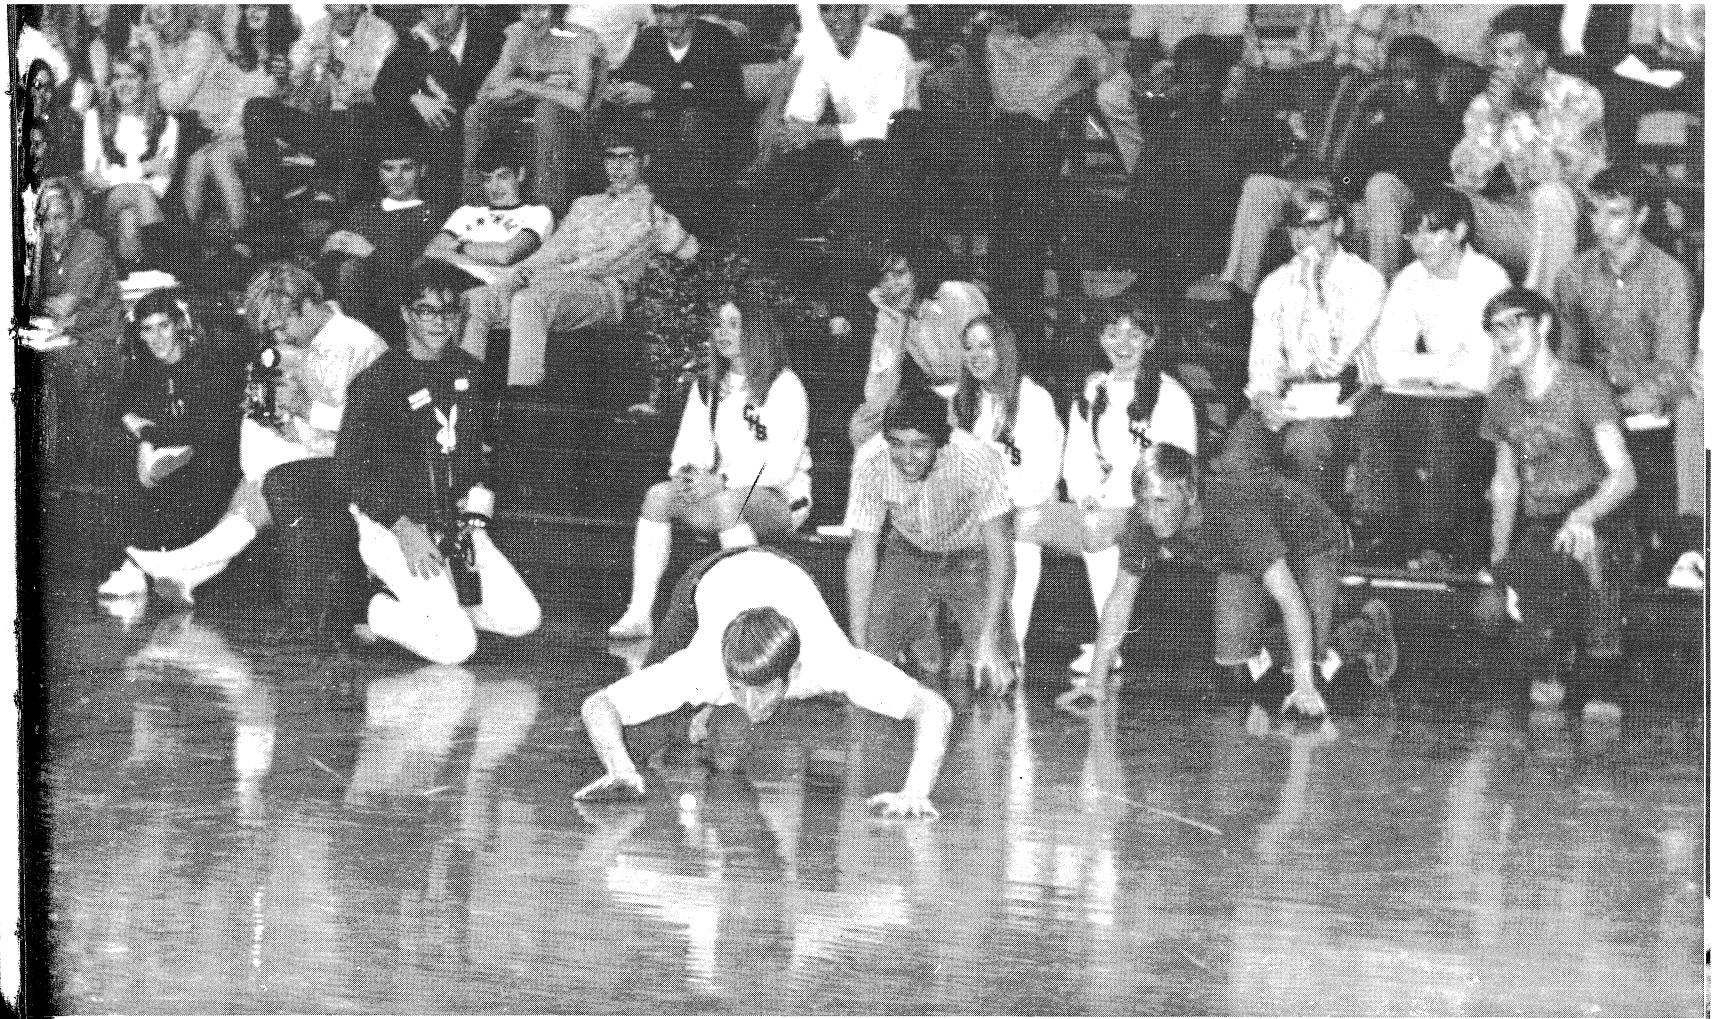

The highlight of the game came during the fourth quarter with Blackwell's disputed pass to Chambers that set us up for our final touchdown.

The all-spirited Junior Class broke tradition by winning the hall decorating competition with their theme "Pacify the Tigers." Seniors came in second with "Beat East Champaign" and sophomores following close behind with "Jinx the Tigers."

The victory over Urbana made all the week's hard work worth while.

Outstanding seniors Receive high honors

Four senior boys were given the honor of attending the annual Boys' State in Springfield. Tom Murray, Tom Nally, Dave Sholem, and Don Stewart were the four boys chosen to represent our school. While in Springfield, they were able to take part in a simulated state government.

Honored for their high performance on the National Merit Scholarship test were Cynthia Faw, John Katsinas, Debbie Lindeman, Fred Pugh, and Greg Smith. These students were encouraged to pursue their educational dreams.

Intrastate exchanges Present fresh ideas

The chance to see other schools throughout the state was given to many Central students this year through the Intrastate Exchange Program.

Each student was first interviewed by committee chairman, Karen Neely, before being accepted as an exchangee. After showing their knowledge of Central and the ability to get along with new people, the exchangees were given an opportunity to visit schools in Peoria, Orland Park and many others.

Each of these schools sent two exchangees to Central for a week also. While at the schools, the exchangees met new people and exchanged many new ideas.

Stunt Show provides Memorable evenings

Clubs and individuals entered acts in Stunt Show 1971 "No Show Tonight." Some of the organizations that had acts were Student Council, Jazz Band, and Cheerleaders. The individual acts were Senior Girls' skit, Junior Girls' skit, duet acting, and others.

An award was given to the acts with the best performance. Cheerleaders won for the organizations and Senior Girls received the award for individuals.

Musical groups tour The southern states

Band and choir financed their annual concert tour through the sales of candy and private financing. They toured through Kentucky and Tennessee giving concerts in various towns. The Jazz Band received a standing ovation after one such concert.

The students and chaperons went shopping at boutiques in Memphis and on a boat ride in Dyerburg, Tennessee. They were unable to attend a recording session at Pepper and Tanner due to a lack of time.

Team honors mothers

Highlight before the Urbana game was the annual honoring of the basketball players' mothers. A new feature this year was the recognition of the cheerleaders' mothers, as well as the coaches' wives.

All mothers and wives received a corsage before the game. They also were seated together helping to cheer the team on to a glorious victory.

Youth center provides recreational opportunities

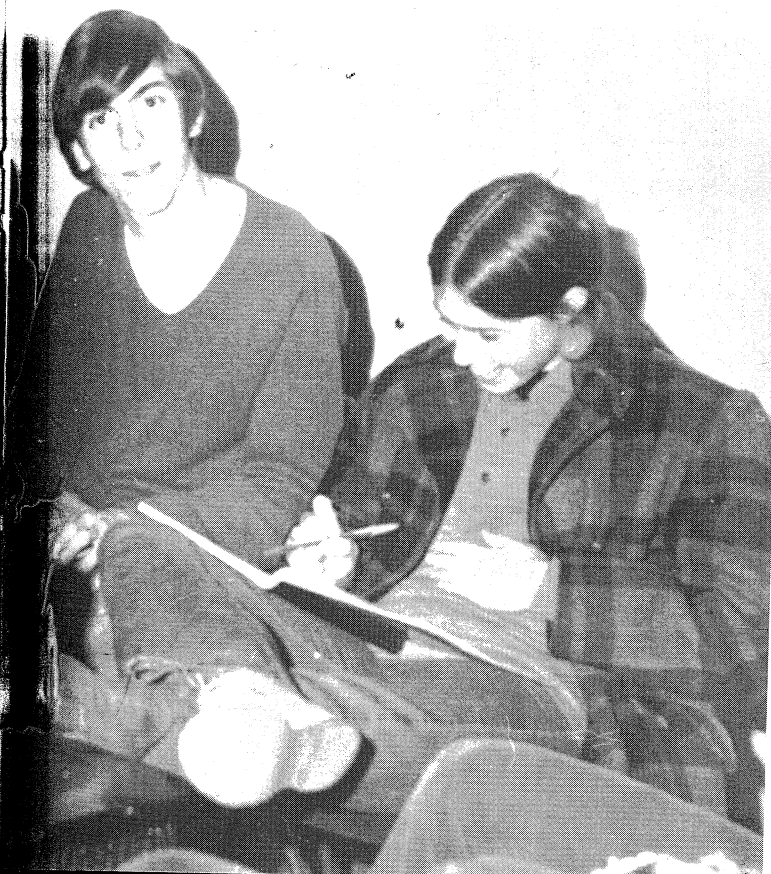

Open Arms Inn proved to be a popular meeting place for Central students this year. Students enjoyed dances on weekends as well as many various other activities during the week.

Starting the week off were the old-time movies on Monday night. During the week Open Arms was open for just bumming around. On weekends, besides dances, Open Arms sponsored hayrack rides in the fall and during the winter ski trips to Alpine Valley.

Successful Supper brings an exchange student

International Supper was an unqualified success. Over $1000 was earned toward bringing an exchange student to Central for the next school year.

Some of the countries represented were Germany, Italy, France, and Mexico. Various American cuisines offered were Pennsylvania Dutch and Soul food.

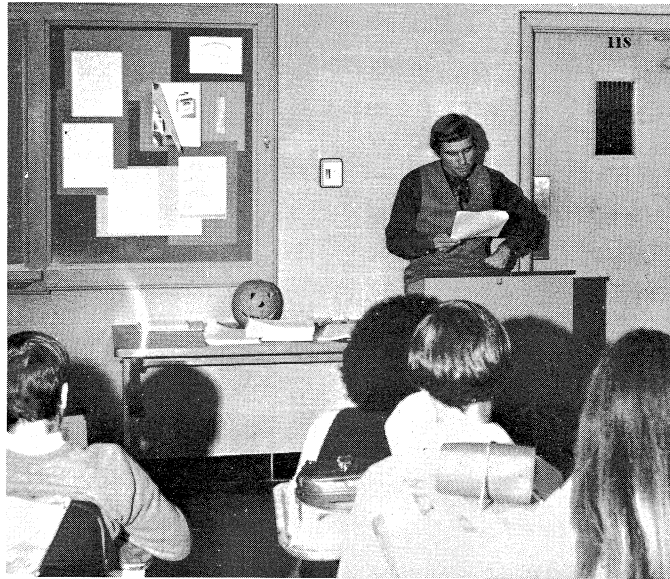

Foreign Exchange Club sponsored the supper and decorated the cafeteria with flags and posters from many of the countries of the world.

Academics

Courses cater to all

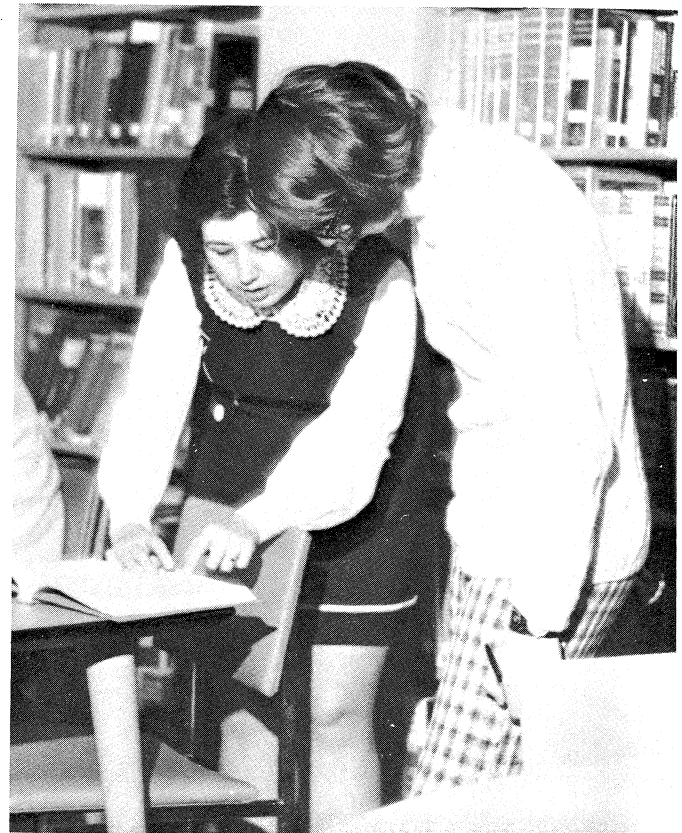

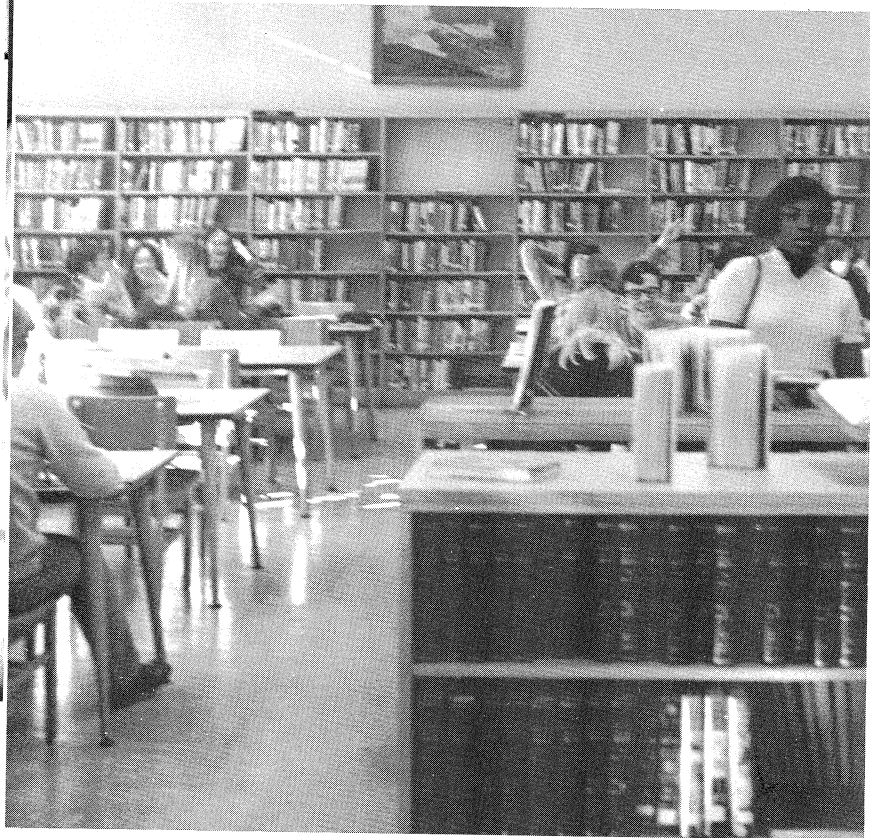

The English department developed a large curriculum to provide courses that cater to all students' needs, abilities, and future expectations. With this goal in mind, English courses included the study of world literature, grammar, composition, and modern literature. The grammar and composition stressed upon proficiency in college-level skills and was aimed at college entrance. In the Reading Lab, emphasis was given to the increase of reading speed and vocabulary without the loss of comprehension. Students wishing to develop poise and confidence in public speaking situations enrolled in Speech I and II classes.

Librarians never rest

The library staff consisted of two skilled librarians and two secretaries. Their work was never ended as they continuously put away books, signed passes, re-organized the card catalog, checked books out to students, and maintained peace and quiet in the library. An extensive collection of over 12,000 books can be found in our library at Central. An interesting set of books, "This Fabulous Century," was added to the collection this year. These books and other facilities were used to the utmost by students during every period of the day.

Classes give insight Into lives of others

French, German, Latin and Spanish were the languages offered at Central. The basic skills of listening, speaking, reading and writing were introduced along with the customs and cultures of the various countries. Filmstrips, records, and tapes used in the language lab were all part of an intensive effort to produce fluency and skill. Fourth year students realized while reading literature of people in a native language that language was not just a college requirement. They looked forward to some distant date when they could use their knowledge in a foreign country.

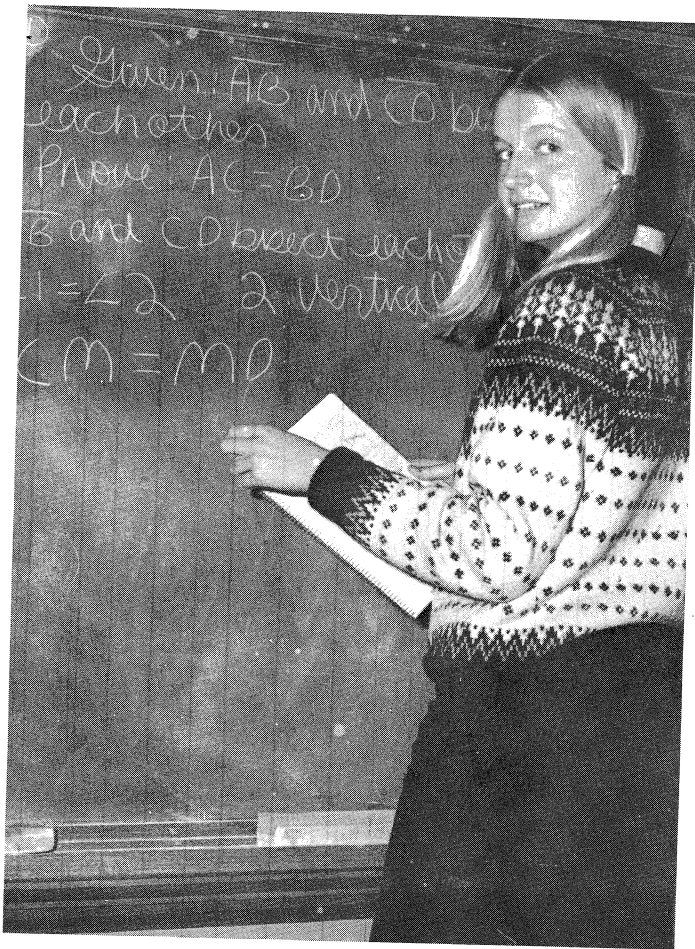

Understanding the world is the main objective

Understanding the world was the key phrase found in Social Studies classes whether it be a World History, U.S. History, Contemporary History, Economics, Psychology, or Sociology class. U.S. History was required of all juniors while all other courses were electives. Psychology dealt with the mind and actions of the individual and Sociology handled the many social units within a nation. A general view of money problems, national and personal, highlighted Economics classes. Contemporary History students strived to solve the problems facing us today. Nevertheless, each course left its students with renewed confidence to face our detailed society.

Persistency necessary for constant challenges

Persistent students found many challenges when confronting their math homework. For those students planning to attend college, a year of Algebra and Geometry were necessary. A general math course was offered for those seeking an understanding of the basic fundamentals of arithmetic necessary for the average student's needs. College Algebra, College Trigonometry, and Analytical Geometry were available to those students with a special interest in math or related subjects such as chemistry, physics, or engineering.

New course complements list of science classes

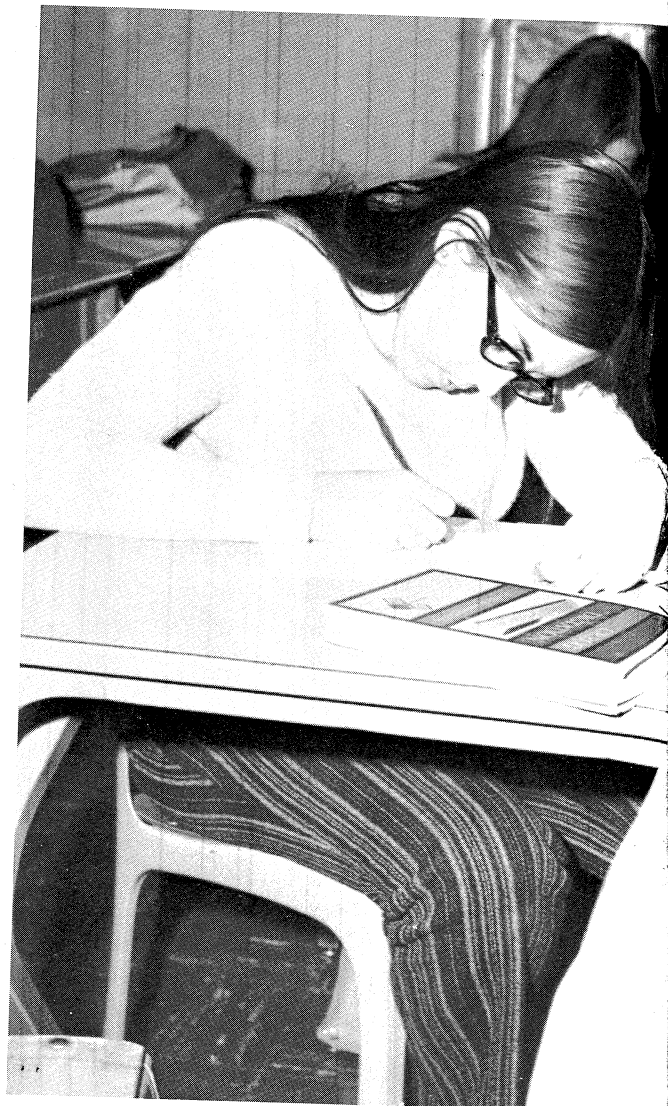

This year a new science course was added to complement the changing science curriculum. The course, Environmental Science, inspected those things concerned with our environment and then strived to come up with solutions to the environmental crisis that we face. Anatomy and Physiology, which is the study of the structure and function of the human body, plus a Microbiology class were again offered at Central due to popular demand of the students. Other courses already stable in the curriculum included Physical Science, Biology, Chemistry, and Physics.

Central students prepare for the business world

Each year job opportunities become more specialized, but through Central's Business Education department students became prepared to meet the professional world. Through classes such as Clerical Typing, Shorthand, and Secretarial Problems, students prepared for vocations in the secretarial field. Other Business Education courses included Personal Typing, Notetaking, Bookkeeping, Business Arithmetic, and Data Processing. The courses were supplemented by office machines which provided an opportunity for students to use the equipment that would be encountered in actual office work. As a result of daily drills and practice with the machines, students were taught the latest in modern business techniques and methods.

Home Ec prepares Students for future

When one thinks of the Home Economics department, he might recall the smell of cookies baking or a new dress just sewn. However, Home Economics involved much more than food and clothing. Family Living emphasized relationships within the family. Adult Living class studied home, family, and how to adjust to everyday living. Child Development studied child growth and care. Nutrition and food classes probed the world of ingredients in various foods. Students discovered that the art of homemaking was not as easy as it looked, while at the same time it was enjoyable.

Boys complete house

The Industrial Arts program taught the basic fundamentals of electricity, woodworking, printing, metal work, auto mechanics, and building trades. Knowledge was gained by working with the various machines found in the department. There was a type of machine for every type of class offered. First hand experience was found in the Building Trades class. They spent class time working on the Project House which is built every year for a family to buy.

New choir director Establishes changes

A special field of study, music, offered more to students than just another classroom course. Any student was welcome in the band or one of the three choirs: Sophomore, Advanced, or A Cappella for the more experienced singers. Most of the music students' time was spent in preparation for concerts, contests, festivals, and the annual tour taken by the band and A Cappella Choir. A new choir director, Mr. Decker, came to Central this year and brought many changes.

Art classes sharpen senses along with perception

Central students had the option to choose from a variety of art courses depending on their ability and interest. Courses ranged from leather and jewelry to drawing and pottery. Form, texture, and color composition were the main principles studied. Students had the opportunity to participate in the Regional Scholastic Art Awards program. Regional exhibitions gave students local recognition and many won blue ribbons of merit and gold achievement keys.

Physical education is Requirement for all

Physical education was a required course for all students during the 1970-71 school year. Besides physical activity, there were safety classes for sophomores to prepare them for behind the wheel training, and health classes for juniors and seniors. Many different sports were undertaken in girls' P.E. while the main ones for the boys were basketball and gymnastics. Spalding pool was used to the utmost every period of the day for swimming instruction. Many students at Central received a Beginning Swimmer badge as a result of the class.

Special program has Goal of awareness

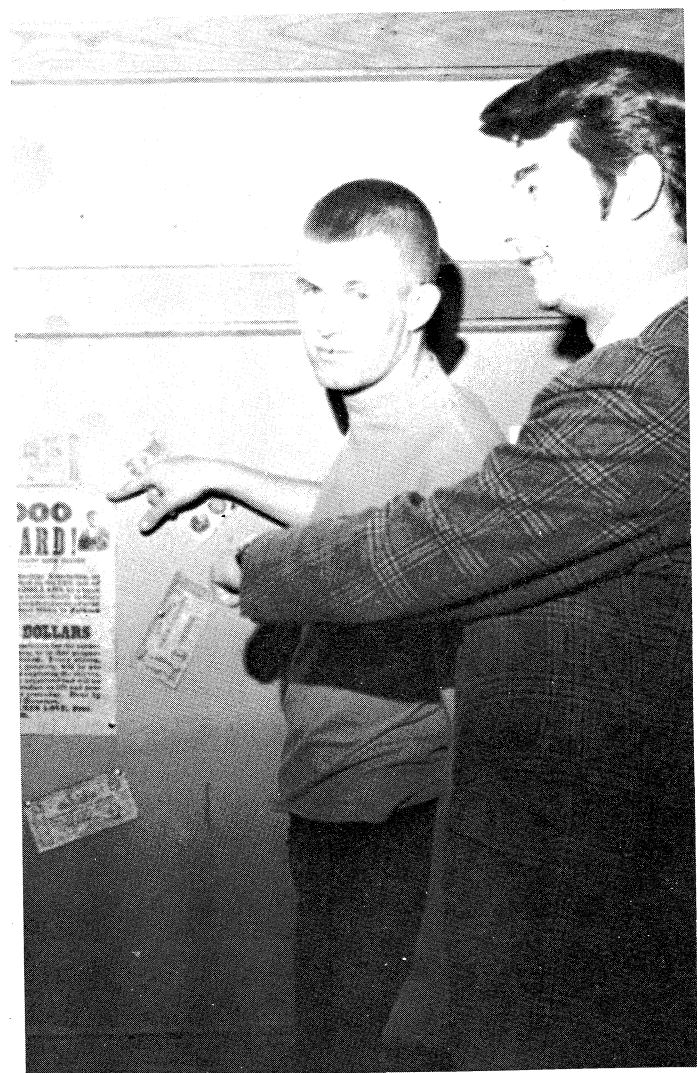

Awareness was the key goal found in the E.M.H. and O.E. programs. The Occupational Exploration program focused on occupational awareness. It enabled students to work in a field which they would like to experience. They learned to make change, handle income taxes, work time clocks, and gain a general knowledge of work habits and behavior while on the job.

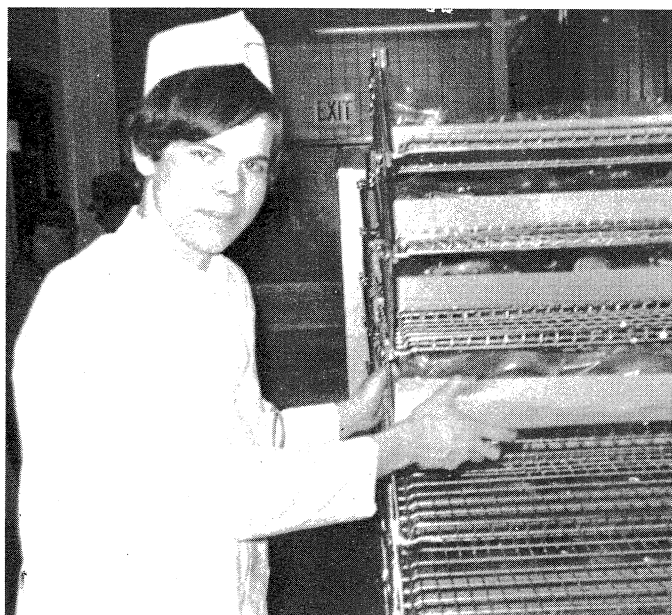

The Educable Mentally Handicapped program offered opportunities for students with special needs. Small group work and individual attention was focused upon in regular and special classes.

CVE students gain First hand experience

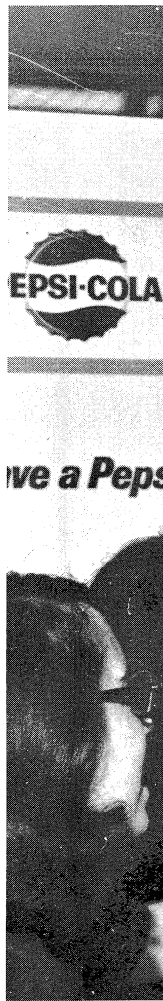

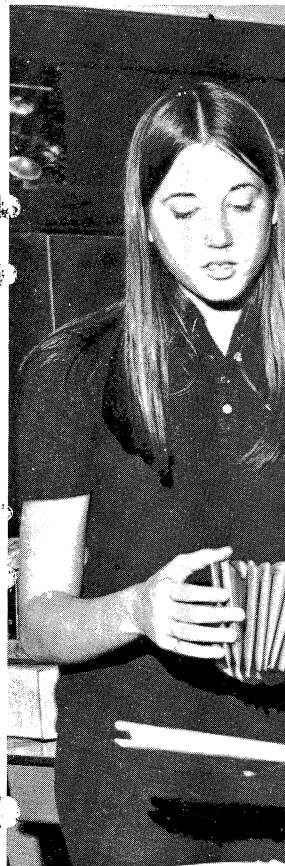

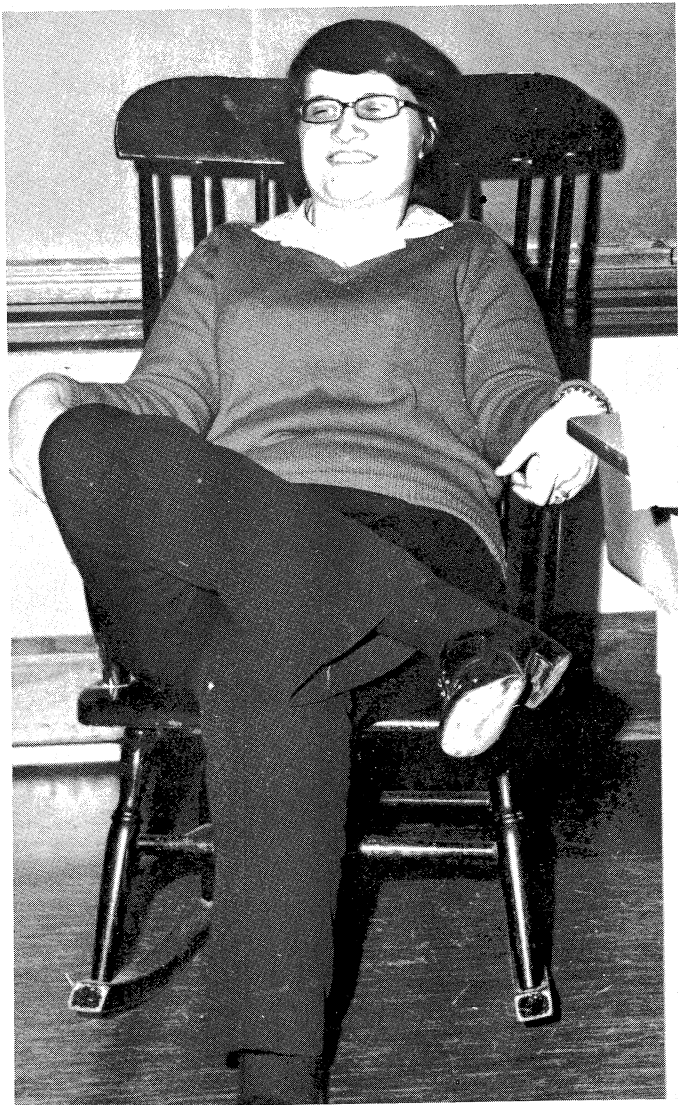

A marvelous opportunity for experience in the working world was found by those students enrolled in CVE. They attended classes for half a day and worked the other half. Before going out on the job, students were required to take a CVE class to learn the skills needed to become successful in the working world.

Local businesses cooperated with the CVE program by allowing students to work half days. Students were employed in various jobs ranging from department store work to construction work.

Chronicle staff shows Ambition in publishing

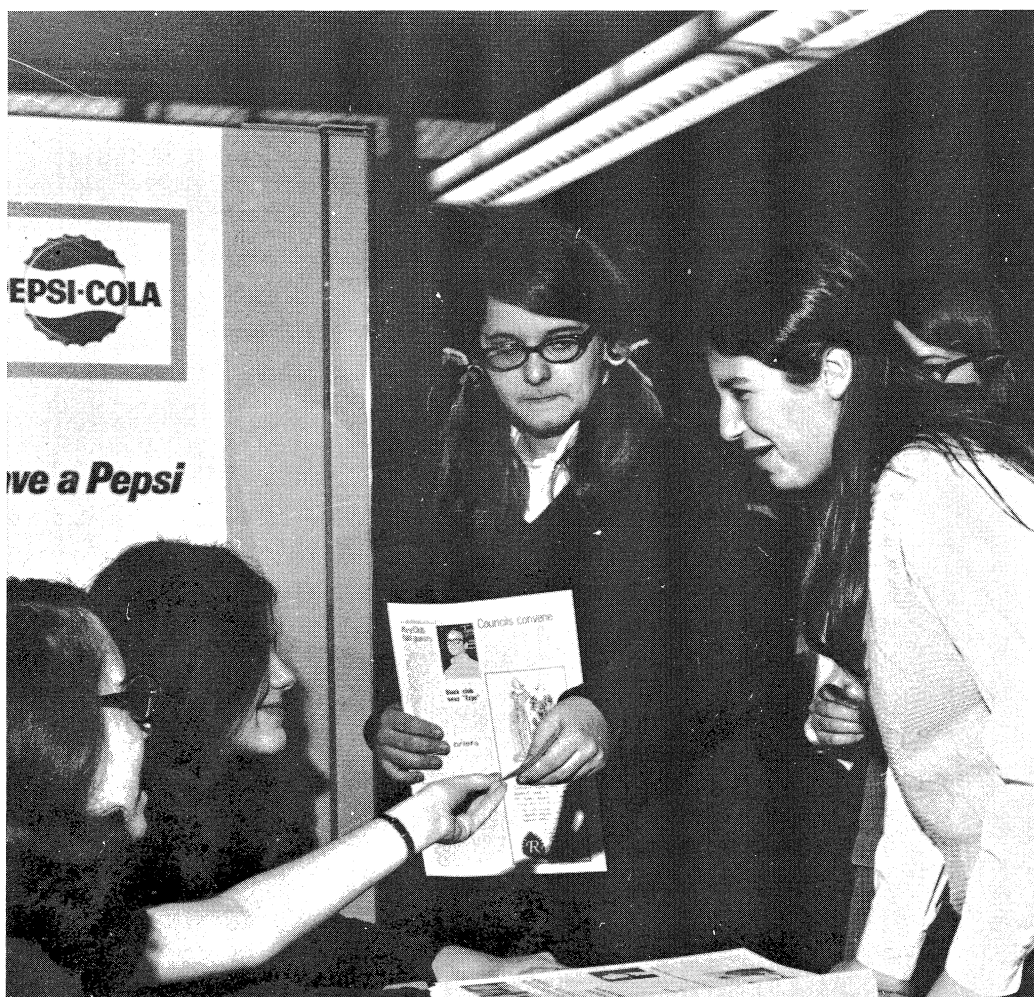

This past year has brought several changes to the Chronicle. A different kind of paper was used along with new ideas from the University of Minnesota High School Newspaper workshop. The size of the paper was reduced and the staff published the paper weekly.

Many sophomores were added this year. They took on the job of writing stories and going on interviews.

This past summer the editor-in-chief, Nancy Gersbaugh, the news editor, Steve Kircher, and the feature editor, Karen Tarpenning attended a workshop at the University of Minnesota.

Personal action — Prelude to progress

Key Club has long been noted as a service club to the community and the school it represents. The club is a branch of the Kiwanis organization at the high school level.

This year the club has participated in several worthwhile and successful projects. One is their work week, in which the members of the club allowed themselves to be hired out as slaves to the public. The members also collected for the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Fund. Throughout the year they have supported two children through the Christian Children's Fund. The members also had their fun. They entered a decorated car in the car competition and did a skit as part of the Homecoming activities.

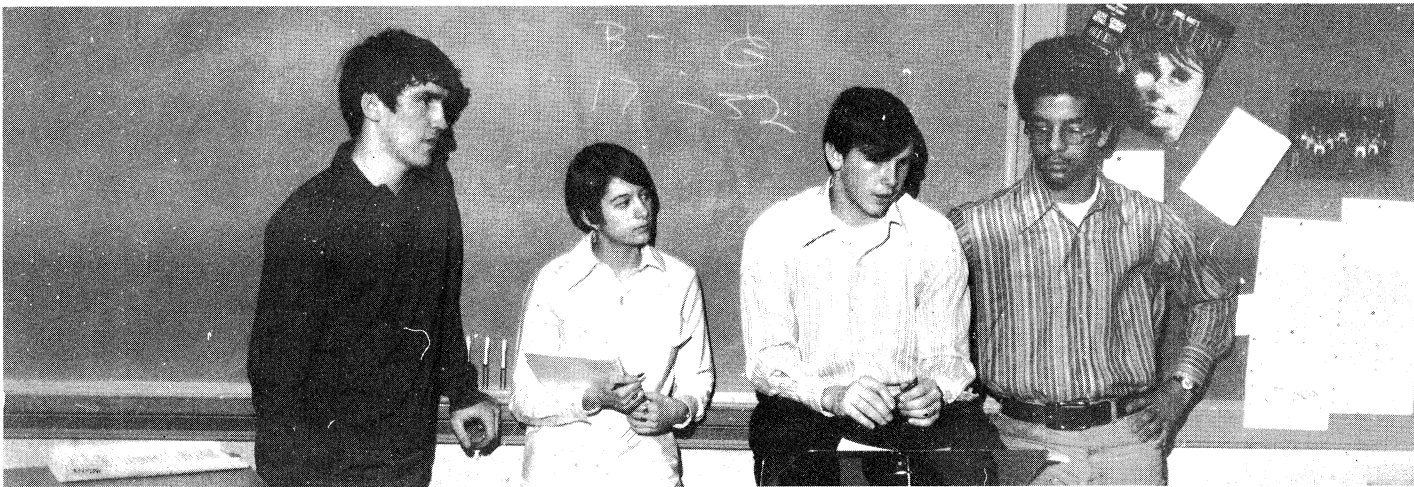

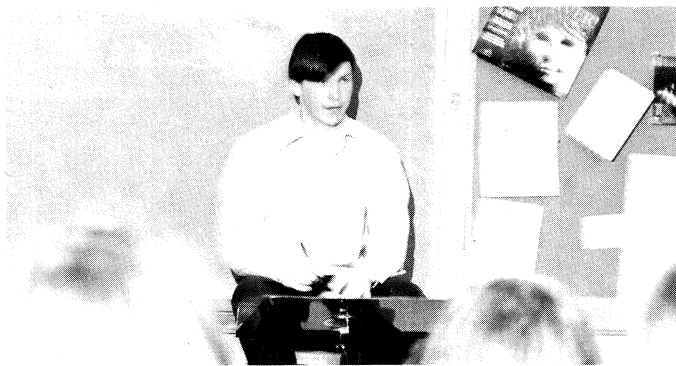

Officers for the year were Chris Hunker, president; John Katsinas, secretary; Frank DeAtley, treasurer; Jim Cobb, parliamentarian; and Mr. Bowman was the club sponsor. "Personal action — prelude to progress" was the theme of Key Club International 1970-71.

Sixth hour representatives voice grievances

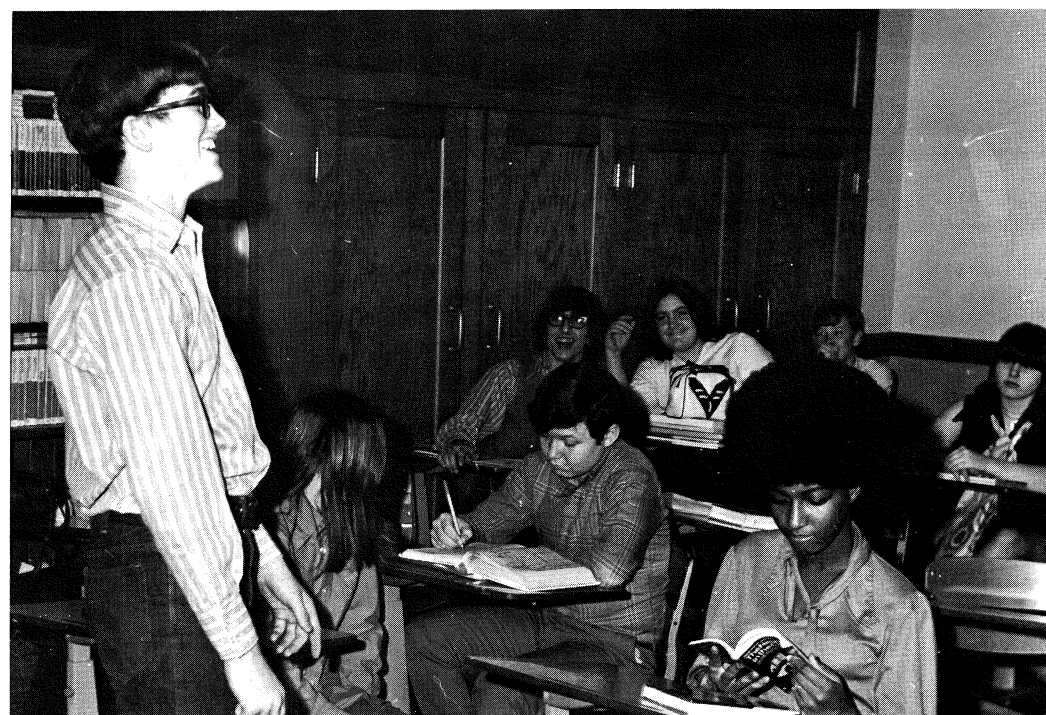

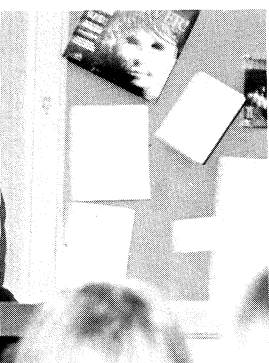

House of Representatives, made up of students elected to represent each sixth hour class, met once a month this year. House gave students another opportunity to voice their opinions, gripes, and ideas on school matters. House printed lunch menus weekly and they were distributed to each class. The lost and found was taken over by House members and a more organized system was produced. Officers for the year were Rick Clevenger, speaker; Bob Blackwell, speaker pro tempore; Nan Walker, secretary; Danny Pryor, treasurer; and Mr. Gher was adviser for the organization.

S.C. organizes many activities for CCHS

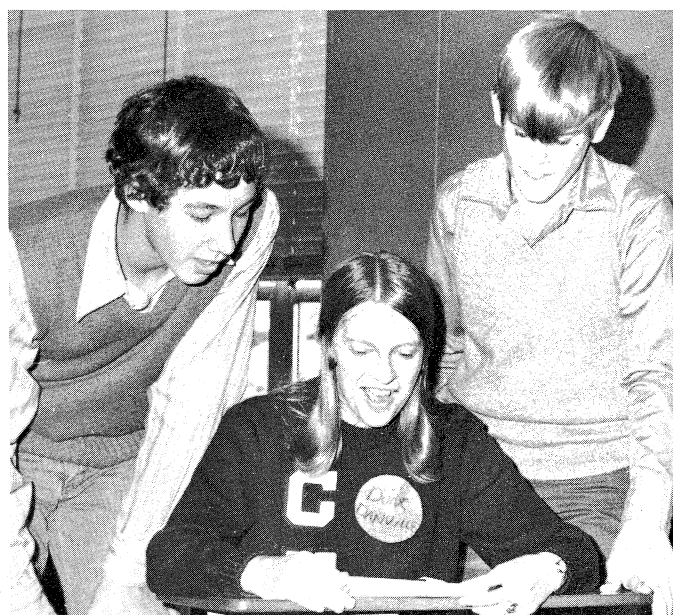

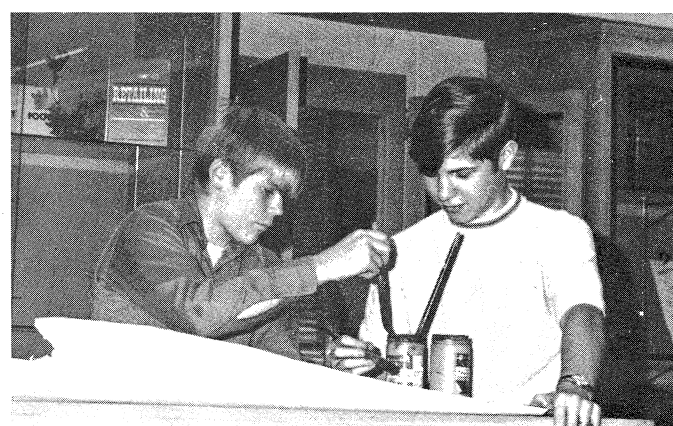

Student Council, Central's student government, has been very active throughout the year with various activities. This year Student Council sponsored Homecoming, Beat Urbana Week, and state exchanges. They also sponsor the student supply room located in the cafeteria. Delegated students from Council are in charge of the marquee, located on University Avenue. Student Council members attended their District Convention at Normal, Illinois and the District Workshop at Monticello, Illinois. In April they went to the State Convention at Chicago, Illinois. This years officers were Tom Nally, president; Tim Leonberger, vice-president; Karen Neely, corresponding secretary; Debbie Smith, recording secretary; Gawaine Perkins, treasurer; Greg Massinari, parliamentarian; and Rick Clevenger, speaker of the House. Willing volunteers Work in main office

The volunteer office assistants helped the attendance office in many different ways. By taking care of the attendance records, getting the office ready for PTA meetings, taking phone messages and greeting visitors, these girls learned the basic skills of office work. The girls considered it independent training as secretaries. They had a great opportunity to learn the fundamentals of IBM work by sorting and alphabetizing cards. The girls were chosen on their integrity, initiative, responsibility, and co-operation.

Counseling guides do Many jobs for office

Counseling Guides become very important and a necessity in assisting the counselors with various duties. They delivered passes, messages, took phone calls, helped with the preparation of career showcases, and partook in general office work. Counseling Guides are chosen on the basis of their honesty, tact, integrity, diplomacy, and their co-operation with people.

Language clubs find Cultures interesting

As part of club activities for this year, German club was visited by Chris Gersbaugh, a Central graduate, who was exchange student to Germany in 1968. Mrs. Bernhard, club sponsor, showed slides on her trip to Austria that was taken last summer. Officers for the year were Susie Speck, president; Tim Gillis, vice-president; Paul Bluhm, secretary-treasurer; and Sue Cordes, program chairman.

Labor Omnia Vincit — Perseverance Conquers Everything, is the motto of Champaign Central and of Latin club. This year the club sold notepaper for their money making project. With the money they enjoyed their annual Christmas party and a pizza party. Officers for this year were Ellen Clevenger, president; Mary Bartholomew, vice-president; Marsha Holt, secretary; Richard Clevenger, treasurer.

Club earns money For new exchangee

The Foreign Exchange Club was very busy this year in planning for the International Supper, which is an annual event. The money earned from the supper helps finance a student, who is chosen, to go to another country on an exchange. This year the club also made pizzas and sold them to those who placed orders. Officers for the 1970-71 year were Tim Leonberger, president; Patti Scherer, vice-president; Julie Nachtmann, secretary; Ann Radcliffe, treasurer. Corrine Shirley and Cindy Gates acted as co-chairmen for the International Supper. Mrs. Marion Kessler was adviser.

Canvas Board makes Cards for community

Canvas Board is an honorary art organization. To become a member, a student must have attained an A or B average in all of his art classes for one semester. The sponsor was Mr. John Lindstrom, an art teacher. The president was Rosalee Spiegel, a senior. Together they organized the club.

The project of the year took place when members of the club designed original Christmas cards for the school to send to other schools and officials of the city. Each student used his own designs for these cards.

The meetings were held during the activity periods and after school. Several committees were formed to make advance plans. During one meeting the members took a field trip to Mr. Smith's house. There they viewed a studio and a gallery.

Afro-American holds Food drive for needy

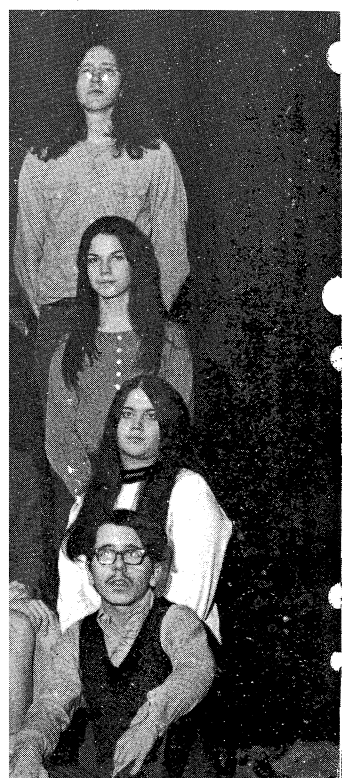

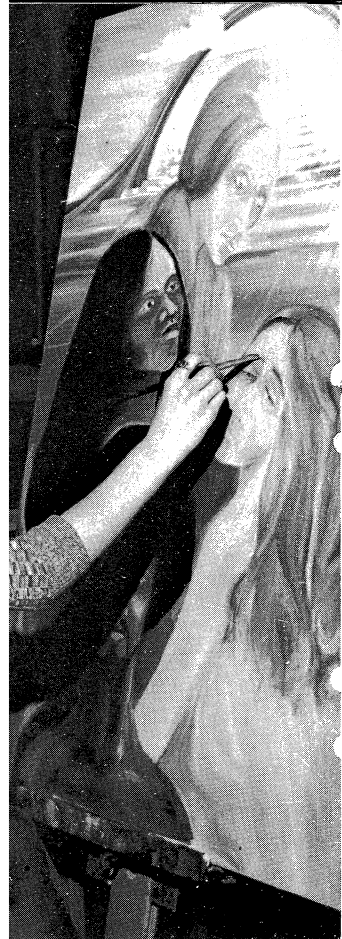

This year Afro-American was sponsored by Mrs. Meares and Mr. Carrodine. The president was Bob Blackwell; vice president, Jesse McNeal; secretary, Debbie Sibley; treasurer, G. S. Dunlap; and Artice James, Sergeant-at-Arms.

To make money, bake sales were held at local churches. They also planned and carried out a canned food drive. The organization that contributed the largest number of cans was honored at a dance, with the proceeds going to the winning club, Afro-American, and a Martin Luther King scholarship fund.

In January, Afro-American, in correlation with Student Council, presented an informative assembly about Martin Luther King in the Little Theater. An excellent film was viewed. This year was one of hard work for goals that are now much closer.

Members gain skills Through experience

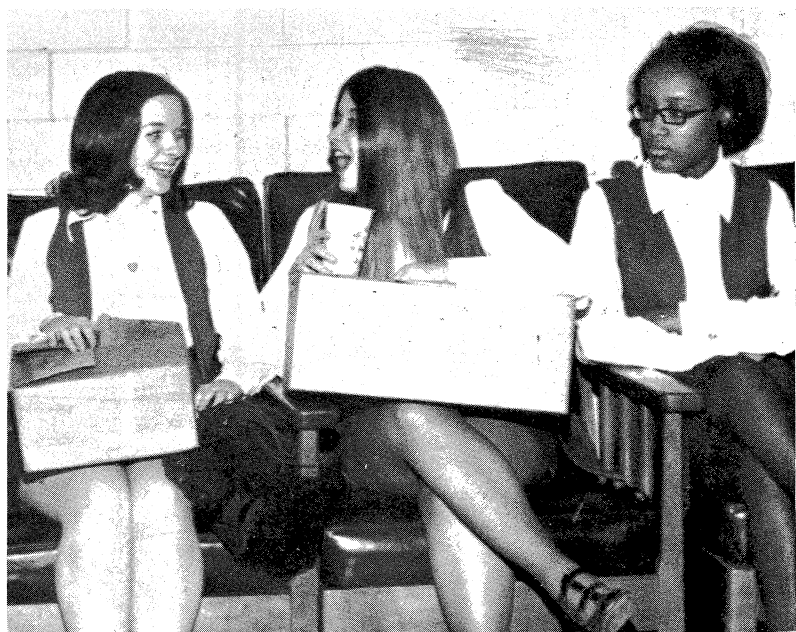

OO is an organization for high school students who plan to work in an office or doing a clerical job. Like C.V.E., these students work half of the day at their various jobs. During the class period they learned how to dress for the job, what was expected of them in their jobs, and they discussed good grooming. Through these classes the students learned how to be at their best on the job.

The sponsor was Mrs. Davenport and the president, Bonnie Minge. The club represented our school at a contest using clerical skills. Since most of the members were girls, they made matching outfits for the contest.

Through practical experience they learned many things, while they enjoyed being paid. The year was very successful and the lessons learned very valuable.

Students participate In regional meeting

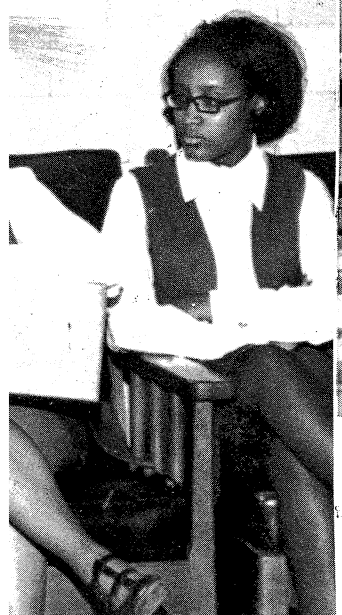

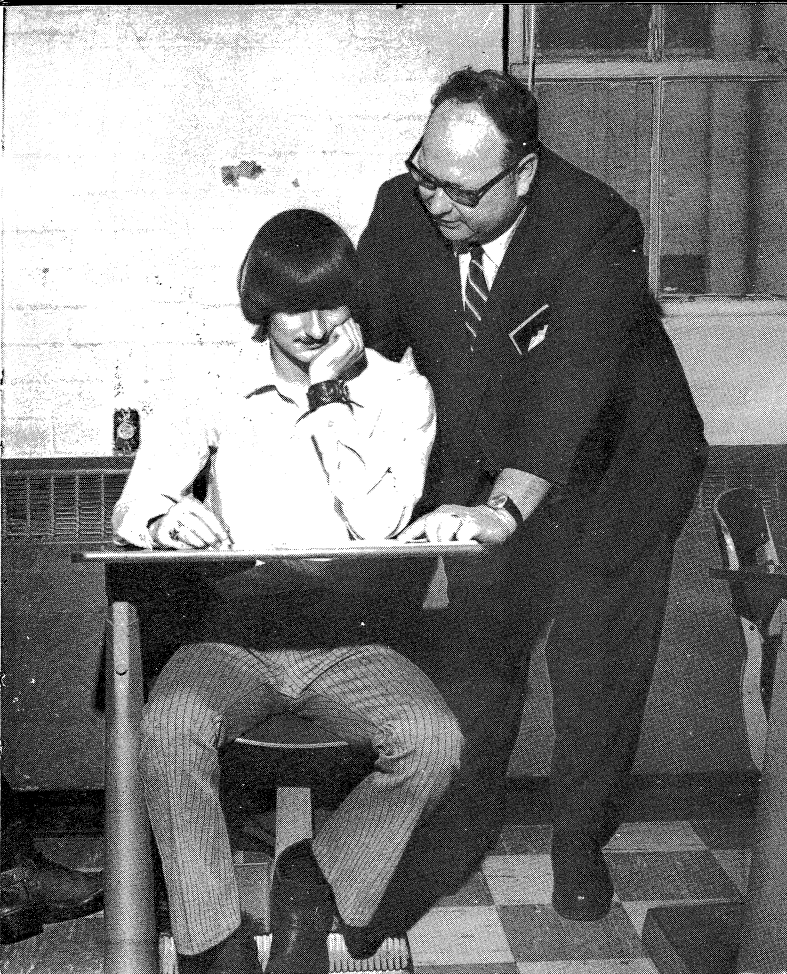

VICA is a national organization. To become a chartered group the club members must pay national dues. A member of VICA must also be a member of the C.V.E. program.

Under the sponsorship of Mr. Murphy the club became active. The relatively small group was led by President Randy White, Vice-president Gary Lee, Secretary Rick Musson, Parliamentarian Joe Mattingly, and Reporter Julie Nelson.

To make money the club sold pens and candy. Field trips were planned for spring. The club held meetings before school occasionally. They participated in a regional meeting late in February.

Club allows members To work half days

The Distributive Education Clubs of America, better known as DECA, is a national organization for vocational students enrolled in courses preparing for careers in retailing, distribution and marketing. The club offers opportunities to develop citizenship and leadership through participation in educational, social, civic and democratic activities planned by the students and their representatives. Members were provided opportunities to participate in competitive events at the local and state leadership conferences. Officers were Pearl Buchanan, president; Mindy LeCrone, vice-president; Russ Gillen, secretary; and Debbie Bloomer, treasurer. Mr. Stanley served as adviser.

Members participate In parliamentary contest

The Champaign chapter of FFA consisted of students from both Central and Centennial High Schools. The purpose of Future Farmers of America is to give young people information about farming and knowledge about agriculture. The club held meetings in the evening and occasionally during the activity periods.

Under the sponsorship of Mr. Hillen, the club sold zip code books and held a party jointly with the FHA club. The members participated in many inter-chapter activities. A parliamentary procedure contest was held in the fall. The club offered many students a chance to pursue farming as a future career.

Future Secretaries Included skillful girls

FSA is a national organization for people who wish to be secretaries. The chapter at Central was a fairly large group. The sponsor was Mrs. Gengenbach. The president was Pam Buckles, a senior.

The members of this club must have maintained a B average in all of their business courses and a C in all of their classes. They have many varied activities. Occasionally they have speakers from NSA, the National Secretaries Association. The NSA also invites members from the FSA to their monthly dinners.

The first activity this year was an initiation for the new members. Candy bars were sold to earn money. Pop bottles were collected for money. At Christmas time a party was held at Shakey's.

FTA reorganizes and Receives new charter

The Champaign Central FTA was very active this year. They started planning money-making projects early this year. The first of these projects was a taffy apple sale, then they sold stationery and planned a chili supper for before the Champaign-Urbana game in February.

Since the FTA is a national organization for students who plan to be teachers, all of the clubs must have a charter. The Central chapter did not have one, so they had to apply for one. After a great deal of red tape they finally received their new charter.

Under the leadership of a junior president, Nancy Walker, and a new sponsor, Mr. Grace, the club enjoyed a very successful and exciting year.

Future Nurses view medical opportunities

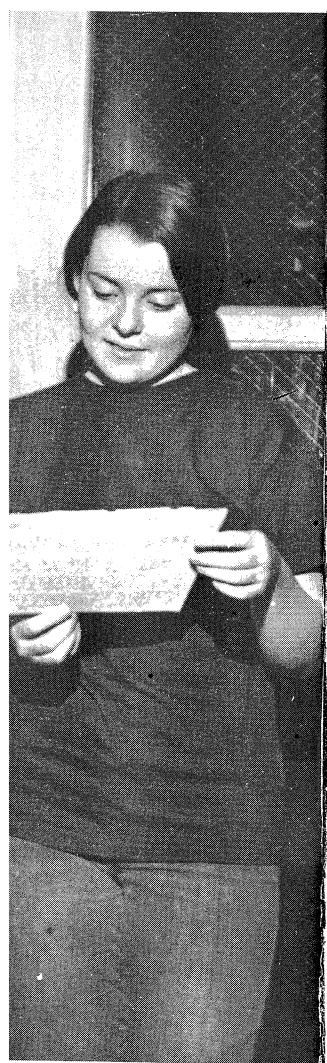

FNA is a national organization for people who wish to become nurses or to work in the medical field. The sponsor was Mrs. Ward and the president was Faith Bresnan, a senior.

The first of several activities was a formal initiation, followed by an informal initiation. Meetings were held during the activity period and in the evenings. Parkland Junior College provided many speakers, including a man from the surgical technicians program, and a representative of the nursing program. Information about scholarships was given. Trips to Chicago's Mount Sinai and St. Louis' Barnes Hospitals were planned.

The membership was largely increased this year. Many sophomores and juniors were added to the club. This was a very prosperous year for the club.

Club works to make Music tour possible

Baton Club is an organization of music students from band and choir. The sponsor, Mr. Dunscomb, did an excellent job of advising the group. The officers were president Dave Kessler; vice-president Peggy Atkins; secretary Sue Brya; and treasurer Joyce Willskey.

To make money for the band tour the club helped sell Jazz Band records, turtles, and fruit cakes. The club also planned the Vice-Versa in early March.

Central Jazz Band Wins many honors

The 1970-1971 Jazz Band brought Central much pride. The members of Jazz Band 1969-1970 made a record, "Jazz '70," which was sold in the fall. Profits were used to finance the annual band tour.

Jazz Band performed at a District Music Festival held at Illinois State University in Normal. At the festival they performed before other young musicians. In January, the Jazz Band participated in a jazz festival in Willowbrook, Illinois. In February they attended another jazz festival at Oaklawn High School, where they won first in their class.

Many concerts were given throughout the year to let the students hear the band. In early February, the Jazz Band performed during the lunch period in the Little Theater. These concerts were well received by the students.

The band planned to make another record this year. Under the skilled direction of Mr. Dunscomb, this year's Jazz Band was one that the school may be proud of. The finished product demonstrated that the many rehearsals and gruelling hours of work did pay off.

CCHS band is invited to Scotland festival

This year's band braved the cold to perform at the half time of our football games. This meant many early morning practices at McKinley Field.

Mr. Dunscomb directed the band. The president was Gawaine Perkins. Together they coordinated band activities.

Many concerts were given and a tour was planned for late February. Plans were to go to Mississippi. Among the honors received by our band was an invitation to Scotland. They were asked to participate in an international music festival for two weeks during the summer. It was decided that they could not go because of the money required.

The A Cappella choir was directed by Mr. Decker in his first year at Central. The choir was coordinated by the officers. The president was Richard Gish; vice-president, Anne Shapland; secretary, Peggy Atkins; and Kathy Krolick, treasurer.

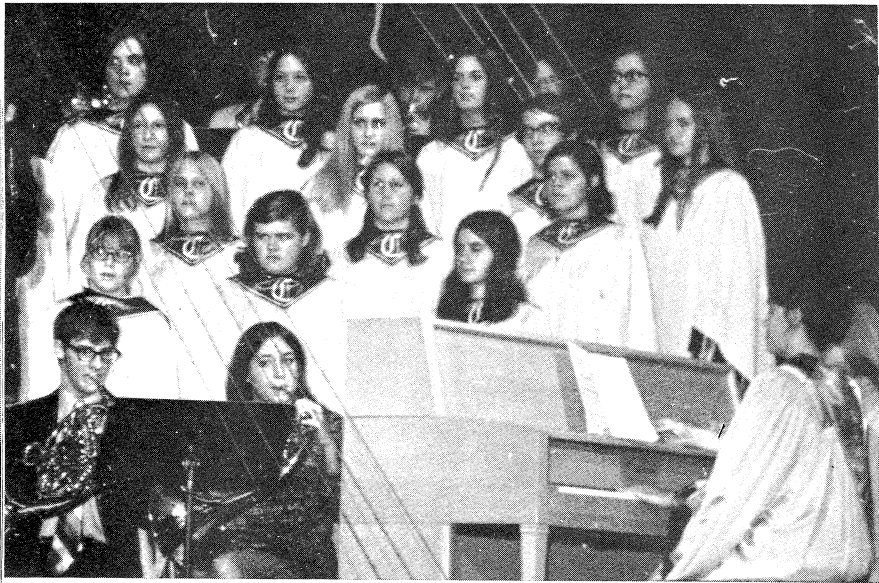

The year consisted of many rehearsals and concerts. Practices were held during the fifth hour. The hard work paid off in their outstanding performances.

Madrigals, an offshoot of A Cappella, consisted of twenty juniors and seniors. Many hours of practice went to make the Madrigals an extremely talented group. This year was a very successful year.

National Thespians Is new name of club

National Thespians, originally Wig 'n' Paint, is a national organization for students who are interested in drama. The members of this organization worked for dramatic productions in the school. Many times members of this were in charge of these productions. The sponsor was Mr. Davis in his first year at Central. The president was Richard Gish. The other officers were Nancy Rankin, and John Yarling.

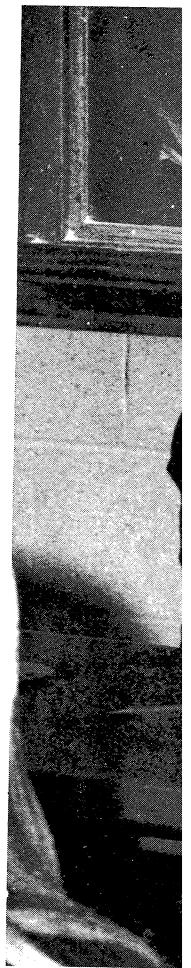

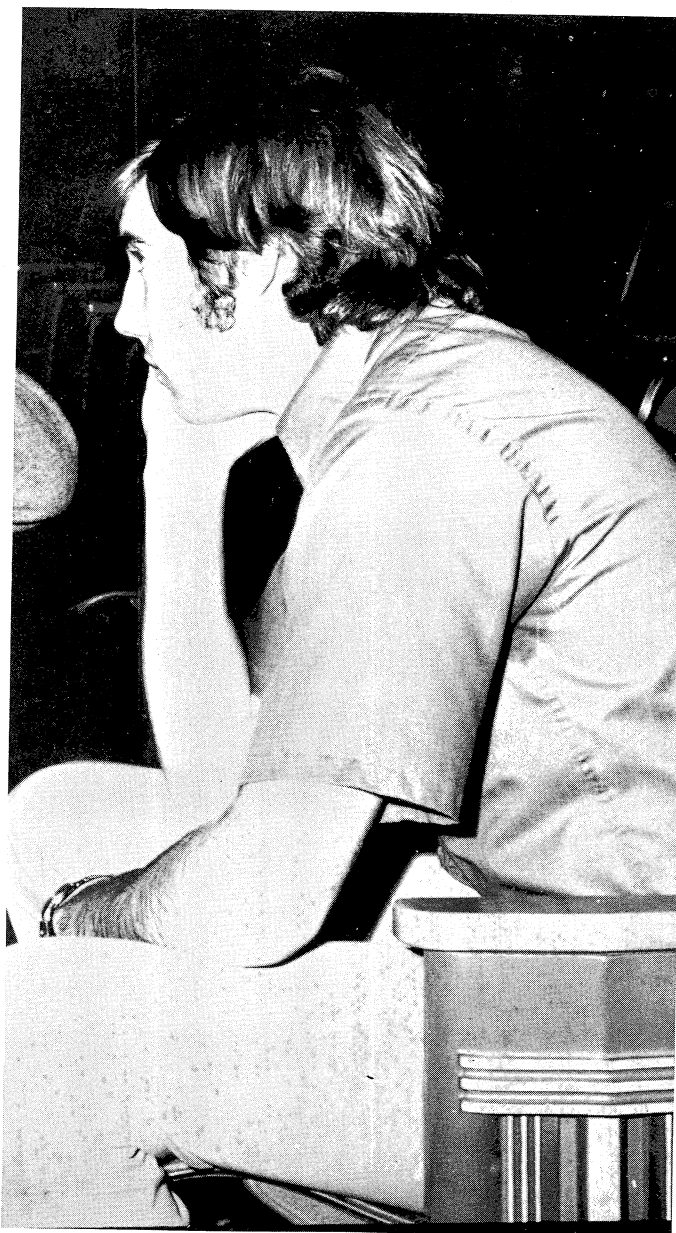

Order of the Mask, an honorary drama group, is an offshoot of National Thespians. To become a member a student must have accumulated one hundred points by working for plays and other dramatic productions.

Forensics members Host conference meet

The newly organized National Forensics Society has had an active year. Under the sponsorship of Mr. Steve Davis, Forensics has participated in a variety of meets. Forensics covered a wide variation of subjects in the art of oral speaking. The most active segment of the society was the debate club. From early November through the spring, its members debated the proposition 'that the federal government should establish, finance, and administer programs to control air and water pollution in the United States.' They held the first Silver and Roses Tournament here at CCHS. They also held the Conference Forensics Meet and took first in both novice and varsity debate. The dual acting team took first and a variety of members took places in many of the individual events.

The officers, Pete Skaperdas, Anne Shapland, and Ellen Seaver have all worked to enlarge this year's program. The debate room has become the meeting place for the debaters and individual events people to work. The room was open to anyone who wanted to work at any time of the day. The group has put in a lot of work and time to make the program successful. It was the wish of everyone in the group that Forensics, which has really just started, be expanded. The society could be proud of its accomplishments. In its first year they took third at the Conference Meet. The novice and varsity debate teams have placed at several meets, an accomplishment for any group. The experience has been rewarding for every member of the group.

GAA enjoys activities

GAA began the year's activities with a membership picnic at the Lake of the Woods. They played games and sang to guitar music. At a playday at Unity High the girls met new people and participated in relays. They hosted a February Sports day and several schools attended. Three officers went to Glenbard High where they learned about club financing, money-making projects, and new sports.

Under the new sponsorship of Miss Cattle, the club met twice a week. One day they presented a team sport and the next an individual one. GAA is an extension of the physical education class open to every girl for the enjoyment of a variety of sports activities.

Dancers organize and Renovate dance club

Orchesis is a club for girls interested in modern dance. To make money they sold taffy apples in the cafeteria during lunch periods. At their meetings every Wednesday they practiced creative expression dance competition and watched movies on modern dance.

Membership was expanded this year as more girls were exposed to modern dance the previous year because it was offered as part of the regular curriculum in the Girls' Physical Education Department. They attended concerts at the U of I and performed for the PTA open house in October. Orchesis, in correlation with the Girls' Physical Education Department, brought the U of I Orchesis to perform in the gym during the girls' p.e. classes. In the late spring they performed in Central's Little Theater.

Girls find leadership Enjoyable experience

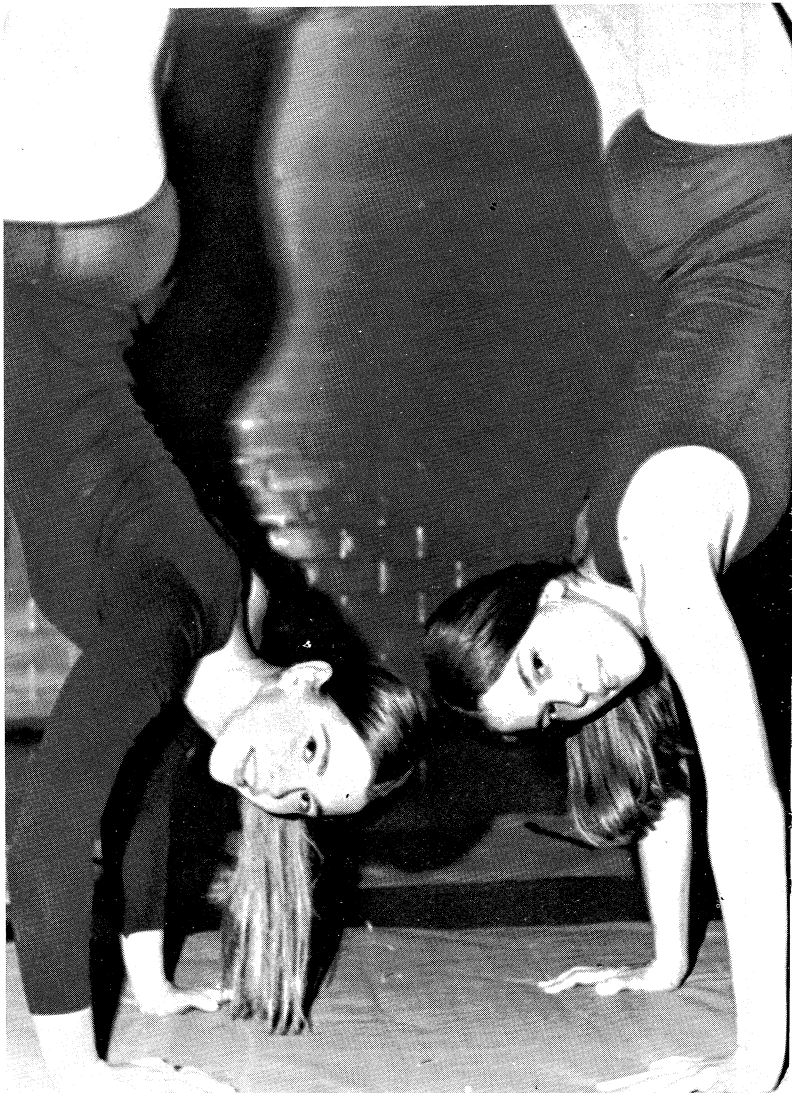

Taking roll, checking towels, making out grades, and leading exercises were some of the duties of the senior leaders. Meetings at 7:30 a.m. were hard at first but became easier as the year continued.

After finishing one year of junior leadership the girls knew how to run the office and officiate all sports offered by the physical education department. Swimming was offered this year for the first time and some girls got their W.S.I. and helped at Spalding pool.

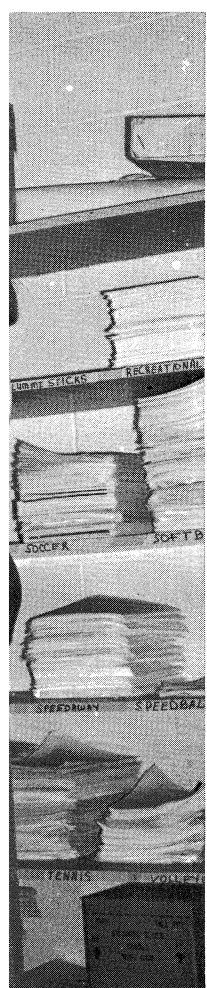

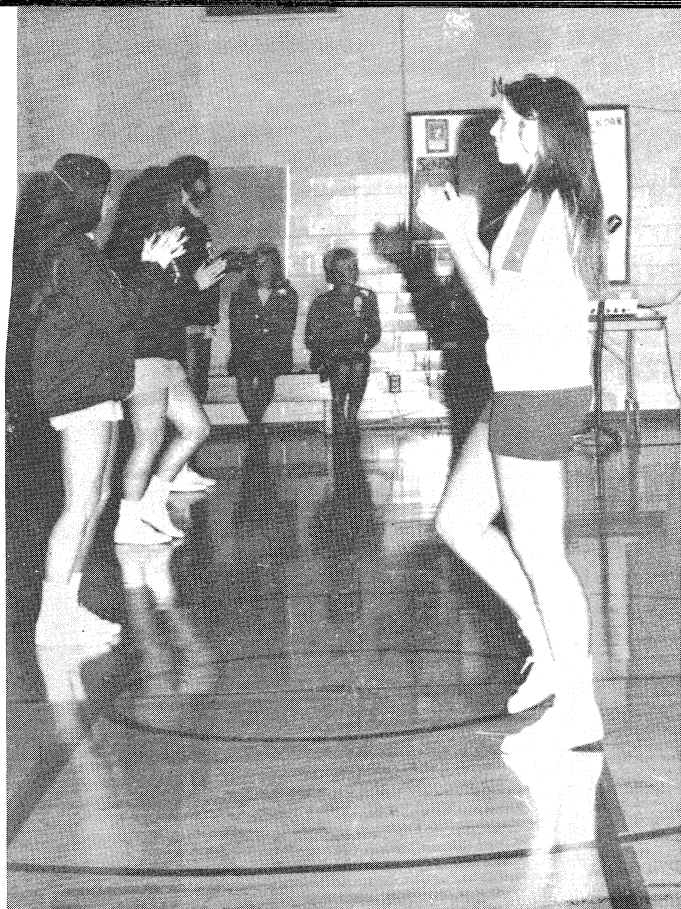

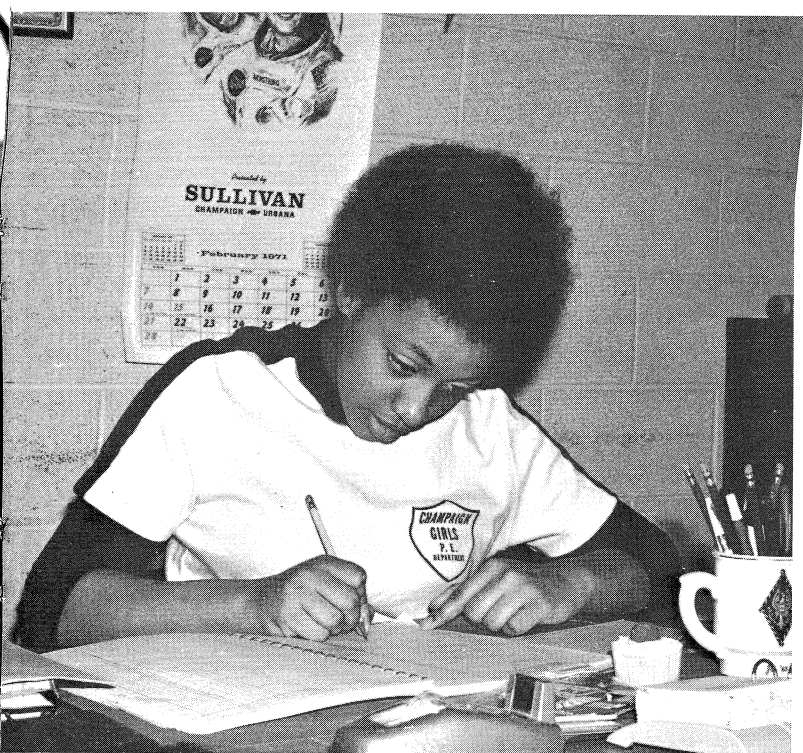

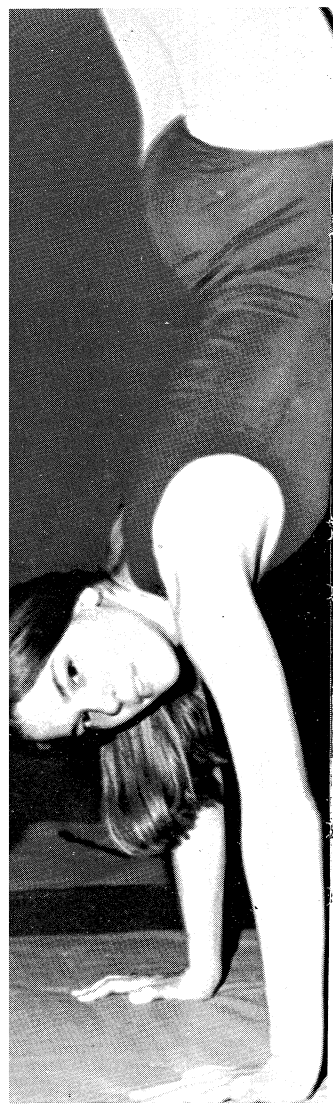

The girls helped with outside activities of the physical education department including a GAA sports day in February, the All-Star Basketball games, and Charm Week. The senior leaders participated with the junior leaders in a breakfast at the Ramada Inn.

Junior gym leaders Aspire to new goals

Junior leadership is the program fifty junior girls go through so that when they are seniors they can be senior leaders. These girls learned the histories, rules, officiating, and methods of play of all the sports the physical education department offers.

As juniors the girls learned the workings of the physical education office, how to take attendance, fill out white cards and first aid. During their junior year the girls helped with many activities of the physical education department. In class the girls practiced officiating sports and leading exercises.

Pepettes build spirit At CCHS this year

As CCHS's most active Pepette squad in years, the Pepettes have not only supported their teams but performed as well. Led by Pepette leaders Ellen Cleavenger, Carolyn Jackson, Janet Stevens, Debbie Smith, Karen Neely, and Cindy Wells the Pepettes performed at football and basketball halftimes. The forty-two girl squad combined march steps and dance steps to popular songs. They were asked to perform at PTA and band concerts. Early mornings and wet feet were all part of the procedure. Curlers, boots, and other odd things made the squad a sight on the football field every morning before a performance. Bake sales and a number of money making projects were tried in order to supplement a non-existing treasury.

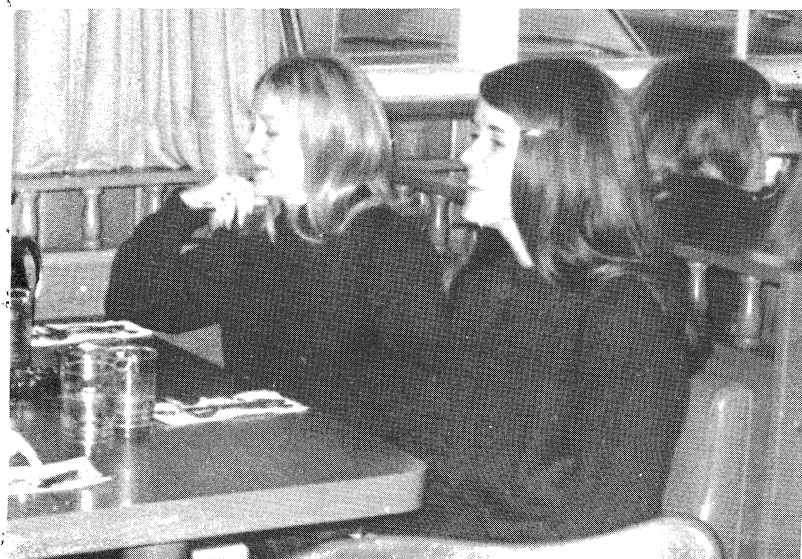

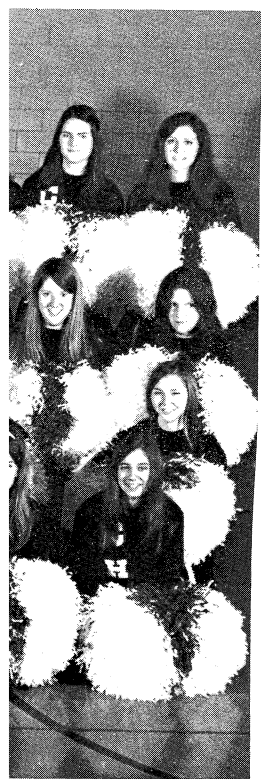

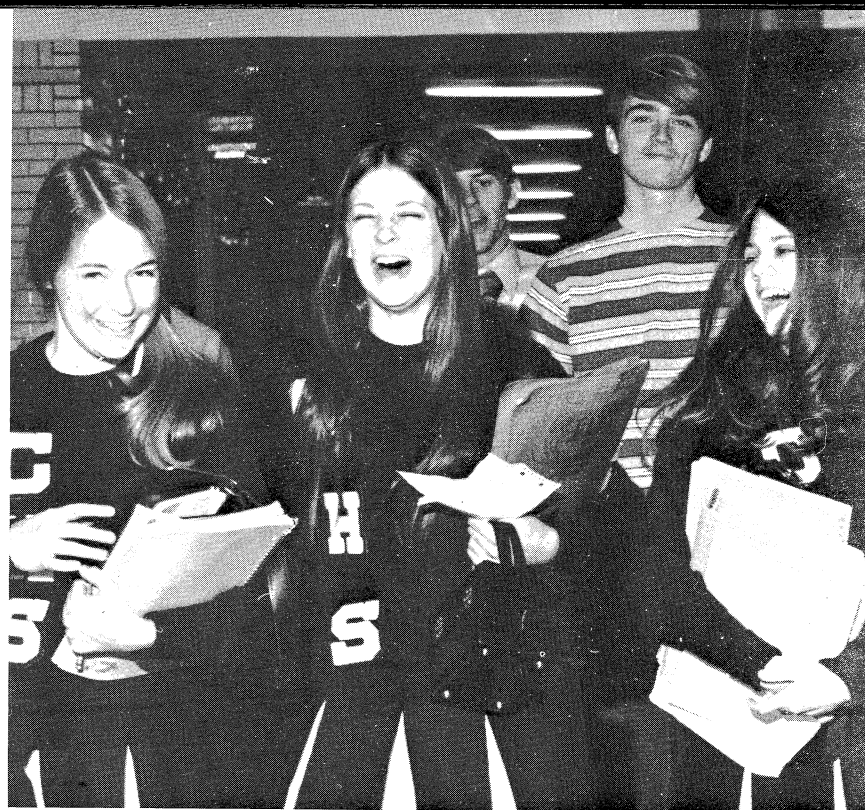

Breakfast at Uncle John's before the Homecoming game and meeting for suppers added to the spirit of the club. This year the group cheered themselves hoarse at the games and went all out to try to raise the lagging spirit at CCHS. They sat in cheering sections together and their spirit influenced the whole school.

Peparoons promote Spirit with contest

Seventy-five girls formed the core of the Central pep club, the Peparoons. Sponsored by Mrs. Pray the group has worked at promoting the lagging spirit at CCHS. For Homecoming and many other games they painted dozens of signs and posted them throughout the school. During the Homecoming week they declared Farmer's Day and encouraged everyone to come dressed as farmers, depicting the Mattoon Green Wave. The members dressed as farmers, decorated a car for class competition and were seen dining at Uncle John's afterwards. They have cheered loudly at assemblies and games in support of their teams.

The officers Diane Talbott, Traci Nally, Sue Haley, and Mary Leonberger worked to keep the club going. They were responsible for selecting and paying for the uniform of next year's Max Maroon. The Peparoons supported not only their teams but International Supper by being responsible for the Italian foods table. They gave the school the Big 12 Flags that are used during Homecoming. They supported their school by sponsoring the buses to away games. Their biggest effort came during Beat Urbana week. They initiated the first annual cheer contest. The Peparoons have done an outstanding job of promoting spirit.

The cheerleaders lead cheers at home and on pep buses to all away games. To make money they sold 1,000 sponges and had bake sales at lunches. Sophomores cheer boys on to victory

Under the new sponsorship of Miss Rasmussen, the sophomore cheerleaders were a very ambitious group. They were chosen in the fall by a group of teachers and students on the basis of their ability, grades, and enthusiasm. They practiced every Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday nights after school. Each girl had an opportunity to learn leadership skills as the girls took turns being captain. They were each captain for one week at a time. During this week the captain chose the cheers to be practiced, brought up business to be discussed and assigned the order of the cheers for the next game. The girls also practiced their tumbling for the 'sink it' cheers at their practices.

To make money the girls had bake sales in the cafeteria during lunch hours. They had a dinner for the Urbana sophomore cheerleaders in the Bresnan home before the Champaign-Urbana basketball game in February. Through many hours of practice the girls became an extremely talented and skilled group.

Sportsmen exhibit Stamina, mastery

The 1970 CHS gridders were an outstanding representation of fighting spirit. The Maroons gained a 7-2 season, even though they had been daunted to have a season of losses.

Champaign got off to a strong start early in the year with an upset of the Streator Bulldogs. There was excitement in the Joliet game, a game that Champaign seized its revenge for their last season loss to the west Joliet school. Central then suffered a loss to the Green-wave of Mattoon, a loss that dampered the Homecoming spirit. Out of the next two games Central suffered a loss to Danville and overcame the Lincoln Railsplitters with a win. The season ended with a satisfying win over the Urbana Tigers. Again Wright Street belongs to us, although there were moments in the game that put doubts to who the owner would be for the next year.

For the entire season the Maroons deserve the greatest respect and praise for all of their endeavors.

Cross-Country team rebuilds under new coach

Central's cross-country team, hampered by a late start and meager turnout, found themselves with a winless season.

With no returning lettermen, first year Coach Dike Stirret was faced with a rebuilding task. Coach Stirret, himself a well known distance runner, took part in most practices demonstrating new training techniques.

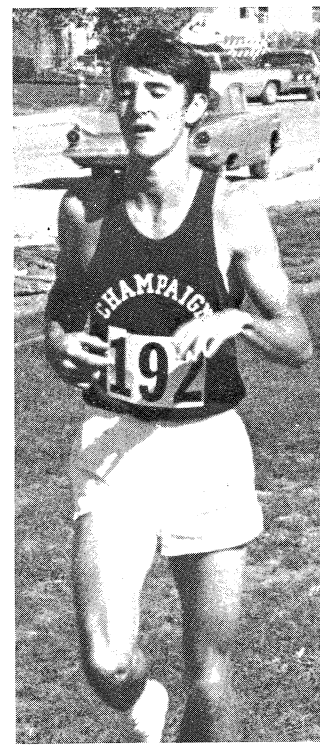

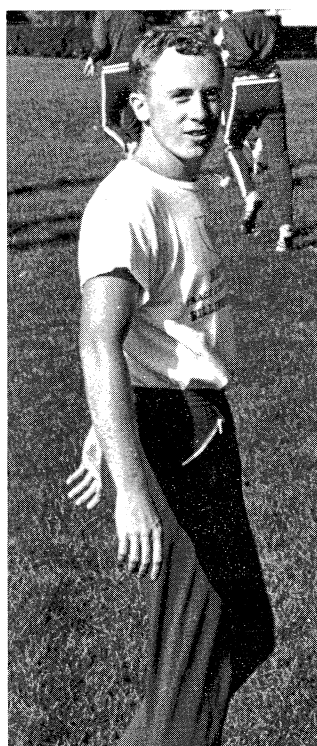

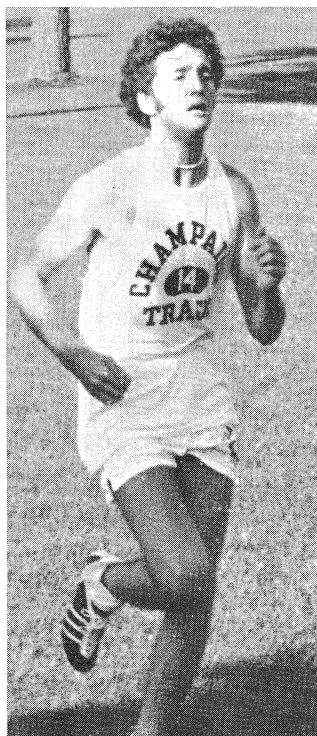

This year's team was composed of senior lettermen Dave Becker, John Malloy, Dave Keeling, Steve Ayers, George Kelley, and Jim Cobb. Returning next year will be lettermen Corey Davis and Mark Heimburger, along with John Barge, Steve Skaperdas and injury plagued Karl Broadrick.

Next season has a bright outlook for Central

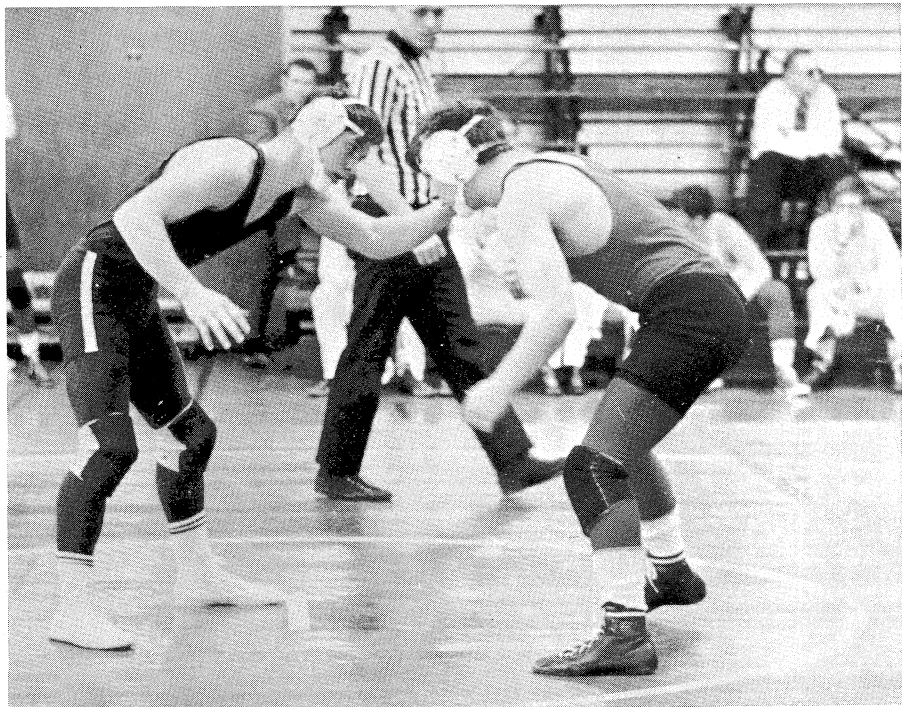

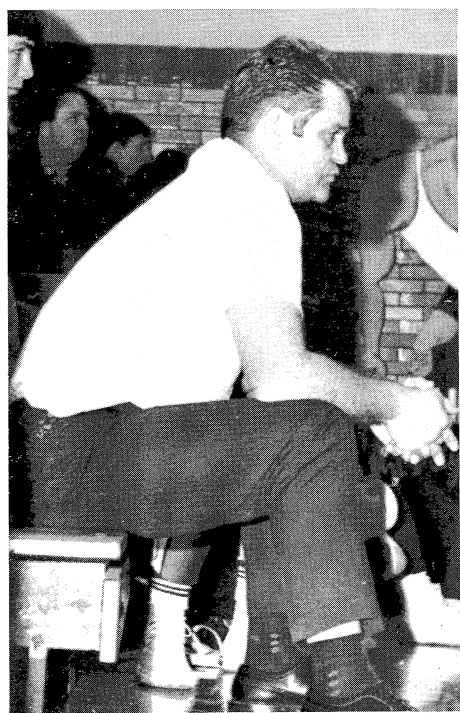

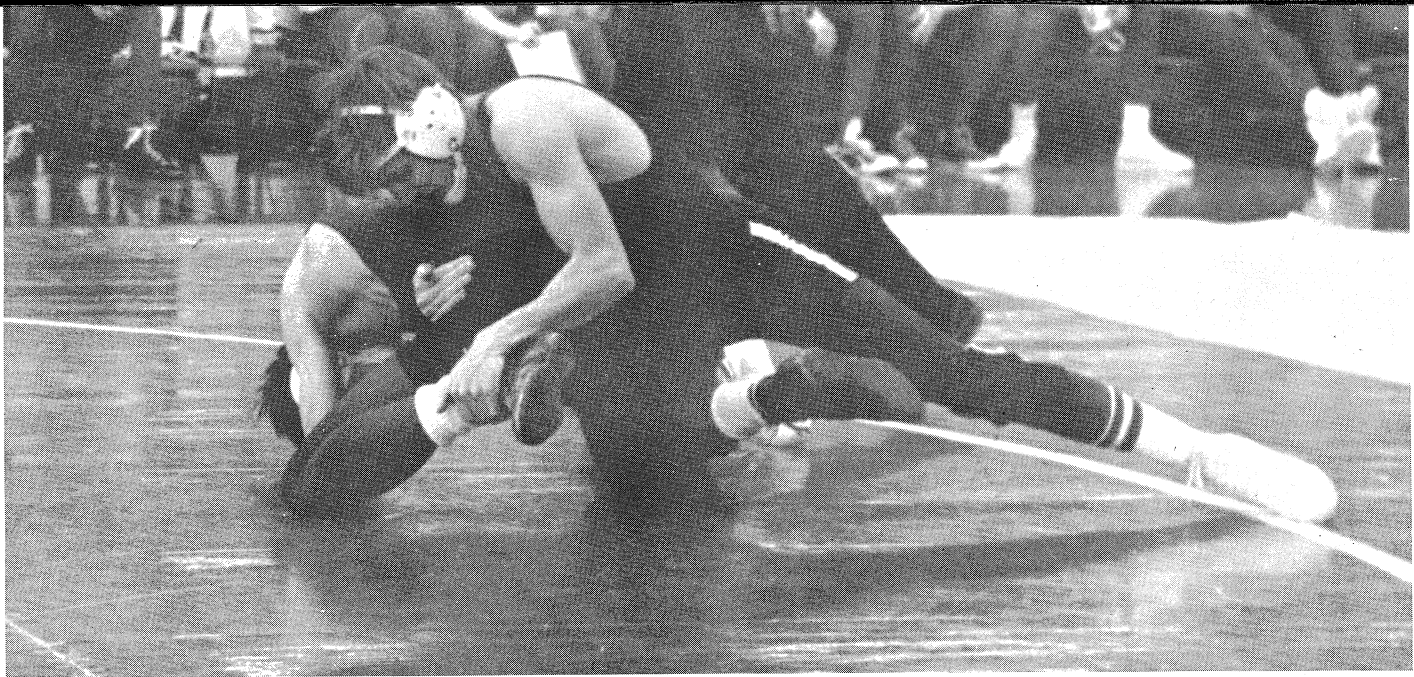

Central grapplers had a season of fair weather with a season slate. Coach Don Pittman coached the squad with the assistance of Mr. Dave Lindsey. This season could be classified as one of building. The matmen will only lose five members to graduation this year. Andy Warner, John Calcagno, Dan Graham, Rich Foley, and Tom Murray were the senior nucleus. Next season has a brighter outlook with the return of Randy Burwell, Jim Baldwin, John Walsh, Jim Petry, Ben Brown, Jim Gibson, Jack Moore, and Pat Murray.

Maintenance of high standards is foremost goal

The School Board members worked diligently to maintain the high standards of the Unit 4 school system. They determined the policies which affected thousands of students in the Unit 4 area. In the reaching of these decisions, the Board considered the growth rate of students per year, the need for an updated curriculum, and future expansion. The main problem right now is the changing of boundaries for students.

Dr. Marshall K. Berner, superintendent of Unit 4 Schools, was responsible for the execution of these policies. He saw that the jobs created by the school system were filled, prepared a budget, and kept the Board informed on school activities.

Cheerfulness counts

Coping with unpredictable situations was a job well met by Principal Bernard P. Fleener. His cheerful attitude and ability to get along with students bridged the gap between students and faculty which is vitally important to bring the school together to function as one unit. Mr. Fleener has contributed immensely to make Central an exceptional high school with a high standard of quality and stature.

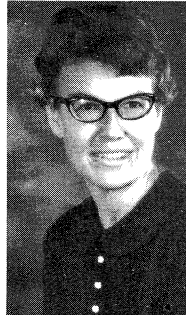

Administrative problems are evenly distributed

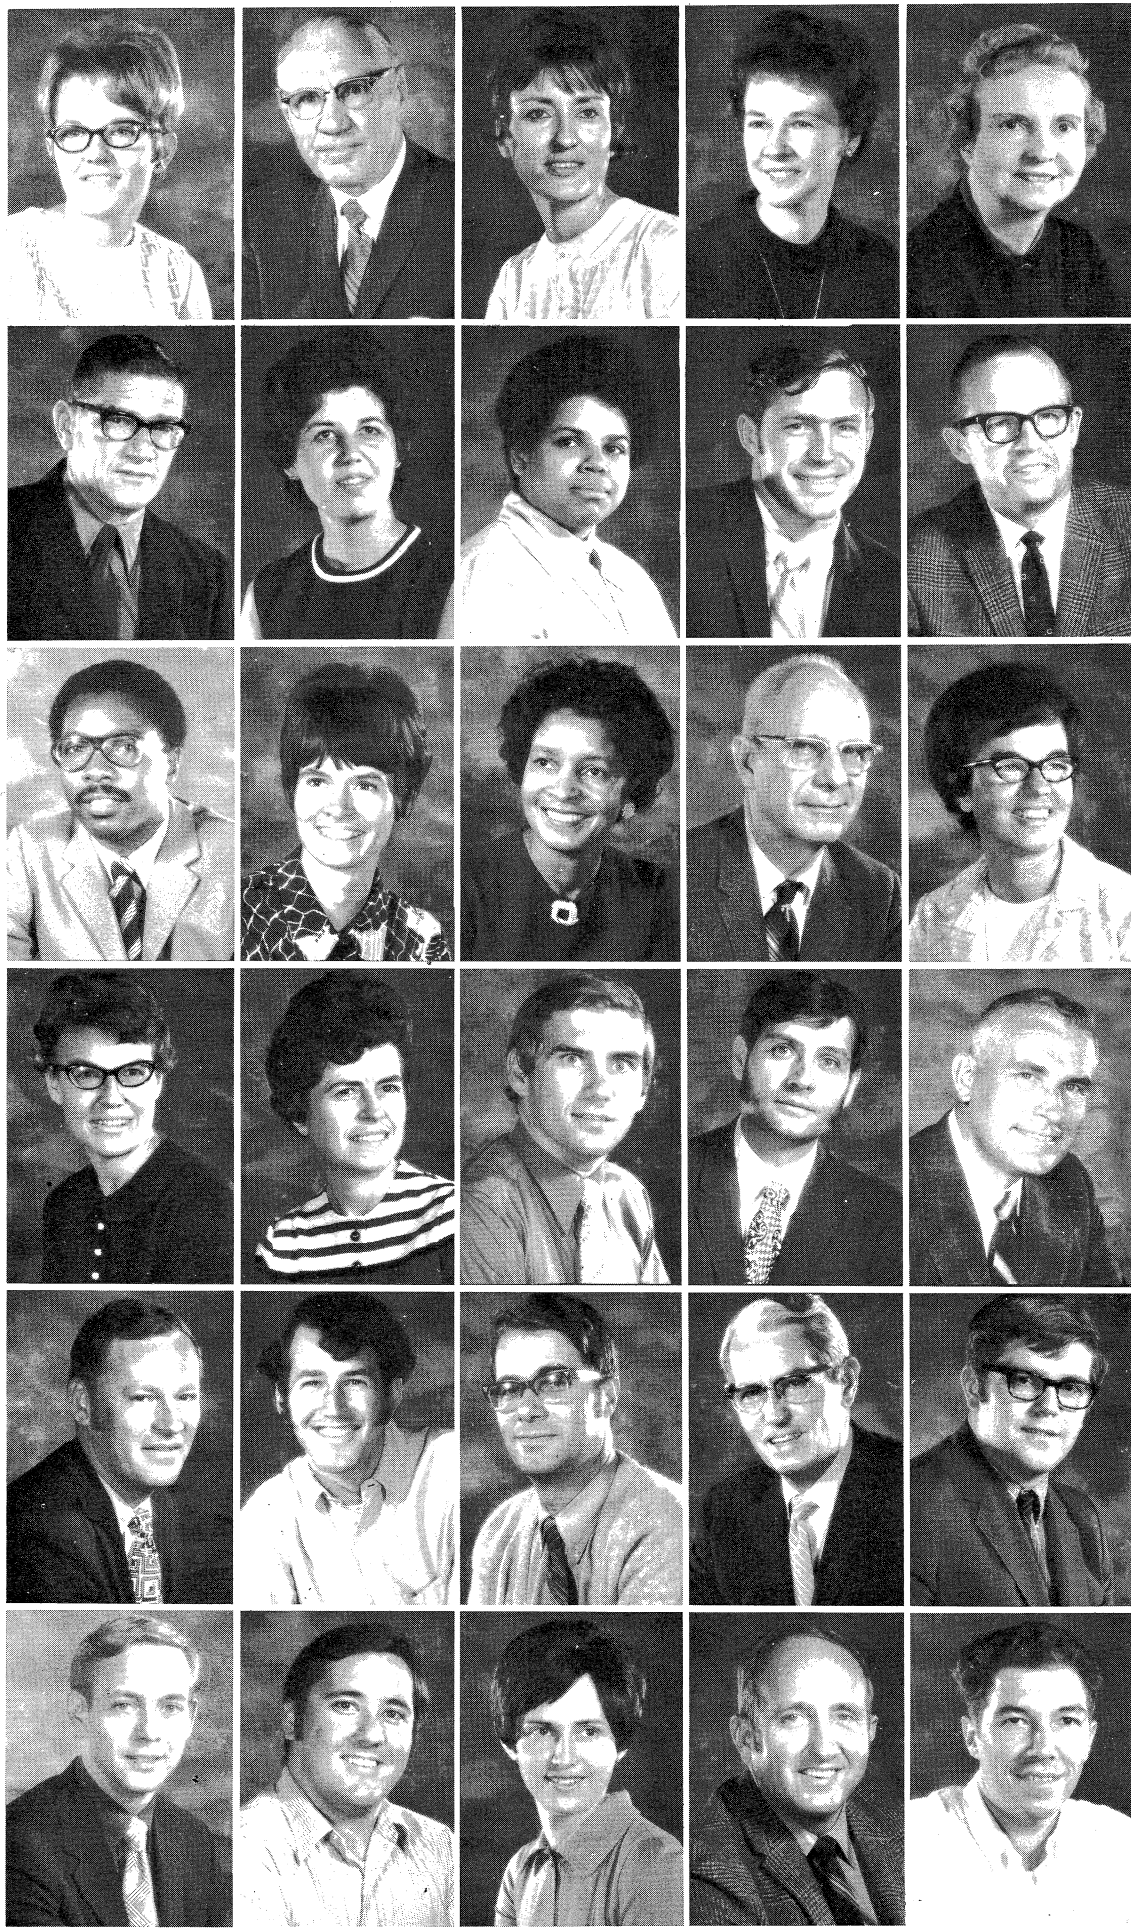

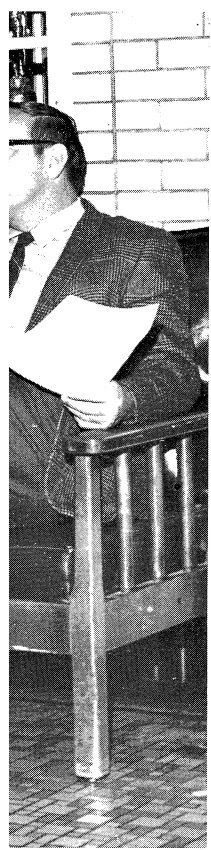

As each new year arrives, so does an avalanche of administrative problems. To aid our principal is Assistant Principal Carl Nelson. His main duties included the scheduling of classes and the arrangement of the school calendar. Mrs. Bertha Darsham, also an assistant principal, endeavored to help the girls of our school with their problems. Tom Gher completes the roster of administrators. Both Mrs. Darsham and Mr. Gher were often in contact with students while giving advice on school matters and personal help.

Secretaries discover they are irreplaceable

The secretaries were constantly busy in keeping up with the activities of students and faculty and maintaining contact with the outside world. Complicated measures were taken to insure that students remained at school during school hours. Secretaries agreed that machines will never be able to replace them. Machines could never cope with the unpredictable student.

Behind the scenes: stress on efficiency

The cafeteria staff was made up of ten regular employees who skillfully prepared the lunches at Central. Nearly 550 meals were sold in an average school day, thanks to our hard working staff under the supervision of Margaret Dean.

The custodian crew consisted of ten men who cooperated completely with students and faculty. Some of their jobs meant emptying countless garbage cans and sweeping miles of hallway each day. Our custodians, under the direction of George McCulley, performed the endless chores with cheerfulness and efficiency.

Sophomores

Sophomores climb to Greater achievements

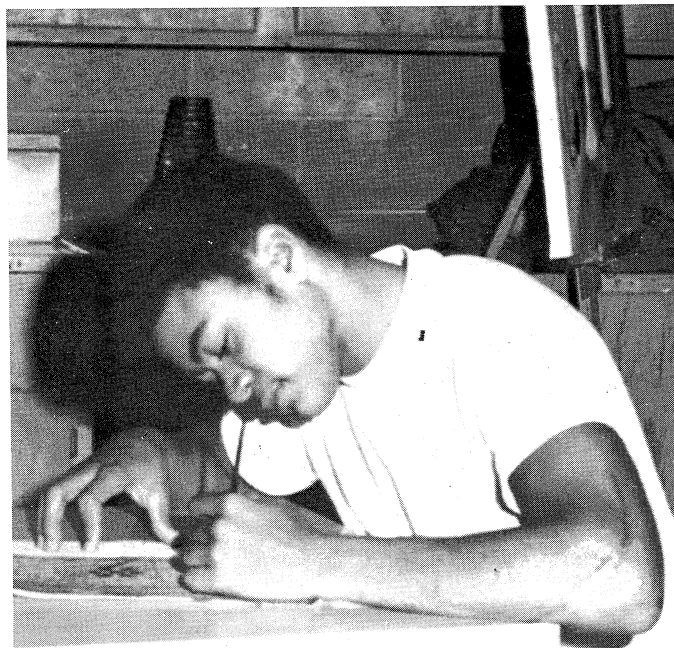

Being a sophomore finally meant realizing you're in high school. High school also brought with it many new and different changes. Sophomores welcomed five minute breaks joyously as they became accustomed to seventy minute classes. New courses and facilities meant double work as well as double homework.

Competition was very intense. Sophomore athletics had a lot to offer. Cheerleaders cheered their team on and created a lot of enthusiasm for cheering fans. Sophomores tried hard in class competition, but never quite made it. They tried to out yell the upper classmen in pep assemblies, decorated halls, and made up cheers.

Sophomores can look back on exam cramming, nerve racking rides with the driver education instructor, a worn-out math book, and differences with teachers while they look forward to the future.

Let the juniors rise High above the crowd

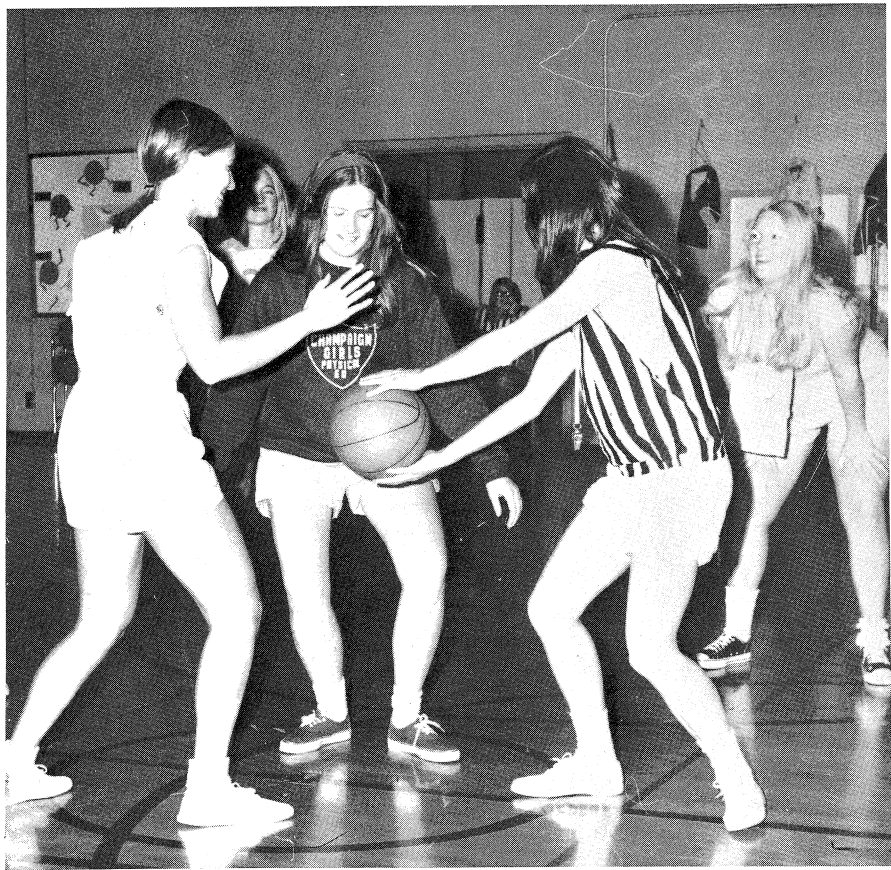

For many members of the Class of '72 their junior year was their busiest. The ordering and receiving of high school class rings, the arrangements for the attendance of the junior and senior prom, PSAT's and SAT's, and the worries of college admission. All the work that goes into those projects was hard and sometimes we could not see the light at the other end. However, the finished project was always worth the labor put into it.

Hard work and good times can go hand in hand, and the Junior Class showed just how this could be done by winning hall decorations and coming in first at the Beat Urbana basketball assembly. These were just a few of the results of the hard working juniors.

Today comes only once and never again returns . . .

Seniors

152 Seniors

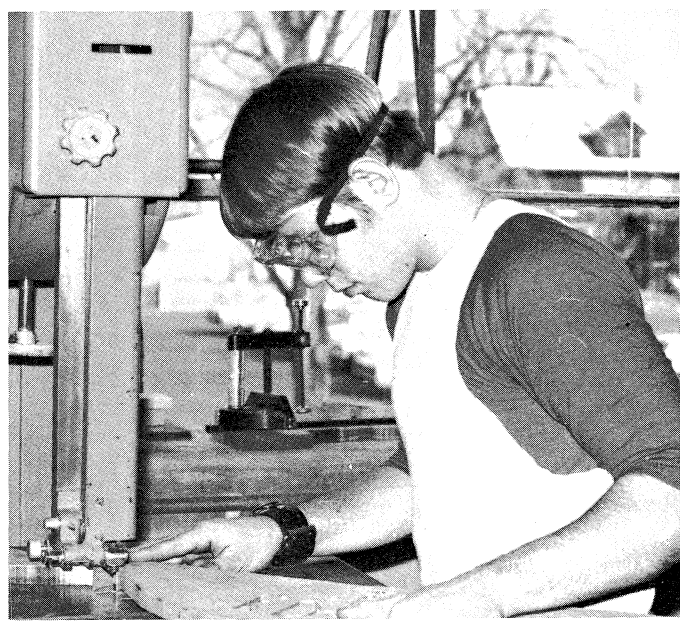

Active seniors are Seen around Central

Each member of the 1971 class began Central as lowly sophomores with great anticipation and excitement. Upon gaining self-confidence and friendships, we became more aware of the world and ourselves.

As juniors, we chose our class rings, began working, withstood losing class competitions by the skin of our teeth and began preparing our futures.

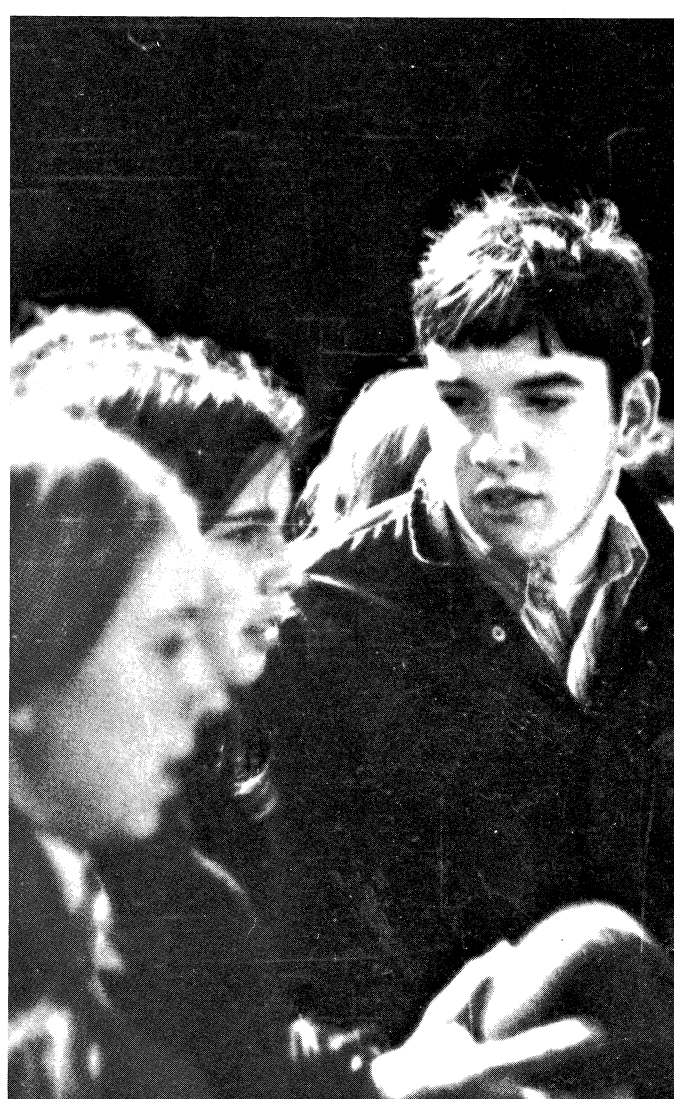

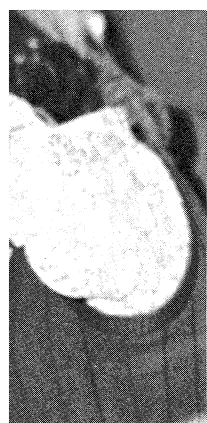

That last year at Central was the best! Rather than just having Senioritis in the spring, many of us had it all year. Somehow we endured those 70-minute periods, exams, lunches and grades. This was the year of the falling hemlines, mustaches, pierced ears and contact wearers. Participation in activities paid off in honors like Senior of the Month, scholarships, and recognition. Most of us recall the queens, last minute reports, assemblies, parties, games, dates, and finalizing our future plans. Now, as we depart, a little of Central is in us and hopefully we left some part of ourselves to be remembered.

Imagination and individuality create 1971 Maroon

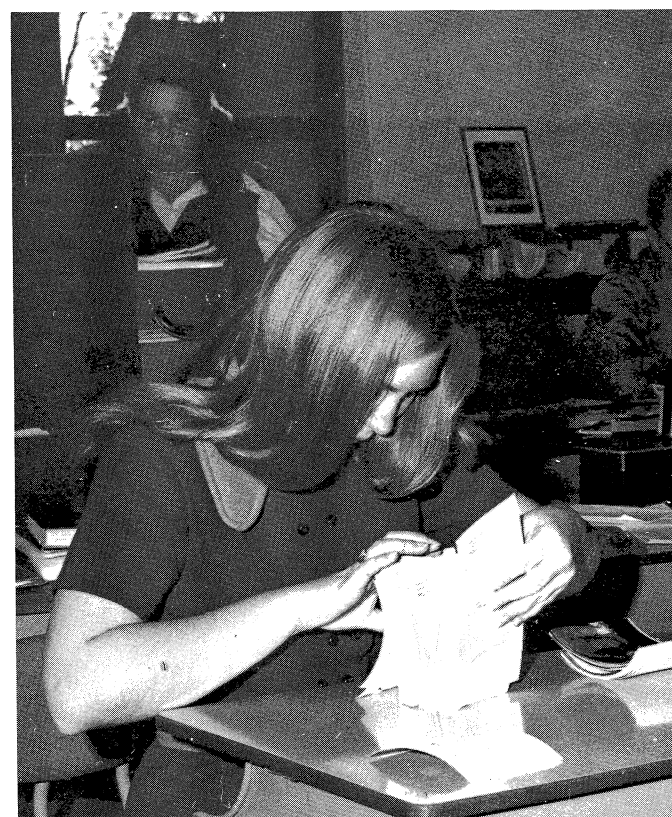

Developing an outstanding yearbook has been the goal of the Maroon staff this year. Many new ideas and changes were learned by editor-in-chief Peggy Schroeder when she attended yearbook workshop at Indiana University this past summer. Also, bringing back ideas from Ball State University were Diane Rigsby and Debbie Tempel. The whole staff benefitted from the annual ISHSPA convention held at the University of Illinois in the fall.

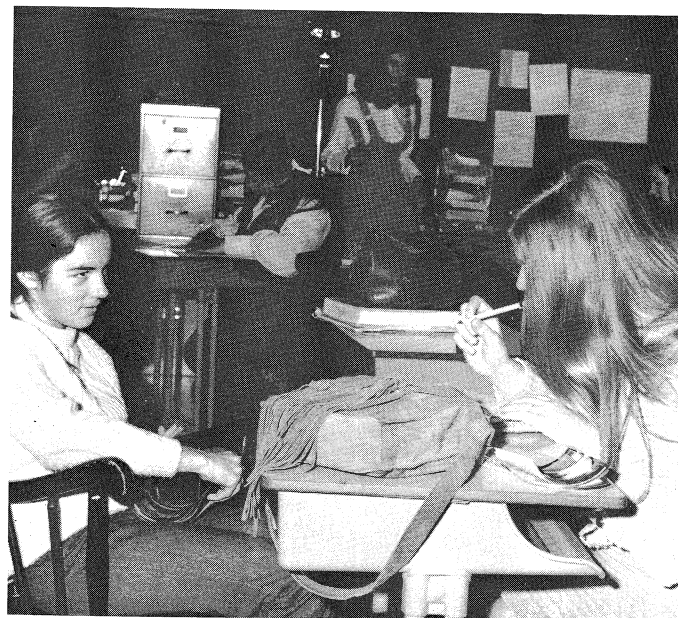

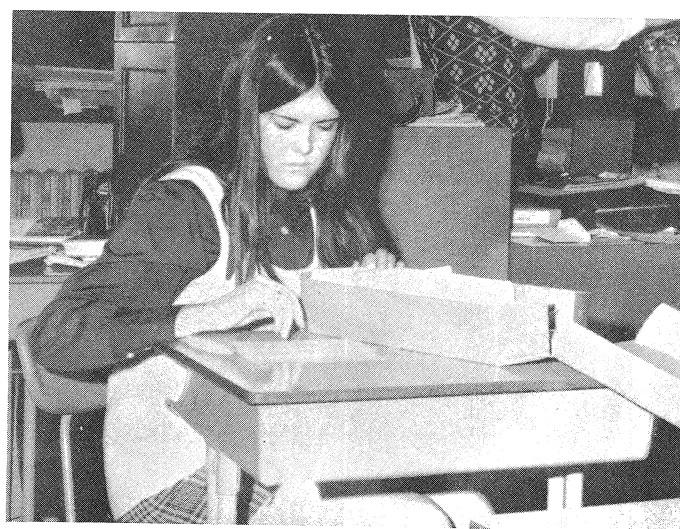

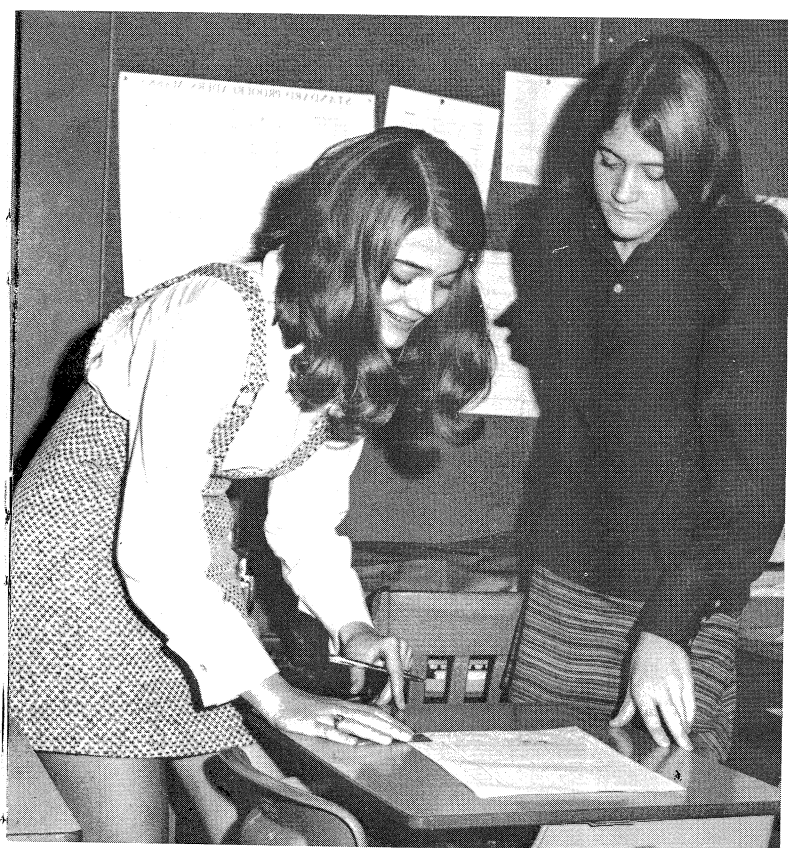

Room 105 has been the scene of continuous activity all year, every day and sometimes into the night. Writing captions, counting headlines, drawing layouts, rushing to meet deadlines and the editor and adviser editing the last piece of copy have all been a part of what seemed to be confusion and disorganization. However, these have all gone together to put out an attractive and unique yearbook. This is our book and your book — the 1971 Maroon.

Individuality is something each person strives to attain. This year the 1971 Maroon staff has achieved their individuality. Changes have been made in the 1971 Maroon to produce a bigger and better yearbook. Each member of the staff feels that the book is unique, and yet it conforms to the high standards and accomplishments for which Champaign Central High School is known.

At this time I would like to thank Mrs. Evelyn Kovar, our adviser, who tolerated us and all our problems and gave sound advice when needed. A special thanks goes to Mrs. Kovar who helped make it possible for me to attend a yearbook camp at Indiana University and for Diane Rigsby and Debbie Tempel to attend camp at Ball State University. Thanks goes to Mr. Mike Hackleman, yearbook representative from Delmar Printing Company, who helped us plan our book and answered many of our questions. I would also like to thank everyone involved in the preparation of this book.

The editors feel that the book is free of serious mistakes but apologize for any that can be found. The 1971 Maroon is filled with 192 pages of individuals; yet each individual combines to form a whole — Champaign Central High School.
